HOUSE BACKS IKE'S AIR FUND CUT

Truce Mission Seems Doomed To Failure

Robertson Due To Head Home This Weekend

Ike's Special Envoy Confers With Rhee For Seventh Time

SEOUL, Friday, July 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower's special envoy today conferred with President Syngman Rhee for the seventh and probably final time in an effort to get the intractable South Korean leader to support an immediate armistice in Korea.

Walter S. Robertson, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, entered the hilltop presidential mansion at 10:30 a. m., (8:30 p. m. EST, Thursday).

He was accompanied by Ambassador Robert Murphy, political adviser to Gen. Mark Clark, and by U. S. Ambassador to Korea Ellis O. Briggs.

Before today's meeting with the 78-year-old Rhee it appeared that the special mission to gain South Korean accord on a truce was on the verge of failure. And the Communists have delayed replying to an Allied invitation to set a date for signing the armistice document.

Unification Big Issue

Robertson was expected to head back for Washington this week end.

Six preceding talks had made some progress but at last stalled on a monumental issue—peaceful unification of Korea.

Rhee seemed to want a virtual guarantee by the U. S. that Korea would be united after the fighting ends. Robertson turned down the demand.

Eisenhower pledged in a letter to Rhee June 6 that the U. S. would work for unification at a post-armistice political conference with the Reds. But he gave no ironclad guarantee that unification would be achieved.

A U. S. Embassy spokesman said to his knowledge "there is no new proposal" being drafted by Robertson to overcome South Korean objections.

Reds Still Balking

Informed sources said Thursday Robertson would leave for home by Saturday regardless of the success or failure of his mission.

Washington has made it clear that the U. S. will seek a truce signing, whether or not Rhee concurs.

The U. N. Command still must smooth the way to an armistice with the Reds. The bulky truce document, worked out in two years of negotiations, is ready to be signed. But the Reds want some outside demands met before they will put their pen to the paper.

Unofficially, North Korea twice has spurned Gen. Mark Clark's call last Monday for a quick truce signing. But Red China has made no comment and there has been no official response from Communist truce headquarters.

Alleged Attack On Clergy Stirs Senate Probers

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Democratic members of the Senate investigations subcommittee today accused J. B. Matthews, the subcommittee's new staff director, of making "a shocking and unwarranted attack against the American clergy."

Matthews, in an article published in the July issue of American Mercury, asserted: "The largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestant clergymen."

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), the subcommittee chairman, immediately came to Matthews' defense in a statement.

Subversion "Authority"

The Wisconsin senator said "Dr. Matthews has the reputation of being one of the most outstanding authorities, if not the outstanding authority, on subversion in the United States."

Earlier Senators McClellan (D-Ark), Symington (D-Mo) and Jackson (D-Wash) joined in a statement saying Matthews' charges regarding clergymen could not be supported by the facts.

The Democrats asked that the subcommittee be called into executive session as quickly as possible "to consider appropriate action."

Matthews was staff director of the House Un-American Activities Committee when it was under the chairmanship of Rep.Dies (D-Tex).

Article Is Quoted

The Mercury article said that in the last 17 years "the Communist party has enlisted the support of at least 7,000 Protestant clergymen . . . (as) party members, fellow-travelers, espionage agents, party-line adherents, and unwitting dupes."

"It hardly needs to be said," the article said at a later point, "that the vast majority of American clergymen are loyal to the free institutions of this country. . ."

McCarthy's statement made no reference to the request for a subcommittee meeting, but he praised Matthews as "a loyal member of the Protestant faith" and said that for "over the past nine years he has been a constant consultant of practically every government intelligence agency.

Senate Votes To Keep Trade Act In Effect

Year's Extension Of Law, Asked By Ike, Is Approved

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed a year's extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Law requested by President Eisenhower.

Passage was by voice vote. The bill now goes to a Senate-House conference to iron out differences between the Senate version and the House bill.

In approving the measure, the Senate specified that the President shall have authority to clamp down import quotas or to impose higher duties promptly to protect some U. S. farm products against foreign competition.

Kefauver's Move Loses

Just before final passage, the Senate shouted down an attempt by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) to liberalize the terms of the legislation.

Kefauver wanted a three-year extension and also sought to eliminate the so-called "peril point" provision—a section which requires the President to ask the Tariff Commission for a study of each duty he proposes to lower in a foreign trade pact.

Debate opened today with strong bipartisan backing for the administration measure. The present law expired June 12, although existing trade agreements are not affected.

Law Sponsored By Demos

Eisenhower has asked for a 12-month extension while his experts search for "more effective solutions" to world economic problems.

The Reciprocal Trade Act is a law sponsored by the Roosevelt-Truman administrations to expand the international exchange of goods by mutual agreements lowering tariffs and other trade barriers. Under the law the President can negotiate such agreements with foreign nations without submitting them to Congress.

Kidnaped Baby Found; Girl Held

OCEANSIDE, Calif., July 2 (AP) — A baby boy taken from his buggy today was found a few hours later and an 18 - year - old wife was charged with child stealing.

Police reported recovery of 2-months-old Charles Dayton, son of Marine Cpl. and Mrs. Charles Vernon Dayton.

Booked on the child stealing charge was Mrs. Mary Catherine Blair, wife of another Marine, Pvt. James C. Blair.

"I just wanted a baby," officers quoted Mrs. Blair, a bride of 10 months.

They said she admitted taking the infant from its buggy in front of a department store at noon, while the mother was inside for five minutes ordering a book on infant care.

Mrs. Blair and baby were first reported seen at Camp Pendleton, where the Marines are stationed, and was later picked up after the baby was left in the automobile of Mrs. Mary M. Cathcart here. Mrs. Cathcart called police.

Mrs. Dayton came here from Atlantic City, N. J., 14 months ago to be with her Marine husband.

Nudism Wins Round In Row With Postmaster General

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP) — A woman judge today awarded nudism a preliminary round in its legal fight with Postmaster General Summerfield.

U. S. District Judge Burnita S. Matthews listened attentively to the legal arguments, but gave scant attention to the exhibits Then she ruled that maybe Summerfield did wrong by nudism.

The judge held up, pending further argument, a Post Office Department order cutting off the mails to Sunshine & Health and Sun, magazines which plug the cause of nudism with stories illustrated by photographs of unclad men and women. She told opposing lawyers to show up again July 13 for further argument.

Atty. O. John Rogge, no nudist himself, spoke for Sunshine & Health and Sun.

Rogge called the magazines "serious publications" containing learned discussions on whether people would be healthier and happier, if they practiced nudism.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Thomas J. O'Connell handed the judge copies of the magazines. She shoved them aside as far as her arm could reach.

"Obscenity is a matter that can be determined by the court merely by reading the book," O'Connell said. The judge gave a quick side-glance at one of the magazines, then put it aside again.

Rogge said that cutting off the mails of the magazines would destroy them.

"Even though we disagree with them, I don't think we should destroy them," he said. "Who knows, maybe they are right."

Rogge said we now laugh at bathing suits such as grandma wore, and that perhaps we'll laugh in the years to come because people ever wore bathing suits.

30,000 Chinese Nationalist Troops Released By French

U. S. Sabre Jets Blast Communist Tank Regiment

SEOUL, Friday, July 3 (AP)—U. S. Sabres in a surprise strike caught a Chinese armored regiment—possibly 30 to 40 tanks—massed in a valley on the Western Front yesterday and plastered it with bombs.

One explosion rocked the valley, and a great pall of smoke and dust arose, making it impossible to assess the damage wrought. Sabre pilots said they scored a number of hits on the tanks after bombs had ripped away camouflage nets that covered the valley.

Ground action all along the front decreased sharply, but U. S. and South Korean artillery pounded ceaselessly Thursday night at Chinese troops trying to fortify Lookout Mountain on the East-Central Front.

Reds Braced For Attack

AP Correspondent John Randolph reported from the front that the South Koreans held off an attack while artillery and mortar fire worked over the 1,600-foot hill which commands Allied roads leading to the main lines on the East-Central Front.

The Chinese won back the crest of Lookout early Wednesday and have been bracing against an expected Republic of Korea counter-attack ever since.

Thousands of Chinese and South Koreans have been fighting viciously for Lookout since last week. Great shell concentrations have brought heavy casualties.

No Air Battles Reported

Randolph said flare ships lit up Lookout and Finger Ridge to the west. A Chinese company attacked on Finger without artillery preparation after dark Thursday night and was roughly handled.

U. S. Sabre jets reported no battles with MIGs Thursday but it was Sabre fighter-bombers that took on the tanks in a valley near Sibyon, 15 miles northwest of Chorwon.

The Fifth Air Force said 22 Sabres dropped 44 bombs which "blasted a tank regiment."

The Air Force said, however, it could not confirm that 30 or 40 Red tanks actually were in the valley.

Report Detroit Will Get No More Defense Contracts Denounced

DETROIT, July 2 (AP) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams, city officials, and businessmen today joined union leaders in a bitter denunciation of a report that the Pentagon and Air Force would shun the Detroit area on future defense contracts because of "labor union abuses."

Williams joined Mayor Albert E. Cobo and union officials in expressing belief that Detroit labor could produce as efficiently or more efficiently than labor elsewhere.

The reported "shunning of the Detroit area" for future defense contracts reportedly grew out of the Air Force's recent decision to cancel multi - million dollar aircraft production contracts with the Kaiser Motor Corp.

Four U. S. Airmen Die In Stratojet Crash

UPPER HEYFORD, England, July 2 (AP) — A U. S. Air Force Stratojet atom bomber gliding in for a routine landing suddenly nose-dived and exploded on a railroad line today, scattering burning wreckage over a mile of tracks. All four airmen aboard were killed.

The mighty six-engined B47 jet plane, the world's fastest bomber, piled up and blocked traffic on the railroad, about a mile from the runways of this U. S. Strategic Air Command base.

An Air Force spokesman said the bomber carried the normal crew of three—pilot, co-pilot and radar-navigator—and a crew chief "who had just come along for the ride."

Patricia Neal Weds

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—Stage and screen actress Patricia Neal, 27, and writer Rouald Dahl, 36, were married here today. They plan to leave for a European honeymoon tomorrow.

Bobby Goes Home

Two-year-old Bobby Ashton just doesn't understand why his foster-father should be crying, or why he should be greeted at the door by photographer's flash cameras, as he is carried out by his grandmother, Mrs. Estelle Roberts Ashton, to "go for a ride." Bobby didn't know that he was being carried by a grandmother he had never seen—going to the arms of a mother who had never held him. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kubach, of Armore, near Philadelphia, surrendered Bobby to his grandmother yesterday, to be taken to his mother, Mildred E. Ashton, as the final result of long and bitter litigation. The Kubachs had him as a foster child since one week after his birth.

Foster Parents Give Up Boy, 2, By Court Order

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP)—Two-year-old Bobby Ashton, who has lived with well-to-do foster parents since he was a week old, was returned to his mother today by order of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

Bobby left his foster parents in the arms of a grandmother he had never seen—going to the arms of a mother who had never held him.

His unwed mother, Mildred E. Ashton, 27, of Drexel Hill, had threatened through an attorney yesterday to seek further court action unless the youngster's foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kubach of suburban Ardmore, returned her son immediately.

Lower Court Reversed

Montgomery County Court previously had upheld the adoption on the basis of two "consent and assignment" papers signed by Miss Ashton, but the Supreme Court unanimously ruled the adoption illegal after the young mother claimed she never intended to give her baby away.

The grief-stricken Kubachs tried to stay the order by petitioning the Supreme Court to re-hear arguments but were turned down today.

Kubach Weeps

Tears streamed down Kubach's face when Miss Ashton's mother called at the 15-room Kubach home for the child. Kubach handed her a pasteboard box. It contained some of young Bobby's favorite toys, a bottle of vitamin pills and a rag doll.

Mrs. Kubach, apparently near collapse, did not make an appearance when the boy was taken away.

Soldiers Taken From Indochina Isle To Formosa

SAIGON, Indochina, July 2 (AP)—Thirty thousand Chinese Nationalist troops, a well-trained and valuable addition to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's army, have been transported in war-like secrecy to Formosa after being interned four years on an Indochinese island.

A dispatch from Taipeh, Formosa, gave the number of Nationalists returned as 20,000, and quoted the official Central News Agency as saying U. S. warships conveyed the troops after they left Indochinese waters. The Nationalists apparently were playing down the military importance of the movement.

Carried In Chinese Ships

The soldiers were carried to the Nationalist island stronghold in Chinese merchant ships without naval escort, and the operation was conducted in secrecy to prevent Communist interference.

The long-delayed repatriation began May 24 and the last ship sailed from Indochina on June 22.

The Chinese, part of an army group commanded by Gen. Pai Chung-hsia, fled into northern Indochina in 1949 when defeated by the Communists. Thirty-one generals, 1,300 officers and 1,700 women and children were among them.

Fearful of provoking a Chinese Communist invasion, the French refused their offer to fight the Communist-led Vietminh in Indochina, disarmed them and removed them to the small island of Phy Quoc, 12 miles off the Cambodian coast of South Indochina.

U. N. Action Decides French

About 1,000 agreed to work on plantations or in mines in Indochina, but the rest preferred internment. The Chinese were governed almost completely by Gen. Ho Chou-pen, their leader. A small guard of only about 200 French Union troops was maintained. Relations between the Chinese and guards was not good and there were several incidents.

But the French hesitated to rid themselves of their charges despite numerous protests against their detention by Chiang.

The repatriation was decided upon by French authorities when the United Nations General Assembly voted on April 23 for a resolution calling for the evacuation of about 12,000 Chinese Nationalists from Burma.

Motorist Given Unpleasant Shock

GAINESVILLE, Ga., July 2 (AP)—"Keep your arm inside the car while driving," was the advice today of an Atlanta man who lost an arm when a truck sideswiped his automobile Sunday night.

David G. Husley is recovering in a hospital here.

"I didn't know my arm was gone until I turned around to chase the truck," the 200-pound Hulsey said. "When I shifted gears I pulled my arm in from the window and noticed that it was cut off above the elbow."

Stubborn Indianapolis Fire Fought 10 Hours

INDIANAPOLIS, July 2 (AP)—Firemen fought 10 hours today before getting control over a fire that ate through the Canary Cottage restaurant and bar on Monument Circle.

Estimates of damage ran up to $200,000, and dozens of firemen were overcome by smoke or cut by breaking glass.

Irish Cheers, Bomb Blast, Power Failure Greet Queen

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 2 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II was greeted in Northern Ireland today with a thunder of cheers, an anti-royalist bomb blast and a mystery power failure that paralyzed Belfast just as she arrived in the city.

The bomb ripped up 250 yards of the main Dublin-Belfast rail line just north of the Irish republic's border. The Queen was 50 miles away at the time, but the line was scheduled to carry 60 trains today, many of them bringing excursionists to her coronation visit.

Police said propaganda - seeking nationalists, who are bitter at Northern Ireland's homage to royalty and want the northern counties united with the Irish republic, were up to their old tricks.

Belfast's giant harbor power house fizzled out of action at 10:15 a.m. just as the Queen and her husband the Duke of Edinburgh, entered the city limits from nearby Government House, where they are staying during their three-day visit.

Anxious police immediately strengthened the already strong security net around the royal party. Guards were doubled along the 90-mile rail line the Queen is due to travel tomorrow from Belfast to Londonderry.

City Police Commissioner Albert Kennedy said he was satisfied the power house fault was accidental. But a statement from the city electricity department said the "cause is ta present unknown."

The bomb caused less trouble. It exploded at 2 a.m. Engineers hustled to get the track relaid and within a few hours trains were running again.

Neither power cut nor explosion caused any casualties, but the power cut threatened the Queen's luncheon. Chefs preparing a civic banquet at Belfast's City Hall had to rescue the food from cooling electric ovens and heat it up again by gas.

$34.4 Billion Arms Budget Is Approved

President's Military Prestige Survives Crucial Test, 230-161

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—The Republican-dominated House rolled up a major victory for President Eisenhower today when it approved his five-billion-dollar slash in Air Force funds for the next 12 months.

Then it passed a $34,434,000,000 bill to finance all the armed forces.

By a roll call vote of 230 to 161, the chamber rejected a Democratic-led move to restore $1,175,000,000 of the five billion reduction recommended by the Eisenhower administration.

The vote marked the end of the first phase in the bitter dispute over the administration's call for a reduced Air Force budget—a move hotly challenged by top brass of the Air Force.

Senate To Act Later

The Senate will act later.

Five Republicans sided with 156 Democrats in voting to restore part of the Air Force's funds. Voting against the amendment were 196 Republicans, 33 Democrats and one independent.

That was the crucial test in the battle over air power.

Final passage of the over-all defense bill came on a roll call vote of 386 to 0.

Earlier, the House approved cuts of more than a billion dollars in funds requested by Eisenhower to run the Army and Navy for the 1954 fiscal year which began July 1.

The chamber upheld the reductions as it tentatively approved an over-all budget of $34,434,140,500 for the three branches of the armed services — $12,982,000,000 for the Army, $9,383,383,000 for the Navy, and $11,048,000,000 for the Air force. In addition, the House approved $1,019,500,000 for the secretary of defense.

Ike's Prestige At Stake

The total is six billion dollars less than former President Truman requested in his final budget recommendations before he left office last Jan. 20 and $1,300,000,000 less than Eisenhower set forth as his "minimum" requests for national defense.

With Eisenhower's military prestige at stake, the House in effect threw its support behind the administration's new "interim" goal of a 120-wing Air Force. By the same token, it rejected a contention by Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, retired Air Force chief of staff, that rapid building of 143 wings is essential to the nation's security.

In rapid succession, the House defeated a series of four amendments by Rep.Mahon (D-Tex) seeking to restore $1,175,000,000 which Gen. Vandenberg had described as the minimum new money needed to work for 143 wings by mid-1957.

Wings vary in size from 30 bombers to 75 fighter planes.

Transit Strike Ends At St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, July 2 (AP)—The two-day wildcat walkout of St. Louis' bus and streetcar operators appeared at an end late today as many of the employes returned to their jobs as ordered by union officers.

Buses and streetcars returned to the streets shortly before the evening rush hour began.

There was, however, no assurance that the strike was at an end. Some dissensions still apparent among the 1,600 AFL operators who attended a meeting today at which Arthur J. Carroll, president of the union, and other officers ordered the men back to work.

The order was greeted with boos and cheers.

The operators had defied union leaders by staging the strike yesterday. Carroll and other officers termed it an unauthorized walkout.

Blind Youth Lost Overnight Found

HOQUIAM, Wash., July 2 (AP)—Eighteen - year - old Gary Willis, blind youth missing overnight in rugged woodland country north of Hoquiam, was found alive and in good condition this afternoon.

The report was telephoned to the office of Sheriff Richard Simmons.

The youth, who became lost while hunting for cascara bark which he could identify by touch and smell, heard searching parties last night but was unable to reach them.

He had followed a creek in the wrong direction.

Senate Votes To Keep Trade Act In Effect

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP) — A woman judge today awarded nudism a preliminary round in its legal fight with Postmaster General Summerfield.

U. S. District Judge Burnita S. Matthews listened attentively to the legal arguments, but gave scant attention to the exhibits Then she ruled that maybe Summerfield did wrong by nudism.

The judge held up, pending further argument, a Post Office Department order cutting off the mails to Sunshine & Health and Sun, magazines which plug the cause of nudism with stories illustrated by photographs of unclad men and women. She told opposing lawyers to show up again July 13 for further argument.

Atty. O. John Rogge, no nudist himself, spoke for Sunshine & Health and Sun.

Rogge called the magazines "serious publications" containing learned discussions on whether people would be healthier and happier, if they practiced nudism.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Thomas J. O'Connell handed the judge copies of the magazines. She shoved them aside as far as her arm could reach.

"Obscenity is a matter that can be determined by the court merely by reading the book," O'Connell said. The judge gave a quick side-glance at one of the magazines, then put it aside again.

Rogge said that cutting off the mails of the magazines would destroy them.

"Even though we disagree with them, I don't think we should destroy them," he said. "Who knows, maybe they are right."

Rogge said we now laugh at bathing suits such as grandma wore, and that perhaps we'll laugh in the years to come because people ever wore bathing suits.

30,000 Chinese Nationalist Troops Released By French

U. S. Sabre Jets Blast Communist Tank Regiment

SEOUL, Friday, July 3 (AP)—U. S. Sabres in a surprise strike caught a Chinese armored regiment—possibly 30 to 40 tanks—massed in a valley on the Western Front yesterday and plastered it with bombs.

One explosion rocked the valley, and a great pall of smoke and dust arose, making it impossible to assess the damage wrought. Sabre pilots said they scored a number of hits on the tanks after bombs had ripped away camouflage nets that covered the valley.

Ground action all along the front decreased sharply, but U. S. and South Korean artillery pounded ceaselessly Thursday night at Chinese troops trying to fortify Lookout Mountain on the East-Central Front.

Reds Braced For Attack

AP Correspondent John Randolph reported from the front that the South Koreans held off an attack while artillery and mortar fire worked over the 1,600-foot hill which commands Allied roads leading to the main lines on the East-Central Front.

The Chinese won back the crest of Lookout early Wednesday and have been bracing against an expected Republic of Korea counter-attack ever since.

Thousands of Chinese and South Koreans have been fighting viciously for Lookout since last week. Great shell concentrations have brought heavy casualties.

No Air Battles Reported

Randolph said flare ships lit up Lookout and Finger Ridge to the west. A Chinese company attacked on Finger without artillery preparation after dark Thursday night and was roughly handled.

U. S. Sabre jets reported no battles with MIGs Thursday but it was Sabre fighter-bombers that took on the tanks in a valley near Sibyon, 15 miles northwest of Chorwon.

The Fifth Air Force said 22 Sabres dropped 44 bombs which "blasted a tank regiment."

The Air Force said, however, it could not confirm that 30 or 40 Red tanks actually were in the valley.

Report Detroit Will Get No More Defense Contracts Denounced

DETROIT, July 2 (AP) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams, city officials, and businessmen today joined union leaders in a bitter denunciation of a report that the Pentagon and Air Force would shun the Detroit area on future defense contracts because of "labor union abuses."

Williams joined Mayor Albert E. Cobo and union officials in expressing belief that Detroit labor could produce as efficiently or more efficiently than labor elsewhere.

The reported "shunning of the Detroit area" for future defense contracts reportedly grew out of the Air Force's recent decision to cancel multi - million dollar aircraft production contracts with the Kaiser Motor Corp.

Four U. S. Airmen Die In Stratojet Crash

UPPER HEYFORD, England, July 2 (AP) — A U. S. Air Force Stratojet atom bomber gliding in for a routine landing suddenly nose-dived and exploded on a railroad line today, scattering burning wreckage over a mile of tracks. All four airmen aboard were killed.

The mighty six-engined B47 jet plane, the world's fastest bomber, piled up and blocked traffic on the railroad, about a mile from the runways of this U. S. Strategic Air Command base.

An Air Force spokesman said the bomber carried the normal crew of three—pilot, co-pilot and radar-navigator—and a crew chief "who had just come along for the ride."

Patricia Neal Weds

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—Stage and screen actress Patricia Neal, 27, and writer Rouald Dahl, 36, were married here today. They plan to leave for a European honeymoon tomorrow.

Bobby Goes Home

Two-year-old Bobby Ashton just doesn't understand why his foster-father should be crying, or why he should be greeted at the door by photographer's flash cameras, as he is carried out by his grandmother, Mrs. Estelle Roberts Ashton, to "go for a ride." Bobby didn't know that he was being carried by a grandmother he had never seen—going to the arms of a mother who had never held him. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kubach, of Armore, near Philadelphia, surrendered Bobby to his grandmother yesterday, to be taken to his mother, Mildred E. Ashton, as the final result of long and bitter litigation. The Kubachs had him as a foster child since one week after his birth.

Foster Parents Give Up Boy, 2, By Court Order

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP)—Two-year-old Bobby Ashton, who has lived with well-to-do foster parents since he was a week old, was returned to his mother today by order of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

Bobby left his foster parents in the arms of a grandmother he had never seen—going to the arms of a mother who had never held him.

His unwed mother, Mildred E. Ashton, 27, of Drexel Hill, had threatened through an attorney yesterday to seek further court action unless the youngster's foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kubach of suburban Ardmore, returned her son immediately.

Lower Court Reversed

Montgomery County Court previously had upheld the adoption on the basis of two "consent and assignment" papers signed by Miss Ashton, but the Supreme Court unanimously ruled the adoption illegal after the young mother claimed she never intended to give her baby away.

The grief-stricken Kubachs tried to stay the order by petitioning the Supreme Court to re-hear arguments but were turned down today.

Kubach Weeps

Tears streamed down Kubach's face when Miss Ashton's mother called at the 15-room Kubach home for the child. Kubach handed her a pasteboard box. It contained some of young Bobby's favorite toys, a bottle of vitamin pills and a rag doll.

Mrs. Kubach, apparently near collapse, did not make an appearance when the boy was taken away.

One reason why romance lasted longer in the old days was that a wife looked the same after she washed her face.

Motorist Given Unpleasant Shock

GAINESVILLE, Ga., July 2 (AP)—"Keep your arm inside the car while driving," was the advice today of an Atlanta man who lost an arm when a truck sideswiped his automobile Sunday night.

David G. Husley is recovering in a hospital here.

"I didn't know my arm was gone until I turned around to chase the truck," the 200-pound Hulsey said. "When I shifted gears I pulled my arm in from the window and noticed that it was cut off above the elbow."

Janet Leigh Expecting

HOLLYWOOD, July 2 (AP) — Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis announced today via her studio, MGM, that they expect their first child next February.

Curtis is in Hawaii making a picture. The couple married in June, 1951.

Soldiers Taken From Indochina Isle To Formosa

SAIGON, Indochina, July 2 (AP)—Thirty thousand Chinese Nationalist troops, a well-trained and valuable addition to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's army, have been transported in war-like secrecy to Formosa after being interned four years on an Indochinese island.

A dispatch from Taipeh, Formosa, gave the number of Nationalists returned as 20,000, and quoted the official Central News Agency as saying U. S. warships conveyed the troops after they left Indochinese waters. The Nationalists apparently were playing down the military importance of the movement.

Carried In Chinese Ships

The soldiers were carried to the Nationalist island stronghold in Chinese merchant ships without naval escort, and the operation was conducted in secrecy to prevent Communist interference.

The long-delayed repatriation began May 24 and the last ship sailed from Indochina on June 22.

The Chinese, part of an army group commanded by Gen. Pai Chung-hsia, fled into northern Indochina in 1949 when defeated by the Communists. Thirty-one generals, 1,300 officers and 1,700 women and children were among them.

Fearful of provoking a Chinese Communist invasion, the French refused their offer to fight the Communist-led Vietminh in Indochina, disarmed them and removed them to the small island of Phy Quoc, 12 miles off the Cambodian coast of South Indochina.

U. N. Action Decides French

About 1,000 agreed to work on plantations or in mines in Indochina, but the rest preferred internment. The Chinese were governed almost completely by Gen. Ho Chou-pen, their leader. A small guard of only about 200 French Union troops was maintained. Relations between the Chinese and guards was not good and there were several incidents.

But the French hesitated to rid themselves of their charges despite numerous protests against their detention by Chiang.

The repatriation was decided upon by French authorities when the United Nations General Assembly voted on April 23 for a resolution calling for the evacuation of about 12,000 Chinese Nationalists from Burma.

Stubborn Indianapolis Fire Fought 10 Hours

INDIANAPOLIS, July 2 (AP)—Firemen fought 10 hours today before getting control over a fire that ate through the Canary Cottage restaurant and bar on Monument Circle.

Estimates of damage ran up to $200,000, and dozens of firemen were overcome by smoke or cut by breaking glass.

Irish Cheers, Bomb Blast, Power Failure Greet Queen

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 2 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II was greeted in Northern Ireland today with a thunder of cheers, an anti-royalist bomb blast and a mystery power failure that paralyzed Belfast just as she arrived in the city.

The bomb ripped up 250 yards of the main Dublin-Belfast rail line just north of the Irish republic's border. The Queen was 50 miles away at the time, but the line was scheduled to carry 60 trains today, many of them bringing excursionists to her coronation visit.

Police said propaganda - seeking nationalists, who are bitter at Northern Ireland's homage to royalty and want the northern counties united with the Irish republic, were up to their old tricks.

Belfast's giant harbor power house fizzled out of action at 10:15 a.m. just as the Queen and her husband the Duke of Edinburgh, entered the city limits from nearby Government House, where they are staying during their three-day visit.

Anxious police immediately strengthened the already strong security net around the royal party. Guards were doubled along the 90-mile rail line the Queen is due to travel tomorrow from Belfast to Londonderry.

City Police Commissioner Albert Kennedy said he was satisfied the power house fault was accidental. But a statement from the city electricity department said the "cause is ta present unknown."

The bomb caused less trouble. It exploded at 2 a.m. Engineers hustled to get the track relaid and within a few hours trains were running again.

Neither power cut nor explosion caused any casualties, but the power cut threatened the Queen's luncheon. Chefs preparing a civic banquet at Belfast's City Hall had to rescue the food from cooling electric ovens and heat it up again by gas.

$34.4 Billion Arms Budget Is Approved

President's Military Prestige Survives Crucial Test, 230-161

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—The Republican-dominated House rolled up a major victory for President Eisenhower today when it approved his five-billion-dollar slash in Air Force funds for the next 12 months.

Then it passed a $34,434,000,000 bill to finance all the armed forces.

By a roll call vote of 230 to 161, the chamber rejected a Democratic-led move to restore $1,175,000,000 of the five billion reduction recommended by the Eisenhower administration.

The vote marked the end of the first phase in the bitter dispute over the administration's call for a reduced Air Force budget—a move hotly challenged by top brass of the Air Force.

Senate To Act Later

The Senate will act later.

Five Republicans sided with 156 Democrats in voting to restore part of the Air Force's funds. Voting against the amendment were 196 Republicans, 33 Democrats and one independent.

That was the crucial test in the battle over air power.

Final passage of the over-all defense bill came on a roll call vote of 386 to 0.

Earlier, the House approved cuts of more than a billion dollars in funds requested by Eisenhower to run the Army and Navy for the 1954 fiscal year which began July 1.

The chamber upheld the reductions as it tentatively approved an over-all budget of $34,434,140,500 for the three branches of the armed services — $12,982,000,000 for the Army, $9,383,383,000 for the Navy, and $11,048,000,000 for the Air force. In addition, the House approved $1,019,500,000 for the secretary of defense.

ake's Prestige At Stake

The total is six billion dollars less than former President Truman requested in his final budget recommendations before he left office last Jan. 20 and $1,300,000,000 less than Eisenhower set forth as his "minimum" requests for national defense.

With Eisenhower's military prestige at stake, the House in effect threw its support behind the administration's new "interim" goal of a 120-wing Air Force. By the same token, it rejected a contention by Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, retired Air Force chief of staff, that rapid building of 143 wings is essential to the nation's security.

In rapid succession, the House defeated a series of four amendments by Rep.Mahon (D-Tex) seeking to restore $1,175,000,000 which Gen. Vandenberg had described as the minimum new money needed to work for 143 wings by mid-1957.

Wings vary in size from 30 bombers to 75 fighter planes.

Transit Strike Ends At St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, July 2 (AP)—The two-day wildcat walkout of St. Louis' bus and streetcar operators appeared at an end late today as many of the employes returned to their jobs as ordered by union officers.

Buses and streetcars returned to the streets shortly before the evening rush hour began.

There was, however, no assurance that the strike was at an end. Some dissensions still apparent among the 1,600 AFL operators who attended a meeting today at which Arthur J. Carroll, president of the union, and other officers ordered the men back to work.

The order was greeted with boos and cheers.

The operators had defied union leaders by staging the strike yesterday. Carroll and other officers termed it an unauthorized walkout.

Blind Youth Lost Overnight Found

HOQUIAM, Wash., July 2 (AP)—Eighteen - year - old Gary Willis, blind youth missing overnight in rugged woodland country north of Hoquiam, was found alive and in good condition this afternoon.

The report was telephoned to the office of Sheriff Richard Simmons.

The youth, who became lost while hunting for cascara bark which he could identify by touch and smell, heard searching parties last night but was unable to reach them.

He had followed a creek in the wrong direction.

Slap At Wilson?

New AEC Chief Declares U. S. Must Push Atomic Research

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Lewis L. Strauss, new chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said today the U. S. appeared to be "between wars" and must push basic research programs now "if we intend to survive."

A Democratic congressman interpreted his remarks as a slap at Secretary of Defense Wilson.

Strauss, a New York financier, naval reserve admiral and member of the original atomic commission, was sworn in at the White House as top man in the atomic energy program.

Two hours later, in his first address, he noted that "hard things are being said" about the funds required to sustain pure and basic scientific research as distinguished from actual weapons development.

Wilson Apparent Target

Strauss called no names, but Rep. Price (D-Ill) said the atomic energy chairman appeared to be hitting at Defense Secretary Wilson.

In a speech on the House floor, Price charged Wilson has shown "contempt for pure science." He said Wilson has implied that a great number of Pentagon research problems "are just plain silly."

Price spoke before the House passed a 34 billion dollar defense appropriation bill in which funds for research and development were reduced. Former President Truman's budget had called for $1,087,000,000. President Eisenhower trimmed 74 million from this figure and the House, backing its appropriations committee, slashed it by 244 million.

Price Opposed Cuts

Price is a member of the joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee. He opposed the defense cuts.

Strauss, speaking at the 30th anniversary of the Naval Research Laboratory here, stressed that new weapons and military technological advances often are the result of basic scientific discoveries made 20 to 50 years earlier.

De Valera Wins Vote Of Confidence, 73 To 71

DUBLIN, Ireland, July 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's government won a parliamentary vote of confidence by a two-vote majority today in the face of an opposition onslaught against the administration's price control policy.

De Valera, 70, and handicapped by failing eyesight, won with the aid of five independents. The vote was 73 to 71.

He risked his government—and possibly his own long political career—after his Fianna Fail party suffered setbacks in three recent special elections to fill vacancies in the Dail (parliament). Many housewives, incensed over the rising cost of living, voted against Fianna Fail candidates in those contests.

Flying Policeman Captures His Man

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—"Flying too low," commented Sgt. Kenneth Johnson as he wrote out a summons for Joel D. Rabin, 23, after a police chase today.

The sergeant wasn't being sarcastic. He had taken to his helicopter after a telephoned complaint that a small private plane was flying low over Brooklyn.

The officer said Rabin, a student, failed to comply when he was signalled to increase his altitude from 200 to a required 1,000 feet. The helicopter then followed him to a Queens airport, where the summons was issued.

Former Jordan King Hurt In Auto Crash

CAIRO, Egypt, July 2 (AP)—Former King Talal of Jordan was injured seriously in an automobile accident today while traveling from Alexandria to Cairo.

The former monarch, who turned his throne over to his son a year ago, suffered head injuries in a crash with another car 20 miles north of Cairo, Egyptian authorities said.

Talal's chauffeur was killed.

Court Orders Another Trial For Gambler

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—A big-time gambler won a new trial today on the ground the Senate Crime Investigating Committee coerced him into turning over incriminating papers.

In setting aside the gambling conspiracy conviction of Charles E. Nelson and 10 co-defendants, the U. S. Court of Appeals said Nelson's "home was invaded, his files searched, and his papers seized, all without due process of any kind."

The court split 2 to 1 on the case, with Judge David L. Bazelon writing the majority opinion. Judge E. Barrett Prettyman dissented. He said he found nothing in the record to show that Nelson, alleged backer of a big numbers syndicate here, was coerced.

The legal issue before the court was whether Nelson voluntarily turned over the papers to a Maryland policeman assigned to the committee staff or whether they were obtained by illegal search and seizure.

Bazelon said the committee, "with a warning that he still was under subpoena," directed Nelson to lead the policeman to his home near Ritchie, Md., and there turn over a 'little red book' containing his gambling accounts.

"Finally," Bazelon said, "when the policeman entered Nelson's home and learned the 'little red book' was not available, he examined and took other papers and documents not demanded by the committee."

Romania, Yugoslavia Agree On Commission

LONDON, July 2 (AP)—In a gesture of conciliation, Romania has accepted a Yugoslav proposal to set up a mixed commission to investigate border incidents involving both lands, Belgrade radio reported today.

The broadcast said the Bucharest government agreed that Yugoslav and Romanian delegates should meet this month to discuss setting up such a commission.

President Tito's government asked Romania to form a commission in a note sent to Bucharest June 13. The radio said the note also protested against 172 alleged border incidents.

Pakistan Says Thanks

KARACHI, Pakistan, July 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Mohammed Ali said today the grant of one million tons of wheat from the United States would tide Pakistan over its critical food shortage period this year and prospects are better for 1954 supplies.

"GLAD TO HAVE YOU ABOARD"—President Eisenhower says, "Glad to have you aboard" as he presents a commission to and shakes hands with Lewis L. Strauss during a ceremony at the White House yesterday in which Strauss took the oath and became chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. Princess' Oft-Rumored Boy Friend Gets Assignment---Out Of Country

LONDON, July 2 (AP)—Princess Margaret's frequent riding companion and oft-rumored boy friend, the dashing, divorced Group Capt. Peter Wooldridge Townsend, is being detached from his post with the royal household and given a new assignment—out of the country.

Townsend, 38, thrice decorated as a Battle of Britain air hero, in about two weeks will become air attache to the British Embassy in Brussels, Belgium, the Air Ministry announced today.

The new assignment surprised Britons, who had believed Townsend soon would be named comptroller of Queen Mother Elizabeth's household at Clarence House, where Margaret lives.

Although the palace traditionally frowns on divorces—and Townsend was granted a divorce from his wife on grounds of misconduct last November—the captain long has been a favorite of the royal family.

He has been a good friend of the 22-year-old princess for the last five years, having served as equerry to Margaret, Queen Elizabeth II and the Queen Mother on numerous occasions.

Schuyler Confirmed

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—The Senate today approved the appointment of Maj. Gen. Cortlandt van Rensselaer Schuyler as chief of staff of Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers Europe (SHAPE).

This is the post formerly held by Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, recently named top commander of the North Atlantic Treaty forces.

Ailing Mother Sees Her Baby On Television

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 2 (AP)—Watching from her hospital bed, a young mother showed mingled emotions today when the 3-month-old son she has never held or seen up close appeared on television.

Mrs. Ralph C. Bowles, a sanatorium patient with tuberculosis since a week after her baby was born April 6, looked as though she were going to cry when the tot, Randolph Lee Bowles, appeared.

But as the program progressed, Mrs. Bowles conquered her unhappy thoughts and was laughing at the end.

290 Highway Deaths Forecast Over Fourth

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—The National Safety Council estimated today that unless motorists are extra careful, 290 highway deaths will occur during the two-day Fourth of July holiday week end.

The council estimated 40 million motorists will burn up 27,000 railroad tank cars of gasoline in driving a total of about four billion miles.

Ned H. Dearborn, council president, warned that speed is the principal factor in serious accidents. He urged motorists to "slow down and live."

A total of 643 persons met violent death during the three-day holiday a year ago, 366 in auto accidents. There were 202 drownings, two fireworks fatalities and 73 deaths from miscellaneous causes.

Liberty, To Take Bow Tomorrow, Is Many Things To Many People

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—Liberty, take a bow.

This Saturday is your day, and America celebrates you across the land.

Just what are you, anyhow, Liberty?

Well, old Tom Jefferson said you were "the gift of God."

And how should you be celebrated, Liberty?

Another old-timer, John Adams, after he signed the Declaration of Independence 177 years ago this July 4, suggested:

"This ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance by solemn acts of devotion to almighty God."

He said a few parades would be in order too.

And while the parades go on, people will be talking about you, Liberty, discussing what you stand for.

The obvious things are well known, of course—that you're freedom—a man's right to live his own life, to get mad and talk back, to pick his own job, to go where he darned well pleases, without a police permit.

But what's behind all that?

People keep saying you're God-given. Just after this country got started that French scholar, De Toqueville, analyzed it and decided "religion was the first of America's political institutions" and the foundation of its liberty.

President Eisenhower said it too. He said, "Free government is soundly based on religious faith."

But how could that be you, Liberty?

You're kind of a firebrand, you know. You're a bold idea, and tough. You caused a revolution. You stirred some pretty strong action among those 56 men who signed that declaration. How did you make them do it?

Up at Columbia University, historian Richard B. Morris will say in a speech tomorrow that among those men, you were "the idea that God-given natural laws were above the laws of governments."

"To break allegiance to the King," he said, "they appealed to a higher law than the King, that of God. They counted on this higher law to justify revolution."

And so, Liberty, they wrote you into that declaration—that all men are "endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights."

Court Orders Another Trial For Gambler

Bazelon said the committee, "with a warning that he still was under subpoena," directed Nelson to lead the policeman to his home near Ritchie, Md., and there turn over a 'little red book' containing his gambling accounts.

"Finally," Bazelon said, "when the policeman entered Nelson's home and learned the 'little red book' was not available, he examined and took other papers and documents not demanded by the committee."

De Valera Wins Vote Of Confidence, 73 To 71

DUBLIN, Ireland, July 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's government won a parliamentary vote of confidence by a two-vote majority today in the face of an opposition onslaught against the administration's price control policy.

De Valera, 70, and handicapped by failing eyesight, won with the aid of five independents. The vote was 73 to 71.

He risked his government—and possibly his own long political career—after his Fianna Fail party suffered setbacks in three recent special elections to fill vacancies in the Dail (parliament). Many housewives, incensed over the rising cost of living, voted against Fianna Fail candidates in those contests.

Romania, Yugoslavia Agree On Commission

LONDON, July 2 (AP)—In a gesture of conciliation, Romania has accepted a Yugoslav proposal to set up a mixed commission to investigate border incidents involving both lands, Belgrade radio reported today.

The broadcast said the Bucharest government agreed that Yugoslav and Romanian delegates should meet this month to discuss setting up such a commission.

President Tito's government asked Romania to form a commission in a note sent to Bucharest June 13. The radio said the note also protested against 172 alleged border incidents.

Pakistan Says Thanks

KARACHI, Pakistan, July 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Mohammed Ali said today the grant of one million tons of wheat from the United States would tide Pakistan over its critical food shortage period this year and prospects are better for 1954 supplies.

Flying Policeman Captures His Man

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—"Flying too low," commented Sgt. Kenneth Johnson as he wrote out a summons for Joel D. Rabin, 23, after a police chase today.

The sergeant wasn't being sarcastic. He had taken to his helicopter after a telephoned complaint that a small private plane was flying low over Brooklyn.

The officer said Rabin, a student, failed to comply when he was signalled to increase his altitude from 200 to a required 1,000 feet. The helicopter then followed him to a Queens airport, where the summons was issued.

Former Jordan King Hurt In Auto Crash

CAIRO, Egypt, July 2 (AP)—Former King Talal of Jordan was injured seriously in an automobile accident today while traveling from Alexandria to Cairo.

The former monarch, who turned his throne over to his son a year ago, suffered head injuries in a crash with another car 20 miles north of Cairo, Egyptian authorities said.

Talal's chauffeur was killed.

"GLAD TO HAVE YOU ABOARD"—President Eisenhower says, "Glad to have you aboard" as he presents a commission to and shakes hands with Lewis L. Strauss during a ceremony at the White House yesterday in which Strauss took the oath and became chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. Strauss is a reserve admiral, a New York financier and one of the original members of the AEC.

Princess' Oft-Rumored Boy Friend Gets Assignment---Out Of Country

LONDON, July 2 (AP)—Princess Margaret's frequent riding companion and oft-rumored boy friend, the dashing, divorced Group Capt. Peter Wooldridge Townsend, is being detached from his post with the royal household and given a new assignment—out of the country.

Townsend, 38, thrice decorated as a Battle of Britain air hero, in about two weeks will become air attache to the British Embassy in Brussels, Belgium, the Air Ministry announced today.

The new assignment surprised Britons, who had believed Townsend soon would be named comptroller of Queen Mother Elizabeth's household at Clarence House, where Margaret lives.

Although the palace traditionally frowns on divorces—and Townsend was granted a divorce from his wife on grounds of misconduct last November—the captain long has been a favorite of the royal family.

He has been a good friend of the 22-year-old princess for the last five years, having served as equerry to Margaret, Queen Elizabeth II and the Queen Mother on numerous occasions.

Schuyler Confirmed

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—The Senate today approved the appointment of Maj. Gen. Cortlandt van Rensselaer Schuyler as chief of staff of Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers Europe (SHAPE).

This is the post formerly held by Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, recently named top commander of the North Atlantic Treaty forces.

The Dardanelles is the modern name for the ancient Hellespont.

Ailing Mother Sees Her Baby On Television

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 2 (AP)—Watching from her hospital bed, a young mother showed mingled emotions today when the 3-month-old son she has never held or seen up close appeared on television.

Mrs. Ralph C. Bowles, a sanatorium patient with tuberculosis since a week after her baby was born April 6, looked as though she were going to cry when the tot, Randolph Lee Bowles, appeared.

But as the program progressed, Mrs. Bowles conquered her unhappy thoughts and was laughing at the end.

290 Highway Deaths Forecast Over Fourth

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—The National Safety Council estimated today that unless motorists are extra careful, 290 highway deaths will occur during the two-day Fourth of July holiday week end.

The council estimated 40 million motorists will burn up 27,000 railroad tank cars of gasoline in driving a total of about four billion miles.

Ned H. Dearborn, council president, warned that speed is the principal factor in serious accidents. He urged motorists to "slow down and live."

A total of 643 persons met violent death during the three-day holiday a year ago, 366 in auto accidents. There were 202 drownings, two fireworks fatalities and 73 deaths from miscellaneous causes.

Liberty, To Take Bow Tomorrow, Is Many Things To Many People

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—Liberty, take a bow.

This Saturday is your day, and America celebrates you across the land.

Just what are you, anyhow, Liberty?

Well, old Tom Jefferson said you were "the gift of God."

And how should you be celebrated, Liberty?

Another old-timer, John Adams, after he signed the Declaration of Independence 177 years ago this July 4, suggested:

"This ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance by solemn acts of devotion to almighty God."

He said a few parades would be in order too.

And while the parades go on, people will be talking about you, Liberty, discussing what you stand for.

The obvious things are well known, of course—that you're freedom—a man's right to live his own life, to get mad and talk back, to pick his own job, to go where he darned well pleases, without a police permit.

But what's behind all that?

People keep saying you're God-given. Just after this country got started that French scholar, De Toqueville, analyzed it and decided "religion was the first of America's political institutions" and the foundation of its liberty.

President Eisenhower said it too. He said, "Free government is soundly based on religious faith."

But how could that be you, Liberty?

You're kind of a firebrand, you know. You're a bold idea, and tough. You caused a revolution. You stirred some pretty strong action among those 56 men who signed that declaration. How did you make them do it?

Up at Columbia University, historian Richard B. Morris will say in a speech tomorrow that among those men, you were "the idea that God-given natural laws were above the laws of governments."

"To break allegiance to the King," he said, "they appealed to a higher law than the King, that of God. They counted on this higher law to justify revolution."

And so, Liberty, they wrote you into that declaration—that all men are "endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights."

Writer Refuses To Tell Probe If He Is Communist

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP) —Doxey A. Wilkerson, some of those writings have been circulated by the U. S. government abroad, refused today to tell Senate investigators whether he is a Red in the pay of the Communist party.

He also balked at saying whether he became an organizer for the Communists within 24 hours after leaving a job in the Office of Price Administration in 1943.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said Wilkerson was called before his Senate investigations subcommittee "to show another typical author whose works under no circumstances" should be used in U. S. information libraries abroad.

The hearing disclosed Wilkerson had written a book called "Special Problems of Negro Education," an attack on alleged racial discrimination in American schools, and that copies were on the shelves of some of the libraries.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), one of the investigators, demanded the book be summarily removed. Agreeing, McCarthy snapped:

"I don't care what they do with this book after they remove it—whether they burn it or not." He said certainly it shouldn't be stored at government expense.

Wilkerson said he was standing on the Fifth Amendment in his refusal to testify, adding that he was afraid any answers he might give to questions regarding communism might be used "to frame me."

He also told the senators he doesn't know of any Communist who ever was "properly convicted" of any crime — including Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, executed atom spies, and the 11 top Reds who were convicted of conspiracy to advocate the forcible overthrow of the American government.

AUTHOR REFUSES TO ANSWER—Doxey A. Wilkerson, a writer on Negro problems, yesterday refused to tell the Senate investigations subcommitte whether he is a Communist or is in the pay of the Communist Party. Wilkerson is a one-time federal employe who testified he also had been a teacher. The subcommittee, headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), is hearing testimony from authors whose books have been used in the State Department's overseas libraries.

Nehru May Ask Decisive Action

NEW DELHI, India, July 2 (AP)—Close political associates said today Prime Minister Nehru is likely to urge the U. S. to act "more decisively" if South Korea's President Syngman Rhee is not persuaded within the next few days to accept a Korean truce.

A leader in Nehru's ruling All-India Congress party said the Prime Minister has privately voiced growing impatience with the slow progress of U. S. efforts to bring Rhee around.

He has not spoken out, the source said, because "he knows Rhee dislikes him and any strong words from India are likely to make the situation worse."

Rhee has bitterly denounced Nehru with charges his government is pro-Communist — charges emphatically denied in this country, which is trying to steer a neutral course in the East-West struggle.

The Congress party leader said if no Korean solution is reached by July 6, the Prime Minister may demand stiffer U. S. action when he makes his major foreign policy speech at Agra at the opening meeting of his key party lieutenants from all over India.

Nehru is "naturally fearful," the source said, that much more delay in the truce negotiations may lead Red China's boss, Mao Tze-tung, to decide there is "no use trusting U. S. good faith further."

German Parliament In Anti-French Temper

BONN, Germany, July 2 (AP) — Deputies of the West German Parliament, in a vote-catching anti-French mood, struck a double blow at French-German relations today by rejecting a debt settlement and demanding return of The Saar.

Revolting against Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in their most bitterly anti-French temper seen in the four-year-old Bundestag (lower house), the Germans took revenge for alleged French economic exploitation of their occupation zone.

The house refused, by 148 to 135 votes, to approve repayment of $11,840,000 of economic aid given by the French to their zone between 1945 and 1948. Payment was to have begun on Aug. 1.

The Bundestag approved the remainder of the London debt agreement, which promised to repay a total of $3,270,000,000 in debts piled up since World War I to 18 other nations, from the United States and Britain down to tiny Liechtenstein.

Survey Reveals It's Hard To Buy Moderately Sized Flag In Capital

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP) —After an independent survey, a fellow here has come up with this conclusion for the week of July 4th:

It's hard to buy a moderately sized U. S. flag in the nation's capital.

He's R. G. Ingersoll Waite, a onetime newspaperman who now works for the Army map service.

Waite didn't intend to make a survey. He merely intended to go out and buy his family a 3 by 5 foot flag.

He had no trouble finding little flags, but after going into store after store without locating a family sized one, Waite wrote a letter to the editor of the Washington Evening Star in which he said:

"It seems a pity and an outrage that patriotism is so out of date, and that our nation has degenerated to such an extent that our flag cannot be easily purchased.

"It should be a stock item in every store."

Waite said he didn't confine himself to one type of store, either.

"I tried every type of store I could think of—but found nothing. The Confederate flag, and even—thanks to the popularity of her majesty Queen Elizabeth — the Union Jack can be purchased more readily than can our national flag."

A check with Waite today disclosed he still hadn't found his flag. But he said he isn't blaming the stores. "Everywhere I went," he said, "they'd say, 'Yes, this is the right department, but we simply never have calls for flags.'"

Nor does Waite feel Washington is unique. He said his brother, Spencer, became interested in a similar experiment, and tramped all over Binghampton, N. Y., before he found a store with large flags for sale. "It had two," Waite said.

Fortunately, not far from the office where your correspondent works, there's a store specializing in games, holiday knicknacks and U. S. flags.

A visit there brought reassurance that flags still can be bought in Washington.

A clerk said she's pretty sure Washington is as patriotic as the next city. Furthermore, because of the embassies here, it's patriotic in more directions. And she pointed to a shelf filled with flags of all nations — Iceland, Afghanistan flags, the lady had to hurry away from the flag display.

A bunch of patriots at the next counter was demanding fireworks.

Aid Sped To Jap Flood Victims

TOKYO, Friday, July 3 (AP)—U. S., Italian and Danish relief and medical teams rushed assistance to thousands of Japanese flood victims on stricken Kyushu Island yesterday. Casualty tolls mounted to nearly 2,400.

The latest figures from national police headquarters in Fukuoka reported 657 persons were killed, 1,168 injured and 546 still missing after disastrous floods covered most of Northern Kyushu last week and early this week. Tens of thousands more still were homeless.

The American Red Cross in Tokyo upped its contribution in cash aid to $50,000, mainly for the purchase of blankets for the flood sufferers.

U. S. Army and Air Force medical teams worked with Japanese authorities throughout the disaster area.

Italy informed the Foreign Office that a relief unit would be sent from the Italian Red Cross hospital in Korea and additional medical equipment would be flown from Europe to aid the victims.

A group of 13 Danish Red Cross medical specialists was authorized by Copenhagen to proceed to the flood scene. The group has been preparing to assist in a future exchange of war prisoners should an armistice be realized in Korea.

Slaying Of Tunisian Prince Is Denounced

TUNIS, July 2 (AP)—The Nationalist Neo-Destour party today denounced the assassination of Prince Azzedine Bey, 72, the heir to the Tunisian throne who in his lifetime was the party's outspoken opponent.

The Prince was shot and killed by a hired assassin yesterday, less than 24 hours after the Neo-Destour called for a truce in the acrimonious fight between Tunisian Nationalists and France.

The aged Bey of Tunis, cousin of the murdered Prince and a partisan of the Nationalist movement, pointedly refused to attend the funeral in the historic Place de la Kasbah this afternoon.

Jersey Corruption Investigation Ends

TRENTON, N. J., July 2 (AP)—A 21-month-old New Jersey investigation of Atlantic County ended officially yesterday and the state's special investigator said he could find no "further evidence" to substantiate charges of official corruption in the resort county.

Special Investigator Simon L. Fisch in a report to Atty. Gen. Theodore D. Parsons said that since the probe began in October, 1951, there were four indictments resulting from inquiries into possible official corruption and 93 indictments on gambling charges.

This was the second major investigation of Atlantic County during Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll's two-term administration. A 13-month probe that began in May, 1947, resulted in more than 30 gambling indictments, but only one jail sentence.

Start Of 'Freedom March' Signalled By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signalled the beginning of a year - long "March of Freedom" designed to emphasize that "the heritage of freedom which we cherish as Americans depends on faith in God."

"This is the kind of thing I am glad to do," Eisenhower commented in signing the freedom declaration sponsored by the National Association of Evangelicals.

The President affixed his signature to a large leather-bound volume which is later to be signed by governors, mayors and other leaders from coast to coast.

Earlier, Eisenhower issued a proclamation calling on Americans to observe July 4, marking the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence as a day of penance and prayer.

The freedom declaration cites seven "Divine freedoms" outlined in the 23rd Psalm — freedom from want, from hunger, from thirst, from sin, from fear, from enemies, and, finally, the freedom to live abundantly.

Referring to these principles, Eisenhower said:

"The fundamental ideas expressed here are the foundation stones of our country. This is a deep, profound and simple idea—like most great truths."

The declaration is the central document of a campaign sponsored by the Association of Evangelicals. The group describes itself as a voluntary association of denominations, individuals and local churches representing approximately 10 million Americans of Protestant faiths.

Agrarian Will Attempt To Form Finn Regime

HELSINKI, Finland, July 2 (AP)—Dr. Urho Kekkonen, Agrarian, today agreed to try to form a new Finnish government.

Kekkonen headed the Finnish Agrarian-Socialist coalition government which resigned last Monday as a result of differences among the two main coalition parties over economic policies.

Tulsa, Okla., sometimes is called the "Oil Capital of the World."

Robert Koch was the discoverer of the tuberculosis germ.

TOKYO, Friday, July 3 (AP)—U. S., Italian and Danish relief and medical teams rushed assistance to thousands of Japanese flood victims on stricken Kyushu Island yesterday. Casualty tolls mounted to nearly 2,400.

The latest figures from national police headquarters in Fukuoka reported 657 persons were killed, 1,168 injured and 546 still missing after disastrous floods covered most of Northern Kyushu last week and early this week. Tens of thousands more still were homeless.

The American Red Cross in Tokyo upped its contribution in cash aid to $50,000, mainly for the purchase of blankets for the flood sufferers.

U. S. Army and Air Force medical teams worked with Japanese authorities throughout the disaster area.

Italy informed the Foreign Office that a relief unit would be sent from the Italian Red Cross hospital in Korea and additional medical equipment would be flown from Europe to aid the victims.

A group of 13 Danish Red Cross medical specialists was authorized by Copenhagen to proceed to the flood scene. The group has been preparing to assist in a future exchange of war prisoners should an armistice be realized in Korea.

Jersey Corruption Investigation Ends

TRENTON, N. J., July 2 (AP)—A 21-month-old New Jersey investigation of Atlantic County ended officially yesterday and the state's special investigator said he could find no "further evidence" to substantiate charges of official corruption in the resort county.

Special Investigator Simon L. Fisch in a report to Atty. Gen. Theodore D. Parsons said that since the probe began in October, 1951, there were four indictments resulting from inquiries into possible official corruption and 93 indictments on gambling charges.

This was the second major investigation of Atlantic County during Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll's two-term administration. A 13-month probe that began in May, 1947, resulted in more than 30 gambling indictments, but only one jail sentence.

Start Of 'Freedom March' Signalled By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signalled the beginning of a year - long "March of Freedom" designed to emphasize that "the heritage of freedom which we cherish as Americans depends on faith in God."

"This is the kind of thing I am glad to do," Eisenhower commented in signing the freedom declaration sponsored by the National Association of Evangelicals.

The President affixed his signature to a large leather-bound volume which is later to be signed by governors, mayors and other leaders from coast to coast.

Earlier, Eisenhower issued a proclamation calling on Americans to observe July 4, marking the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence as a day of penance and prayer.

The freedom declaration cites seven "Divine freedoms" outlined in the 23rd Psalm — freedom from want, from hunger, from thirst, from sin, from fear, from enemies, and, finally, the freedom to live abundantly.

Referring to these principles, Eisenhower said:

"The fundamental ideas expressed here are the foundation stones of our country. This is a deep, profound and simple idea—like most great truths."

The declaration is the central document of a campaign sponsored by the Association of Evangelicals. The group describes itself as a voluntary association of denominations, individuals and local churches representing approximately 10 million Americans of Protestant faiths.

Agrarian Will Attempt To Form Finn Regime

HELSINKI, Finland, July 2 (AP)—Dr. Urho Kekkonen, Agrarian, today agreed to try to form a new Finnish government.

Kekkonen headed the Finnish Agrarian-Socialist coalition government which resigned last Monday as a result of differences among the two main coalition parties over economic policies.

Tulsa, Okla., sometimes is called the "Oil Capital of the World."

Questions About Korea

The Reds got into Korea ostensibly to drive the Japanese out, a few days before the U. S. war with Japan ended. Korea had been a Japanese colony for 50 years, during which time the people of Korea had no chance to practice self-government or train officials. Many subsequent troubles stem from this fact.

After Russian troops had entered Korea in 1945 and were rapidly overrunning the country, the U. S. faced the practical question: how to keep them from overrunning it all. This was done by an agreement between military commanders, providing that American and Russian forces should stay on their respective sides of the 38th Parallel.

Because Korea was a liberated country, not an enemy nation, it was agreed that both forces should depart after a government of united Korea had been set up. This agreement the Russians subsequently violated.

Would a Korean armistice now be another Munich? An armistice is merely a ceasefire agreement, a military arrangement. Any political concessions comparable to Munich would be made later, in political talks leading to a peace treaty. But the shameful thing about the Munich agreement was that it surrendered territory to Germany before a shot had been fired in its defense. Whatever agreement there may be in Korea has been preceded by 140,000 U. S. casualties.

Who is to blame? Mistakes were certainly made, but historians of the future, with the advantage of hindsight, will have the task of clarifying a situation that most Americans violently dislike.

Cloud Seeders' Denial

Atomic scientists having absolved themselves of blame for the unprecedented series of tornadoes by which the country has been plagued this year, it was to be expected that cloud seeders—or modern rainmakers—would do likewise.

"Many people," said Kenneth C. Raetz of Denver, a member of the board of counselors of the National Association of Industrial Meteorologists at its annual convention in Chicago, "have tried to make our group the whipping boy for all these tornadoes just because we seed clouds to make it rain. That's like saying a 10-ton truck went off the road and plowed through a farmer's barn because a bumblebee flew against its side."

Raetz sounds quite convincing until he takes in too much territory by tossing in a word or two absolving the A-bomb of any connection with tornadoes. Obviously he couldn't know much about A-bombs.

From a meteorologist's viewpoint, Raetz said, an atom bomb would not blow the hat off your head. An average thunderstorm carries a punch many times more powerful than the famed bomb, he said. He intimated that Chicago's stockyards have greater effect on distant atmospheric conditions than A-bombs.

Members of the industrial meterologists, Raetz said, engage in other activities besides cloud-seeding, it seems. The group's biggest job is to forecast weather conditions on a long range basis for industry and agriculture.

Men Without Hope

There is nothing especially startling, or very new, about the story of Captain Jan Cwiklinski, who walked ashore from the Polish liner Batory in England and never went back. If it is unusual in any respect, it is because it ended happily. Thousands have tried and failed to flee from Poland since the Communists seized control—and many of these are dead. The master of the Batory has been given asylum in England and he will be safe.

But is this a happy ending? What of Captain Cwiklinski's wife and two children back in Poland? He knows they will be subjected to reprisals. He expects that his property will be confiscated, and that his family will be moved at least a hundred miles from the coast to prevent their escape.

After that? Captain Cwiklinski, safe through an exile, will have weeks and months and years to wonder how they are faring, and to torture himself with the thought that if he had gone back he might have saved them some part of their sufferings.

He is sure that if he had gone back he would have been arrested. He personally knows of two men, among the 500 seamen who have been purged from the Polish merchant marine during the last few months, who were sentenced to death on charges of "moral sabotage." He never joined the Communist party. His mind tells him what fate was awaiting him and that he could have done nothing for his family by accepting it. But can he silence his heart?

In any case, concern for his loved ones will feed this man's hatred of the regime he served well as master of Poland's finest liner. Will it be strange, then, if he becomes like other men who want above everything else to end this curse on mankind?

Those others have been staging "hopeless" demonstrations against their Communists oppressors in East Germany, in Czechoslovakia, and elsewhere behind the Iron Curtain. It is always men who have been left without hope who rebel against tyrants and breathe life into hope again.

Gross Debt Appraisal

Borrowings by federal and state governments, by businesses and individuals keep on rising. They advanced the country's gross debt last year to $640,000,000,000, or 40 per cent greater than at the end of World War II.

Over the seven-year period, private debt—that is corporate and noncorporate debt combined—shows a greater expansion, percentagewise, than public debt. Of course, in a virile economy of steadily mounting production and consumption, private debt increase is a normal concomitant. But it is of no small significance that individual or noncorporate debt has been growing at a greater rate than corporate debt.

It is an economic maxim that the burden of debt is in direct ratio to income. For example, it may be argued that as the result of higher national income, the national debt presently is less a burden on the national economy than when the debt was much smaller. Obviously the situation is reversed with falling income, and adjustment to the change may become very painful.

As to the possibility of adjustment at some time in the next few years experts differ, mainly in degree, but to date statistical records show economic activity has outstripped debt increase by a wide margin.

Nevertheless, a debt volume the equivalent of $4,000 per capita is not lightly to be regarded. In this situation the tight bank loan market, now eased by the Federal Reserve Board for government needs, has been a salutary force for prudence.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Spare Your Heart

So many advances have been made in the knowledge of heart disease that we no longer live in fear and dread of developing the condition. Medicines are available to lessen irritability of the old ticker and others to improve the flow of blood through the coronary arteries. Surgeons have devised several operations to correct defects that 10 years ago was considered irreparable. Furthermore, it is the exception rather than the rule to die in a heart attack. But despite these improvements, there is no cure for the more common ailments and we have not been able to concoct a synthetic substitute for which we can trade in our old model heart after it has recorded 50,000 miles of wear and tear.

Coronary thrombosis and angina pectoris continue to be the black sheep of the group. These disorders develop in the later decades of life and result from narrowing or plugging of the two small vessels that supply the cardiac muscle with blood. Heart associations are spending large sums of money to discover ways in which the disease can be prevented, delayed, or treated. Numerous remedies have been uncovered to aid the heart but in recent years it has become obvious that something also must be done for the individual. All too often the living and working conditions and the personality of the victim nullify the good effects of even the best remedy. The importance of these factors is being recognized more and more. Industry has lost so many key executives from heart disease that it is intensely interested in prevention. This usually entails measures that minimize stress and strain.

The behavior of the person on the job is only part of the story, however, and it is here that preventive measures hit a snag. Many of those destined to heart attacks not only work but play hard. These two characteristics bring forth such complimentary remarks as, "I don't see how you do it." But the pumping organ has no ears and cannot hear the praise bestowed upon its master. At the end of eight to 10 hours of hard work, it is ready to relax. Furthermore, the half dozen cocktails taken as restoratives have most of their influence on the brain and not the heart. Burning the candle at both ends is well tolerated in youth but not for long in middle life. There are exceptions but why take chances? Too many of those who have had heart attacks fall into this category. The lesson to be learned is that, after eight hours of hard work, eight hours of hard play never should be added.

The heart also suffers when there is lack of harmony in the home. Now and then cardiac attacks are blamed on the strain and responsibility of business but the close friends of the victim often come up with another story; the turmoil is not in the office but at home. Meanwhile, scientific work on the heart is continuing. The question of the moment is how to prevent the coronary arteries from becoming hardened. Current plans involve diets concerned chiefly with fats and cholesterol.

LATE MIGRAINE

Mrs. H. writes: Could migraine attacks first appear in middle age?

REPLY

Yes, but this is the exception. In women, migraine usually starts early in life and subsides with the menopause.

GIDDY FROM MEDICATION

T. H. writes: Why do antihistaminic pills leave me dizzy?

REPLY

This represents a reaction to the drug which 10 to 15 per cent of the users develop. Why you are picked, no one knows. If the antihistaminic is needed, ask your physician to prescribe another brand.

COUGH AND HERNIA

Mrs. Y. writes: Can violent coughing spells lead to hernia in a woman.

REPLY

Yes, but when it does an inherent weakness of the abdominal wall must have existed long before hernia developed.

NOT ADVISED

A. S. writes: My 5-year-old son has a nose drip which makes him cough constantly all through the winter. I have been using argyrol every day, which seems to help, but would like to know whether this is harmful in any way.

REPLY

Yes, because no antiseptic should be used routinely on delicate nasal tissues. In addition, some of the silver in the argyrol is absorbed and when it accumulates in the skin, the affected area turns gray. Why not let the child's nose alone or have a physician determine where the irritation is coming from. In some instances a discharge of this type is caused by sinusitis and in others, by an allergic disturbance.

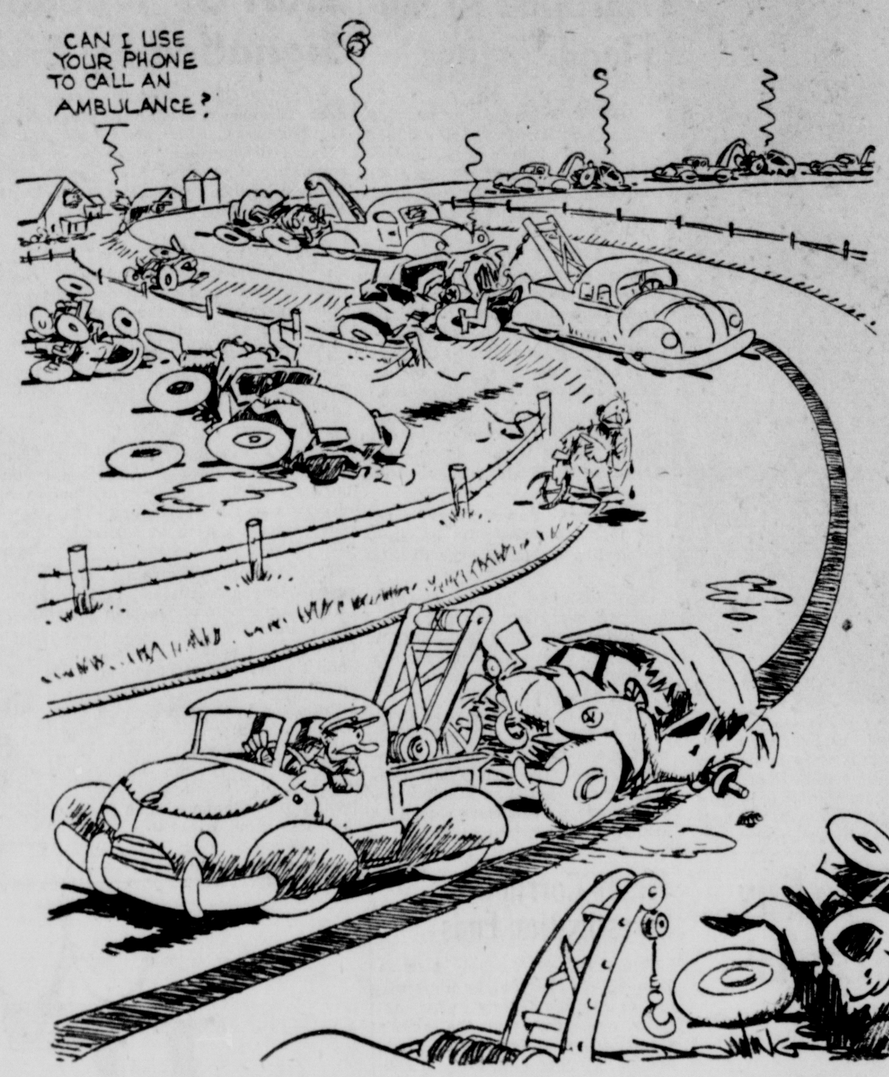

METABOLISM AND GOITER

Mrs. Y. writes: Could a goiter be present if the metabolism test is normal?

REPLY

Yes. Goiter represents enlargement of the thyroid gland and has nothing to do with its activity as determined by the metabolic rate.

Dan Reed Threatened To Bottle Up All Future Tax Bills; Ike's Envoy To Korea Tried To Get Chinese Communist Co-Operation In 1946

WASHINGTON — INSIDE THE TAX FIGHT—Reasons why the little group of embattled Republicans backtracked on the excess-profits fight were threefold: 1) Uncle Dan Reed, the thorn in Ike's side, had warned he would bottle up all other tax and social security legislation inside his Ways and Means Committee; 2) Some corporations were planning a court battle over the constitutionality of a tax bill which bypassed the Ways and Means Committee; 3) The Democrats refused to give GOP leaders the votes . . . "We're not pulling your chestnuts out of the fire," Sam Rayburn told Republican Leader Charley Halleck . . . The man who helped call off the steam-roller tax tactics was Ike's close friend, Sen. Frank Carlson, both Kansas boys . . . The administration called up all reinforcements to help in the tax battle. Even Assistant Secretary of State Thruston Morton, ex-congressman from Louisville, Ky., was summoned to the White House and ordered to buttonhole ex-colleagues . . . When he protested that his job was foreign relations, not taxes, he was bluntly told: "We're using everyone in this fight!" . . . The fight might have been won months ago if the White House had called in Chairman Reed at the very start instead of bypassing him as it did last January and consulting Senator Millikin of Colorado instead.

INSIDE THE WHITE HOUSE—For the first time, Ike is using federal patronage to keep balky senators in line. Maryland's Senator John Marshall Butler was called to the White House and told that jobs he wanted filled in Maryland might depend on his vote to admit 240,000 refugees into the U. S. A. . . . U. S. marshals, district attorneys and judges in their states are important to senators . . . The same tactic was used with Senator Watkins of Utah when he hesitated about introducing the 240,000 increased immigration act. He was promised the appointment of Tom Lyon, Bureau of Mines director . . . Vice President Nixon has turned out to be a newsman's bonanza for what's going on inside the White House . . . One reason for the private White House dinner for Cardinal Spellman, Herbert Hoover and General MacArthur was the fear MacArthur might sound off in support of his old friend, Syngman Rhee. MacArthur was close to Rhee, used to butter him up more than U. S. officials have of late . . . Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire gets invited to dine at the White House almost as much as the man who may run against him, Assistant President Sherman Adams, ex-governor of New Hampshire . . . Correction—Contrary to a witness in the Key West naval base smoker embroglio, Mayor C. B. Harvey states that he was not present at either of the two Navy smokers and I am glad to make this fact clear.

Ike's Special Envoy

It's an amazing paradox that the man who is Eisenhower's personal representative to President Syngman Rhee, Walter Robertson, happens to be the same man who was Gen. George Marshall's envoy to the Chinese Communists when Marshall was trying to patch up a Communist-Nationalist coalition in China.

The other two diplomats who then believed it was possible to form a coalition between the Communists and Chiang Kai-Shek have virtually been hounded out of government. John Carter Vincent, State Department adviser to Marshall, was so castigated by Senator McCarthy that John Foster Dulles eventually fired him—not for being disloyal but for being wrong on China.

And Marshall himself so incurred McCarthy's wrath that the Wisconsinite delivered a 60,000-word diatribe calling him a traitor, and then published his denunciation in book form. What he said, of course, was delivered from the safety of the Senate floor where he could not be sued for libel.

Meanwhile the third member of the Marshall-Vincent triumvirate, Walter Robertson, now assistant secretary of State, is in Korea. A Virginia broker, he went to China as economic counselor of the American embassy, was elose to Ambassador Marshall, acted as his most trusted assistant in dickering with the Communists and the Nationalists. He was sent to Peiping as head of a truce team consisting of one Chinese Communist, one Chinese Nationalist and one American. Robertson was the American.

Robertson used to say that it was easier to get along with the Communists than the Nationalists. In the end, he got discouraged about an agreement, and so reported to Marshall.

One year later, in 1947, Robertson was picked by John Carter Vincent to go to Korea as a civilian administrator to put Korea in order. The State Department at that time planned to spend half a billion dollars to protect Korea from Red invasion and show the Russians we weren't going to abandon it.

But simultaneously President Truman launched his doctrine of aid to Greece and Turkey and overruled Vincent. He said he couldn't afford to bolster Korea at the same time we were sending money to Turkey and Greece.

This also is a paradox of fate. For, if the recommendation of Vincent, the man McCarthy accused of being pro-Communist, had been carried out, Korea might never have been invaded. Meanwhile the man whom Vincent proposed sending to Korea in 1947 under the Democrats, Walter Robertson, is in Korea for the Republicans trying to settle the war that might have been prevented.

NOTE — Robertson, a lifelong Democrat, came out for Eisenhower last fall and was rewarded with the post of assistant secretary of State in charge of Far Eastern affairs. His wife is an owner of the wealthy Universal Leaf Tobacco Company.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Independence Day, 1953

The Fourth of July is not, for me, a day to get into a car to go somewhere on a crowded, dangerous road. It is, for me, a religious day consecrated to the birth of my nation; a day of prayer and decision.

I am not a citizen of the world. I do not belong to the United Nations. I am not pro-British, or pro-French, or pro this or that country. I am exclusively and totally an American, coursing my once alien roots deeply into the tradition and philosophy of the land in which I was born by the incidence of my parents' immigration.

Some object to loyalty oaths. I come of a people in whose tradition it is daily to affirm loyalty to God. The resounding prayer, the Shma, is an oath of loyalty to God spoken on going to bed and in the morning prayers it is put on the doorpost of each room.

Similarly an affirmation of loyalty to one's country is a tonic, a reminder of responsibility. It is often done by those who recite the "Pledge of Allegiance." If some of our young men and women who wandered into Marxian morasses had only halted long enough to say the words, "I am an American," they might have faltered, or even turned back, on a road that can only lead to social ostracism, prison, or the electric chair.

"I am an American"—is an affirmation of nationality, of belonging, of obligation, or responsibility. For too many Americans, association with this nation is just a question of what can be got out of it—a high standard of living, free schools, free lunches, buses to take the children to school, bonuses for veterans, subsidies for industry, for farmers, for workers. Of course, much that is beneficial can be got out of America.

Was Daniel Webster less the American because he had no automobile? Was Abraham Lincoln less the American because he lacked a fancy bathroom set? Was Congress less American when the representatives of the people traveled to it in stagecoaches or on horseback?

If America is only a convenient place to live, it is not worthwhile. It must be, it is more than that. It is an ideal, a hope. It is freedom for man; it is liberty for the individual. It is the human aspiration that makes the erect man stand in the dignity of his own person. That ideal is unchanged in the 177 years since Thomas Jefferson penned the glorious preamble to the Declaration of Independence.

To that ideal the founders of our nation pledged their sacred honor and risked their lives. We have now all the benefits of their achievements. But are we contributing to the strengthening of this nation for the generations that are to succeed us?

How does one contribute to national strength? The first necessity is unswerving loyalty. "I am an American," becomes not a jumble of words but an article of faith. Love of country dictates its own obligations.

There are those who sarcastically use the phrase, "super-patriots," or "200 per cent Americans." There are no percentages in love. One does not fractionate the love for a mother. One does not say that he loves his infant 68.4 per cent. Love is total. It is the most complete emotion. It bespeaks a final acceptance of responsibility and a supreme devotion.

Whoever ridicules patriotism has, in his heart, a rejection of love for America. I recall years ago seeing a Japanese, who was about to leave his country, fill a little wooden box with the soil of Japan. So intense was his love of country that he carried its soil with him, as a loving husband carries a photograph of his wife. He said to me, "Wherever I shall be on the earth's surface, I shall always have a little of Japan with me."

At that time, I had been away from my native land and I was so deeply moved that I asked myself whether I am a lesser man than this Japanese, whether I am less capable of intense and supreme love of country.

This thought comes back to me on the eve of July 4, 1953, when we are beset by war, challenged by treason, confused by internationalism. On such a day, let us simply say, "I am an American!" and pray God's blessing.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

At The Bolshoi Theater

WASHINGTON

A fortnight before the announcement of Stalin's illness a curious announcement appeared in "Pravda." A certain Maj. Gen. Kosynkin was stated to have met with "an untimely death." Kosynkin had never been heard of before, but his death notice revealed that he had held a key post—commander of the Kremlin guard.

Even so, no one would have attached particular significance to the death of Kosynkin, if it had not been for the subsequent death of Stalin. Then the most widespread suspicions were aroused by Stalin's death, the astounding explosion of the famous doctor's plot, and the subsequent reversal of so many Stalinist policies. It seemed very clear indeed that an important faction in the Kremlin had not only disagreed with the aging dictator, but also had feared they would soon be victims of another purge on a great scale.

From these facts, a deduction was drawn, which is now accepted as logical by a very large number —perhaps a majority—of the ablest students of the Soviet enigma. If this deduction is correct, Kosynkin died in the performance of his highest duty, to protect the person of Stalin. One can imagine the pattern of the episode—the gathering of the plotters; the overpowering of the Kremlin guard; the impotent fury of the suddenly naked old dictator.

Lavrenti Beria, chief of the secret Police, and those who were allied with him, both had the means and was thought to have the motives to arrange such an episode. Then, within a few days after the death of Stalin, the old man's chosen heir, Premier Georgi Malenkov, began to lose ground.

Corrective Supplied

Starting with exposure of the doctors' plot, projects sponsored by Malenkov and personalities close to him were dramatically attacked or actually liquidated The reorganization of the Communist Party Secretariat, the purges in the governments of Georgia, the Ukraine and Latvia, and certain shifts in the official party line, were all obvious blows to Malenkov's position.

Malenkov's name all but vanished from the Soviet press. While Malenkov's power seemed to decline, the policies and supporters of Lavrenti Beria appeared to carry all before them. As Beria had been suspected of doing away with Stalin, so the master of the secret police was now again suspected of having removed Malenkov from the scene. By last week, Malenkov was rumored to be dead.

At this juncture, what pass for the social columns of the Moscow press supplied a sharp corrective. An announcement appeared that the whole leadership of the Soviet state had honored last Saturday evening's performance of the opera, "Dekembristy," at the Bolshoi Theater. Malenkov's name headed the list, but the name of Beria alone was not included. And this absence of Beria from the theater party on Saturday has now started speculation on a new line, that Beria is in trouble rather than Malenkov.

This faverish summary is by no means intended to reflect upon those who seek to unriddle the Soviet enigma. On the contrary, it is altogether probable that Stalin was murdered. It is quite certain that the other Soviet leaders have been hard at work cutting Malenkov down to size. And it is even possible that the non-appearance of Baria at the Saturday opera has a significance not visible on the surface.

Uprisings An Issue

What this summary is intended to indicate, rather, is the extreme fluidity and doubtfulness of the present situation in Moscow. And now, in the midst of this doubtful situation in the Kremlin, a bombshell has exploded, in the form of the uprisings in East Germany, in Czechoslovakia and elsewhere in the satellite area.

Any such disaster invariably has the widest political repercussions in the Soviet system. The Soviet doctrine is that the system itself is never to blame—that individuals are always at fault. Under the best circumstances, therefore, scapegoats would now be driven out; human sacrifices would be offered, because of the setback in Eastern Europe. But this setback, the worst that Soviet policy has met with in a very long time, has now occurred in the midst of an envenomed struggle for power within the Kremlin.

Inevitably, therefore, the setback and the struggle for power will get mixed up together, as it were. Some of those engaged in the struggle for power will be placed on the defensive; others will be strengthened; and the set-back itself will become an issue in the struggle.

Precisely this is now thought to be happening. What is much more important, the Kremlin is also thought to be taking a new look at the policies evolved since Stalin's death.

On the one hand, the Kremlin cannot carry on its peace offensive with any hope of success, while engaging in a campaign of iron repression throughout Eastern Europe. On the other hand, Eastern Europe may be in danger, if iron repression is not resorted to. The Pilsen steelworkers, the construction gangs of the Stalin Allee, may well have upset the Kremlin's best laid plans, and have given a new twist to history. Unwittingly, they may have created conditions in which the peace offensive will have to be abandoned.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Nobody should be surprised that there is a deadlock between President Rhee of the Republic of Korea and the United States Government — it will, indeed, be a surprise if anybody devises a way out that doesn't spell trouble for both countries.

To understand the parley now going on in Seoul between the special envoy of President Eisenhower —Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson—and President Rhee, this imaginary dialogue, derived in part from some of the official statements already made by both sides, may be helpful:

Mr. Rhee: 'If I agree to an armistice, how long will the subsequent 'political conference' last?"

Mr. Robertson: "I don't know."

Mr. Rhee: "Why can't the conference be limited to 90 days?"

Mr. Robertson: "That might be too short."

Mr. Rhee: "Can we limit it at all?"

Mr. Robertson. "I don't know. The UN will have to decide that."

Mr. Rhee: "If the political conference lasts indefinitely, there will be no unification of Korea."

Mr. Robertson: "We are hopeful we can achieve unification of Korea by negotiation."

Up To U. N.

Mr. Rhee: "What makes you think you can achieve without force what you have not been able to achieve with force?"

Mr. Robertson: "We are hopeful."

Mr. Rhee: "If the Communists violate the armistice terms, what will you do?"

Mr. Robertson: "The UN will have to decide that."

Mr. Rhee: "Why can't the United States and Korea sign a military pact which will assure military action by both of us if the armistice isn't kept or if the political conference runs on indefinitely?"

Mr. Robertson: "We can sign only a treaty agreeing to consult with each other in case of an armed attack—a consultation such as is provided for in our treaties with the Philippines and with Australia and New Zealand."

Mr. Rhee: "But these are island countries not readily invaded by armies. Suppose an army from the north suddenly attacks us in Korea and suppose the political conference has not attained unification of Korea—what then?"

Mr. Robertson: "The President has written you that we will not use force to unite Korea."

Mr. Rhee: "But if an attack comes suddenly, there will not be time for your 'constitutional processes' to be invoked—we would have to act at once. Why shouldn't we exchange notes now agreeing to immediate military action in such a contingency?"

Mr. Robertson: "I don't think our Senate would agree to that—"

Mr. Rhee: "Mr. Truman didn't ask the Senate for authority but acted at once—"

Mr. Robertson: "I don't think our public opinion wants any commitments made to do any more fighting in Korea after the armistice is signed. You must remember the President has said we do not intend to use force to secure the unification of Korea."

No Pledge From U. S.

Mr. Rhee: "But you will use force again to repel aggression ir the Communists move south of the armistice line?"

Mr. Robertson: "The United States can give you no pledges on that, as it would be up to the U. N. again.

Mr. Rhee: "We, of course, are not members of the U.N. but supposing the U.N. does ask its members again to use force to repel aggression, would the United States have to ask Congress for authority to act or can you do again what Mr. Truman did?"

Mr. Robertson: "That's too much for me. Maybe we better have a conference on a higher level to answer that question."

And so the talk probably goes back and forth, leaving Syngman Rhee alone with his problem—deserted by military allies the moment he signs an armistic and threatened at any moment with extinction if he doesn't fight. Small wonder that Rhee wants the UN forces and the Chinese Communists armies both to withdraw so that the Korean factions can decide the issue for themselves without outside interference in their own civil war.

Questions About Korea

The Reds got into Korea ostensibly to drive the Japanese out, a few days before the U. S. war with Japan ended. Korea had been a Japanese colony for 50 years, during which time the people of Korea had no chance to practice self-government or train officials. Many subsequent troubles stem from this fact.

After Russian troops had entered Korea in 1945 and were rapidly overrunning the country, the U. S. faced the practical question: how to keep them from overrunning it all. This was done by an agreement between military commanders, providing that American and Russian forces should stay on their respective sides of the 38th Parallel.

Because Korea was a liberated country, not an enemy nation, it was agreed that both forces should depart after a government of united Korea had been set up. This agreement the Russians subsequently violated.

Would a Korean armistice now be another Munich? An armistice is merely a ceasefire agreement, a military arrangement. Any political concessions comparable to Munich would be made later, in political talks leading to a peace treaty. But the shameful thing about the Munich agreement was that it surrendered territory to Germany before a shot had been fired in its defense. Whatever agreement there may be in Korea has been preceded by 140,000 U. S. casualties.

Who is to blame? Mistakes were certainly made, but historians of the future, with the advantage of hindsight, will have the task of clarifying a situation that most Americans violently dislike.

Cloud Seeders' Denial

Atomic scientists having absolved themselves of blame for the unprecedented series of tornadoes by which the country has been plagued this year, it was to be expected that cloud seeders—or modern rainmakers—would do likewise.

"Many people," said Kenneth C. Raetz of Denver, a member of the board of counselors of the National Association of Industrial Meteorologists at its annual convention in Chicago, "have tried to make our group the whipping boy for all these tornadoes just because we seed clouds to make it rain. That's like saying a 10-ton truck went off the road and plowed through a farmer's barn because a bumblebee flew against its side."

Raetz sounds quite convincing until he takes in too much territory by tossing in a word or two absolving the A-bomb of any connection with tornadoes. Obviously he couldn't know much about A-bombs.

From a meteorologist's viewpoint, Raetz said, an atom bomb would not blow the hat off your head. An average thunderstorm carries a punch many times more powerful than the famed bomb, he said. He intimated, that Chicago's stockyards have greater effect on distant atmospheric conditions than A-bombs.

Members of the industrial meterologists, Raetz said, engage in other activities besides cloud-seeding, it seems. The group's biggest job is to forecast weather conditions on a long range basis for industry and agriculture.

Men Without Hope

There is nothing especially startling, or very new, about the story of Captain Jan Cwiklinski, who walked ashore from the Polish liner Batory in England and never went back. If it is unusual in any respect, it is because it ended happily. Thousands have tried and failed to flee from Poland since the Communists seized control—and many of these are dead. The master of the Batory has been given asylum in England and he will be safe.

But is this a happy ending? What of Captain Cwiklinski's wife and two children back in Poland? He knows they will be subjected to reprisals. He expects that his property will be confiscated, and that his family will be moved at least a hundred miles from the coast to prevent their escape.

After that? Captain Cwiklinski, safe through an exile, will have weeks and months and years to wonder how they are faring, and to torture himself with the thought that if he had gone back he might have saved them some part of their sufferings.

He is sure that if he had gone back he would have been arrested. He personally knows of two men, among the 500 seamen who have been purged from the Polish merchant marine during the last few months, who were sentenced to death on charges of "moral sabotage." He never joined the Communist party. His mind tells him what fate was awaiting him and that he could have done nothing for his family by accepting it. But can he silence his heart?

In any case, concern for his loved ones will feed this man's hatred of the regime he served well as master of Poland's finest liner. Will it be strange, then, if he becomes like other men who want above everything else to end this curse on mankind?

Those others have been staging "hopeless" demonstrations against their Communists oppressors in East Germany, in Czechoslovakia, and elsewhere behind the Iron Curtain. It is always men who have been left without hope who rebel against tyrants and breathe life into hope again.

Gross Debt Appraisal

Borrowings by federal and state governments, by businesses and individuals keep on rising. They advanced the country's gross debt last year to $640,000,000,000, or 40 per cent greater than at the end of World War II.

Over the seven-year period, private debt—that is corporate and noncorporate debt combined—shows a greater expansion, percentagewise, than public debt. Of course, in a virile economy of steadily mounting production and consumption, private debt increase is a normal concomitant. But it is of no small significance that individual or noncorporate debt has been growing at a greater rate than corporate debt.

It is an economic maxim that the burden of debt is in direct ratio to income. For example, it may be argued that as the result of higher national income, the national debt presently is less a burden on the national economy than when the debt was much smaller. Obviously the situation is reversed with falling income, and adjustment to the change may become very painful.

As to the possibility of adjustment at some time in the next few years experts differ, mainly in degree, but to date statistical records show economic activity has outstripped debt increase by a wide margin.

Nevertheless, a debt volume the equivalent of $4,000 per capita is not lightly to be regarded. In this situation the tight bank loan market, now eased by the Federal Reserve Board for government needs, has been a salutary force for prudence.

How To Keep Well

Spare Your Heart

So many advances have been made in the knowledge of heart disease that we no longer live in fear and dread of developing the condition. Medicines are available to lessen irritability of the old ticker and others to improve the flow of blood through the coronary arteries. Surgeons have devised several operations to correct defects that 10 years ago was considered irreparable. Furthermore, it is the exception rather than the rule to die in a heart attack. But despite these improvements, there is no cure for the more common ailments and we have not been able to concoct a synthetic substitute for which we can trade in our old model heart after it has recorded 50,000 miles of wear and tear.

Coronary thrombosis and angina pectoris continue to be the black sheep of the group. These disorders develop in the later decades of life and result from narrowing or plugging of the two small vessels that supply the cardiac muscle with blood. Heart associations are spending large sums of money to discover ways in which the disease can be prevented, delayed, or treated. Numerous remedies have been uncovered to aid the heart but in recent years it has become obvious that something also must be done for the individual. All too often the living and working conditions and the personality of the victim nullify the good effects of even the best remedy. The importance of these factors is being recognized more and more. Industry has lost so many key executives from heart disease that it is intensely interested in prevention. This usually entails measures that minimize stress and strain.

The behavior of the person on the job is only part of the story, however, and it is here that preventive measures hit a snag. Many of those destined to heart attacks not only work but play hard. These two characteristics bring forth such complimentary remarks as, "I don't see how you do it." But the pumping organ has no ears and cannot hear the praise bestowed upon its master. At the end of eight to 10 hours of hard work, it is ready to relax. Furthermore, the half dozen cocktails taken as restoratives have most of their influence on the brain and not the heart. Burning the candle at both ends is well tolerated in youth but not for long in middle life. There are exceptions but why take chances? Too many of those who have had heart attacks fall into this category. The lesson to be learned is that, after eight hours of hard work, eight hours of hard play never should be added.

The heart also suffers when there is lack of harmony in the home. Now and then cardiac attacks are blamed on the strain and responsibility of business but the close friends of the victim often come up with another story; the turmoil is not in the office but at home. Meanwhile, scientific work on the heart is continuing. The question of the moment is how to prevent the coronary arteries from becoming hardened. Current plans involve diets concerned chiefly with fats and cholesterol.

LATE MIGRAINE

Mrs. H. writes: Could migraine attacks first appear in middle age?

REPLY

Yes, but this is the exception. In women, migraine usually starts early in life and subsides with the menopause.

GIDDY FROM MEDICATION

T. H. writes: Why do antihistaminic pills leave me dizzy?

REPLY

This represents a reaction to the drug which 10 to 15 per cent of the users develop. Why you are picked, no one knows. If the antihistaminic is needed, ask your physician to prescribe another brand.

COUGH AND HERNIA

Mrs. Y. writes: Can violent coughing spells lead to hernia in a woman.

REPLY

Yes, but when it does an inherent weakness of the abdominal wall must have existed long before hernia developed.

NOT ADVISED

A. S. writes: My 5-year-old son has a nose drip which makes him cough constantly all through the winter. I have been using argyrol every day, which seems to help, but would like to know whether this is harmful in any way.

REPLY

Yes, because no antiseptic should be used routinely on delicate nasal tissues. In addition, some of the silver in the argyrol is absorbed and when it accumulates in the skin, the affected area turns gray. Why not let the child's nose alone or have a physician determine where the irritation is coming from. In some instances a discharge of this type is caused by sinusitis and in others, by an allergic disturbance.

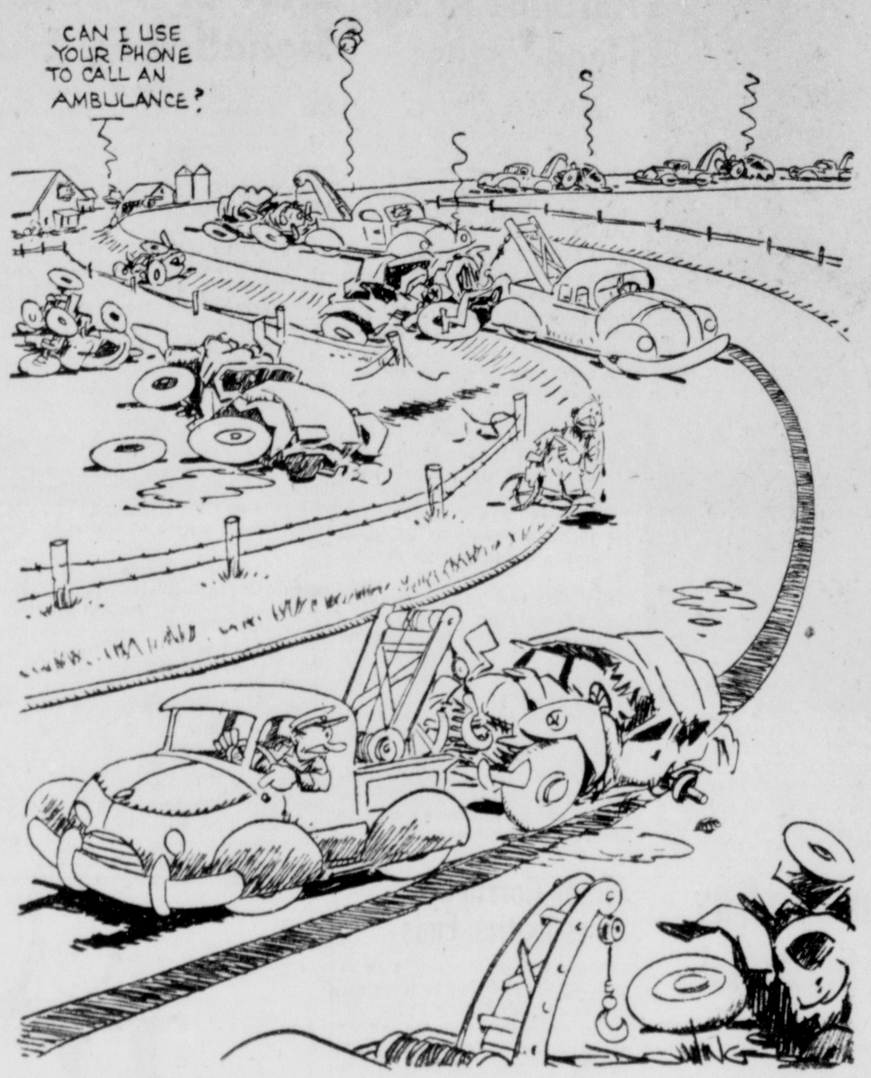

METABOLISM AND GOITER

Mrs. Y. writes: Could a goiter be present if the metabolism test is normal?

REPLY

Yes. Goiter represents enlargement of the thyroid gland and has nothing to do with its activity as determined by the metabolic rate.

Dan Reed Threatened To Bottle Up All Future Tax Bills; Ike's Envoy To Korea Tried To Get Chinese Communist Co-Operation In 1946

WASHINGTON — INSIDE THE TAX FIGHT—Reasons why the little group of embattled Republicans backtracked on the excess-profits fight were threefold: 1) Uncle Dan Reed, the thorn in Ike's side, had warned he would bottle up all other tax and social security legislation inside his Ways and Means Committee; 2) Some corporations were planning a court battle over the constitutionality of a tax bill which bypassed the Ways and Means Committee; 3) The Democrats refused to give GOP leaders the votes . . . "We're not pulling your chestnuts out of the fire," Sam Rayburn told Republican Leader Charley Halleck . . . The man who helped call off the steam-roller tax tactics was Ike's close friend, Sen. Frank Carlson, both Kansas boys . . . The administration called up all reinforcements to help in the tax battle. Even Assistant Secretary of State Thruston Morton, ex-congressman from Louisville, Ky., was summoned to the White House and ordered to buttonhole ex-colleagues . . . When he protested that his job was foreign relations, not taxes, he was bluntly told: "We're using everyone in this fight!" . . . The fight might have been won months ago if the White House had called in Chairman Reed at the very start instead of bypassing him as it did last January and consulting Senator Millikin of Colorado instead.

INSIDE THE WHITE HOUSE—For the first time, Ike is using federal patronage to keep balky senators in line. Maryland's Senator John Marshall Butler was called to the White House and told that jobs he wanted filled in Maryland might depend on his vote to admit 240,000 refugees into the U. S. A. . . . U. S. marshals, district attorneys and judges in their states are important to senators . . . The same tactic was used with Senator Watkins of Utah when he hesitated about introducing the 240,000 increased immigration act. He was promised the appointment of Tom Lyon, Bureau of Mines director . . . Vice President Nixon has turned out to be a newsman's bonanza for what's going on inside the White House . . . One reason for the private White House dinner for Cardinal Spellman, Herbert Hoover and General MacArthur was the fear MacArthur might sound off in support of his old friend, Syngman Rhee. MacArthur was close to Rhee, used to butter him up more than U. S. officials have of late . . . Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire gets invited to dine at the White House almost as much as the man who may run against him, Assistant President Sherman Adams, ex-governor of New Hampshire . . . Correction—Contrary to a witness in the Key West naval base smoker embroglio, Mayor C. B. Harvey states that he was not present at either of the two Navy smokers and I am glad to make this fact clear.

Ike's Special Envoy

It's an amazing paradox that the man who is Eisenhower's personal representative to President Syngman Rhee, Walter Robertson, happens to be the same man who was Gen. George Marshall's envoy to the Chinese Communists when Marshall was trying to patch up a Communist-Nationalist coalition in China.

The other two diplomats who then believed it was possible to form a coalition between the Communists and Chiang Kai-Shek have virtually been hounded out of government. John Carter Vincent, State Department adviser to Marshall, was so castigated by Senator McCarthy that John Foster Dulles eventually fired him—not for being disloyal but for being wrong on China.

And Marshall himself so incurred McCarthy's wrath that the Wisconsinite delivered a 60,000-word diatribe calling him a traitor, and then published his denunciation in book form. What he said, of course, was delivered from the safety of the Senate floor where he could not be sued for libel.

Meanwhile the third member of the Marshall-Vincent triumvirate, Walter Robertson, now assistant secretary of State, is in Korea. A Virginia broker, he went to China as economic counselor of the American embassy, was close to Ambassador Marshall, acted as his most trusted assistant in dickering with the Communists and the Nationalists. He was sent to Peiping as head of a truce team consisting of one Chinese Communist, one Chinese Nationalist and one American. Robertson was the American.

Robertson used to say that it was easier to get along with the Communists than the Nationalists. In the end, he got discouraged about an agreement, and so reported to Marshall.

One year later, in 1947, Robertson was picked by John Carter Vincent to go to Korea as a civilian administrator to put Korea in order. The State Department at that time planned to spend half a billion dollars to protect Korea from Red invasion and show the Russians we weren't going to abandon it.

But simultaneously President Truman launched his doctrine of aid to Greece and Turkey and overruled Vincent. He said he couldn't afford to bolster Korea at the same time we were sending money to Turkey and Greece.

This also is a paradox of fate. For, if the recommendation of Vincent, the man McCarthy accused of being pro-Communist, had been carried out, Korea might never have been invaded. Meanwhile the man whom Vincent proposed sending to Korea in 1947 under the Democrats, Walter Robertson, is in Korea for the Republicans trying to settle the war that might have been prevented.

NOTE — Robertson, a lifelong Democrat, came out for Eisenhower last fall and was rewarded with the post of assistant secretary of State in charge of Far Eastern affairs. His wife is an owner of the wealthy Universal Leaf Tobacco Company.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Independence Day, 1953

The Fourth of July is not, for me, a day to get into a car to go somewhere on a crowded, dangerous road. It is, for me, a religious day consecrated to the birth of my nation; a day of prayer and decision.

I am not a citizen of the world. I do not belong to the United Nations. I am not pro-British, or pro-French, or pro this or that country. I am exclusively and totally an American, coursing my once alien roots deeply into the tradition and philosophy of the land in which I was born by the incidence of my parents' immigration.

Some object to loyalty oaths. I come of a people in whose tradition it is daily to affirm loyalty to God. The resounding prayer, the Shma, is an oath of loyalty to God spoken on going to bed and in the morning prayers it is put on the doorpost of each room.

Similarly an affirmation of loyalty to one's country is a tonic, a reminder of responsibility. It is often done by those who recite the "Pledge of Allegiance." If some of our young men and women who wandered into Marxian morasses had only halted long enough to say the words, "I am an American," they might have faltered, or even turned back, on a road that can only lead to social ostracism, prison, or the electric chair.

"I am an American"—is an affirmation of nationality, of belonging, of obligation, or responsibility. For too many Americans, association with this nation is just a question of what can be got out of it—a high standard of living, free schools, free lunches, buses to take the children to school, bonuses for veterans, subsidies for industry, for farmers, for workers. Of course, much that is beneficial can be got out of America.

Was Daniel Webster less the American because he had no automobile? Was Abraham Lincoln less the American because he lacked a fancy bathroom set? Was Congress less American when the representatives of the people traveled to it in stagecoaches or on horseback?

If America is only a convenient place to live, it is not worthwhile. It must be, it is more than that. It is an ideal, a hope. It is freedom for man; it is liberty for the individual. It is the human aspiration that makes the erect man stand in the dignity of his own person. That ideal is unchanged in the 177 years since Thomas Jefferson penned the glorious preamble to the Declaration of Independence.

To that ideal the founders of our nation pledged their sacred honor and risked their lives. We have now all the benefits of their achievements. But are we contributing to the strengthening of this nation for the generations that are to succeed us?

How does one contribute to national strength? The first necessity is unswerving loyalty. "I am an American," becomes not a jumble of words but an article of faith. Love of country dictates its own obligations.

There are those who sarcastically use the phrase, "super-patriots," or "200 per cent Americans." There are no percentages in love. One does not fractionate the love for a mother. One does not say that he loves his infant 68.4 per cent. Love is total. It is the most complete emotion. It bespeaks a final acceptance of responsibility and a supreme devotion.

Whoever ridicules patriotism has, in his heart, a rejection of love for America. I recall years ago seeing a Japanese, who was about to leave his country, fill a little wooden box with the soil of Japan. So intense was his love of country that he carried its soil with him, as a loving husband carries a photograph of his wife. He said to me, "Wherever I shall be on the earth's surface, I shall always have a little of Japan with me."

At that time, I had been away from my native land and I was so deeply moved that I asked myself whether I am a lesser man than this Japanese, whether I am less capable of intense and supreme love of country.

This thought comes back to me on the eve of July 4, 1953, when we are beset by war, challenged by treason, confused by internationalism. On such a day, let us simply say, "I am an American!" and pray God's blessing.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

At The Bolshoi Theater

WASHINGTON

A fortnight before the announcement of Stalin's illness a curious announcement appeared in "Pravda." A certain Maj. Gen. Kosynkin was stated to have met with "an untimely death." Kosynkin had never been heard of before, but his death notice revealed that he had held a key post—commander of the Kremlin guard.

Even so, no one would have attached particular significance to the death of Kosynkin, if it had not been for the subsequent death of Stalin. Then the most widespread suspicions were aroused by Stalin's death, the astounding explosion of the famous doctor's plot, and the subsequent reversal of so many Stalinist policies. It seemed very clear indeed that an important faction in the Kremlin had not only disagreed with the aging dictator, but also had feared they would soon be victims of another purge on a great scale.

From these facts, a deduction was drawn, which is now accepted as logical by a very large number —perhaps a majority—of the ablest students of the Soviet enigma. If this deduction is correct, Kosynkin died in the performance of his highest duty, to protect the person of Stalin. One can imagine the pattern of the episode—the gathering of the plotters; the overpowering of the Kremlin guard; the impotent fury of the suddenly naked old dictator.

Lavrenti Beria, chief of the secret Police, and those who were allied with him, both had the means and was thought to have the motives to arrange such an episode. Then, within a few days after the death of Stalin, the old man's chosen heir, Premier Georgi Malenkov, began to lose ground.

Corrective Supplied

Starting with exposure of the doctors' plot, projects sponsored by Malenkov and personalities close to him were dramatically attacked or actually liquidated. The reorganization of the Communist Party Secretariat, the purges in the governments of Georgia, the Ukraine and Latvia, and certain shifts in the official party line, were all obvious blows to Malenkov's position.

Malenkov's name all but vanished from the Soviet press. While Malenkov's power seemed to decline, the policies and supporters of Lavrenti Beria appeared to carry all before them. As Beria had been suspected of doing away with Stalin, so the master of the secret police was now again suspected of having removed Malenkov from the scene. By last week, Malenkov was rumored to be dead.

At this juncture, what pass for the social columns of the Moscow press supplied a sharp corrective. An announcement appeared that the whole leadership of the Soviet state had honored last Saturday evening's performance of the opera, "Dekembristy," at the Bolshoi Theater. Malenkov's name headed the list, but the name of Beria alone was not included. And this absence of Beria from the theater party on Saturday has now started speculation on a new line, that Beria is in trouble rather than Malenkov.

This faverish summary is by no means intended to reflect upon those who seek to unriddle the Soviet enigma. On the contrary, it is altogether probable that Stalin was murdered. It is quite certain that the other Soviet leaders have been hard at work cutting Malenkov down to size. And it is even possible that the non-appearance of Baria at the Saturday opera has a significance not visible on the surface.

Uprisings An Issue

What this summary is intended to indicate, rather, is the extreme fluidity and doubtfulness of the present situation in Moscow. And now, in the midst of this doubtful situation in the Kremlin, a bombshell has exploded, in the form of the uprisings in East Germany, in Czechoslovakia and elsewhere in the satellite area.

Any such disaster invariably has the widest political repercussions in the Soviet system. The Soviet doctrine is that the system itself is never to blame—that individuals are always at fault. Under the best circumstances, therefore, scapegoats would now be driven out; human sacrifices would be offered, because of the setback in Eastern Europe. But this setback, the worst that Soviet policy has met with in a very long time, has now occurred in the midst of an envenomed struggle for power within the Kremlin.

Inevitably, therefore, the setback and the struggle for power will get mixed up together, as it were. Some of those engaged in the struggle for power will be placed on the defensive; others will be strengthened; and the set-back itself will become an issue in the struggle.

Precisely this is now thought to be happening. What is much more important, the Kremlin is also thought to be taking a new look at the policies evolved since Stalin's death.

On the one hand, the Kremlin cannot carry on its peace offensive with any hope of success, while engaging in a campaign of iron repression throughout Eastern Europe. On the other hand, Eastern Europe may be in danger, if iron repression is not resorted to. The Pilsen steelworkers, the construction gangs of the Stalin Allee, may well have upset the Kremlin's best laid plans, and have given a new twist to history. Unwittingly, they may have created conditions in which the peace offensive will have to be abandoned.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Nobody should be surprised that there is a deadlock between President Rhee of the Republic of Korea and the United States Government — it will, indeed, be a surprise if anybody devises a way out that doesn't spell trouble for both countries.

To understand the parley now going on in Seoul between the special envoy of President Eisenhower —Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson—and President Rhee, this imaginary dialogue, derived in part from some of the official statements already made by both sides, may be helpful:

Mr. Rhee: 'If I agree to an armistice, how long will the subsequent 'political conference' last?"

Mr. Robertson: "I don't know."

Mr. Rhee: "Why can't the conference be limited to 90 days?"

Mr. Robertson: "That might be too short."

Mr. Rhee: "Can we limit it at all?"

Mr. Robertson. "I don't know. The UN will have to decide that."

Mr. Rhee: "If the political conference lasts indefinitely, there will be no unification of Korea."

Mr. Robertson: "We are hopeful we can achieve unification of Korea by negotiation."

Up To U. N.

Mr. Rhee: "What makes you think you can achieve without force what you have not been able to achieve with force?"

Mr. Robertson: "We are hopeful."

Mr. Rhee: "If the Communists violate the armistice terms, what will you do?"

Mr. Robertson: "The UN will have to decide that."

Mr. Rhee: "Why can't the United States and Korea sign a military pact which will assure military action by both of us if the armistice isn't kept or if the political conference runs on indefinitely?"

Mr. Robertson: "We can sign only a treaty agreeing to consult with each other in case of an armed attack—a consultation such as is provided for, in our treaties with the Philippines and with Australia and New Zealand."

Mr. Rhee: "But these are island countries not readily invaded by armies. Suppose an army from the north suddenly attacks us in Korea and suppose the political conference has not attained unification of Korea—what then?"

Mr. Robertson: "The President has written you that we will not use force to unite Korea."

Mr. Rhee: "But if an attack comes suddenly, there will not be time for your 'constitutional processes' to be invoked—we would have to act at once. Why shouldn't we exchange notes now agreeing to immediate military action in such a contingency?"

Mr. Robertson: "I don't think our Senate would agree to that—"

Mr. Rhee: "Mr. Truman didn't ask the Senate for authority but acted at once—"

Mr. Robertson: "I don't think our public opinion wants any commitments made to do any more fighting in Korea after the armistice is signed. You must remember the President has said we do not intend to use force to secure the unification of Korea."

No Pledge From U. S.

Mr. Rhee: "But you will use force again to repel aggression if the Communists move south of the armistice line?"

Mr. Robertson: "The United States can give you no pledges on that, as it would be up to the U. N. again.

Mr. Rhee: "We, of course, are not members of the U.N. but supposing the U.N. does ask its members again to use force to repel aggression, would the United States have to ask Congress for authority to act or can you do again what Mr. Truman did?"

Mr. Robertson: "That's too much for me. Maybe we better have a conference on a higher level to answer that question."

And so the talk probably goes back and forth, leaving Syngman Rhee alone with his problem—deserted by military allies the moment he signs an armistic and threatened at any moment with extinction if he doesn't fight. Small wonder that Rhee wants the UN forces and the Chinese Communists armies both to withdraw so that the Korean factions can decide the issue for themselves without outside interference in their own civil war.

Benefits Of Savage River Dam Are Cited In Geological Survey Report

Industry Aided By Increase In Flow Of Water

The worth of the Savage River Dam, in the mountains of Garrett county 30 miles west of Cumberland, is being demonstrated forcibly at present.

A report of the local office of the Geological Survey of the Department of Interior for June lists. 30 per cent of the water in the Potomac River at Cumberland as coming from the huge impoundment.

Julian Patrick, chief engineer of the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, said the dam is providing 75 per cent of the water which flows past the paper mill at Luke.

He pointed out that New Creek and other tributaries of the Potomac river between Luke and Cumberland contribute to the flow here.

The Potomac at Kitzmiller Wednesday had a flow of only 11,000,000 gallons while 60,000,000 is about normal.

Use of the water impounded in Savage River dam to augment this supply is of great assistance to operation of the Luke plant, as the dam makes it possible for the plant to operate as usual despite a lack of water from the flow of the Potomac above the Luke facility.

The paper mill uses large amounts of water in its processes, and Patrick states the Savage River dam was a big factor in the expansion of the mill in the past few years.

Some interesting facts were disclosed by Patrick in the use of the impounded water in the dam. The earthen structure, which has a concrete core, holds back six and one-half billion gallons of water, and at present 6.4 billion gallons are on hand. The water is just one and one-half feet below the overflow spillway.

It is estimated that 40,000,000 gallons are being discharged daily during the current dry weather to keep the Potomac flow at the desired rate.

Release of the Savage River dam water is being made about three weeks earlier than last summer, the first time full-scale use was made of the waters.

The Geological Survey report issued in connection with runoff conditions of the Potomac at Cumberland was made by Robert M. Beall, engineer in charge. The report follows:

The mean daily flow of the North Branch Potomac River at Cumberland (Wiley Ford gauge) during the month was 674 cubic feet per second (436 million gallons per day), which is 19.6 per cent below normal. The daily flow varied between 4,580 cubic feet per second on June 1, and 185 cubic feet per second on June 30.

Operation of Savage River reservoir caused an average increase of 13.5 cubic feet per second, or two per cent of the flow in the North Branch at Cumberland. Increased releases of water have been made from the reservoir since June 24 to sustain the flow in the North Branch. During this period, the Savage River contribution has amounted to about 30 per cent of the flow at Cumberland.

Under normal conditions of rainfall the average natural runoff of the North Branch Potomac River at Cumberland, except as modified by the operation of Savage River Dam, is expected to be 245 cubic feet per second, 54 per cent of the normal for July. Under adverse conditions of little or no rainfall, the natural flow would be expected to drop to about 70 cubic feet per second, 15 per cent of normal. Low flows in particular are subject to augmentation by releases from Savage River Reservoir and these "natural" minimums are not expected to be experienced.

AERIALISTS IN CIRCUS HERE — The Wallyetty Sisters, Viennese stars, will be among the many aerialists to be seen in the Tom Pack's Circus to be held here July 25 in Fort Hill High School Stadium. The circus is being sponsored by Ali Ghan Temple. Performances will be held at 2:30 and 8 p. m., and tickets may be purchased at the Recorder's Office.

Police Note Fireworks Ban

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn warned yesterday that fireworks of all types will not be tolerated in Cumberland on Saturday, the Fourth of July, or at any time during the holiday weekend.

Flynn said members of the department will be instructed to arrest anyone setting off firecrackers and unnecessary noise makers. A city ordinance calls for a fine of from $1 to $25 for violators.

Under state law, the use of firecrackers, squibs, rockets, sparklers, roman candles, torpedoes, bombs, paper caps, grenades, fireballoons, signal lights and any combustible or explosive composition is banned. Each offense is punishable by a fine up to $50.

Persons selling fireworks in Maryland may be fined not more than $200.

Chief Flynn appealed for a "safe and sane Independence Day" and urged local residents to refrain from violating laws by transporting fireworks here from other states.

In former years, he pointed out, a number of children and adults were injured by fireworks. Some lost fingers or were badly burned and required hospitalization.

Although the use of fireworks is prohibited for individual., the City Recreation Department will stage a display Saturday at dusk (between 9:30 and 9:45 p. m.) in Constitution Park. Co-sponsors are Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, and its Auxiliary Unit.

The display, handled by Bert Caldara of Mt. Savage, will be set off at a point overlooking the city and will last from 45 minutes to an hour.

RR Traffic Is Normal Following Derailment

The westbound track of the Western Maryland Railway at Deal, Pa., 25 miles west of here, was cleared about 1:45 p. m. yesterday after three Diesel helper locomotives on a freight train derailed about 5:30 a. m.

No one was injured, according to Joseph Miller, superintendent of the Cumberland-Elkins Division, as the three locomotives remained upright just off the rails. Cause of the derailment is under investigation.

The heavy 108-car freight had just reached the crest of the grade and the mishap occurred just before the locomotives were to be cut off the string of cars. There was no delay in traffic as the eastbound track was not affected and trains were routed past the derailment point.

Benefits Of Savage River Dam Are Cited In Geological Survey Report

Industry Aided By Increase In Flow Of Water

The worth of the Savage River Dam, in the mountains of Garrett county 30 miles west of Cumberland, is being demonstrated forcibly at present.

A report of the local office of the Geological Survey of the Department of Interior for June lists 30 per cent of the water in the Potomac River at Cumberland as coming from the huge impoundment.

Julian Patrick, chief engineer of the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, said the dam is providing 75 per cent of the water which flows past the paper mill at Luke.

He pointed out that New Creek and other tributaries of the Potomac river between Luke and Cumberland contribute to the flow here.

The Potomac at Kitzmiller Wednesday had a flow of only 11,000,000 gallons while 60,000,000 is about normal.

Use of the water impounded in Savage River dam to augment this supply is of great assistance to operation of the Luke plant, as the dam makes it possible for the plant to operate as usual despite a lack of water from the flow of the Potomac above the Luke facility.

The paper mill uses large amounts of water in its processes, and Patrick states the Savage River dam was a big factor in the expansion of the mill in the past few years.

Some interesting facts were disclosed by Patrick in the use of the impounded water in the dam. The earthen structure, which has a concrete core, holds back six and one-half billion gallons of water, and at present 6.4 billion gallons are on hand. The water is just one and one-half feet below the overflow spillway.

It is estimated that 40,000,000 gallons are being discharged daily during the current dry weather to keep the Potomac flow at the desired rate.

Release of the Savage River dam water is being made about three weeks earlier than last summer, the first time full-scale use was made of the waters.

The Geological Survey report issued in connection with runoff conditions of the Potomac at Cumberland was made by Robert M. Beall, engineer in charge. The report follows:

The mean daily flow of the North Branch Potomac River at Cumberland (Wiley Ford gauge) during the month was 674 cubic feet per second (436 million gallons per day), which is 19.6 per cent below normal. The daily flow varied between 4,580 cubic feet per second on June 1, and 185 cubic feet per second on June 30.

Operation of Savage River reservoir caused an average increase of 13.5 cubic feet per second, or two per cent of the flow in the North Branch at Cumberland. Increased releases of water have been made from the reservoir since June 24 to sustain the flow in the North Branch. During this period, the Savage River contribution has amounted to about 30 per cent of the flow at Cumberland.

Under normal conditions of rainfall the average natural runoff of the North Branch Potomac River at Cumberland, except as modified by the operation of Savage River Dam, is expected to be 245 cubic feet per second, 54 per cent of the normal for July. Under adverse conditions of little or no rainfall, the natural flow would be expected to drop to about 70 cubic feet per second, 15 per cent of normal. Low flows in particular are subject to augmentation by releases from Savage River Reservoir and these "natural" minimums are not expected to be experienced.

Guard your feminine laurels carefully when you don slacks! Here are the grace-saving techniques!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Why is it that the moment most girls don slacks, pedal pushers or shorts they also put on a masculine stance? Since all but the best-cut slacks penalize all but the best feminine figures, if the wearer also displays any clumsiness, she pays with a bulging, swaying, jiggling hip, a thickened legline, not to mention the cut in womanly appeal.

To carry off any sort of casual attire, your posture as well as your grooming must be polished perfection. Knees akimbo, legs thrown over the arm of a chair, a boisterous stride or slipshod slouch do even less for your looks when in slacks than in skirts.

Walking Slacks

To move in slacks without detracting from your attractiveness, never clop, plod, stride or mince. Work for a step that is about the length of your foot and for a smooth transfer of weight with each step. Walk so that your feet move along two imaginary parallel lines, place no more than two inches apart. Keep your knee action flexible; limit your arm swing to the length of your step. Hold your body tall and taut.

If this manner of locomotion is not your habit, practice, practice and practice. Surprisingly soon you will come to feel and look like a lithe Diana! But be fore-warned — the effect can be destroyed the moment you come to a standstill or sit down, if your legs go askew!

Here's the stance that will slim the look of leg and hip: Draw the heel of one foot, into the instep of the other, keep knees together and relaxed, turn the hips at a slight angle to the forward foot.

Controlled Performance

All "leggy" looks are eliminated in the seated figure by either keeping the legs together and the feet neatly disposed to one side or by crossing the knees just below or above the knee joint.

The highly desired and admired casual air that is so rarely achieved by the trousered woman is never the outgrowth of hap-hazard actions but of controlled performance. Master-mind your ways and you can be a charmer wherever you are and no matter what you are wearing!

Baering Down On The News

Make The Fifth Glorious Too

We are starting the weekend to end weekenders.

The newspapers tonight will give you an actuary's estimate of your chances of reaching for your shoes Monday morning.

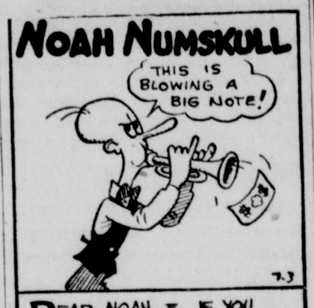

You are two in a million. That's a tall average.

It means over 300 patriots will be bumped off trying to put themselves on a spot on the map.

It makes us long for the good old cautious days when papa held a lighted firecracker in his teeth.

The trouble with our patriotic collisions over the Fourth is the tires are in the wrong place.

The Old Second Guesser

by John Wheeler

The Sweetheart Of The AEF

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — This column should be of interest to oldtimers as well as old admirers of Elsie Janis. She was known in the first World War as the Sweetheart of the AEF, because she was one of the few stage stars who went to France to entertain our soldiers in rest areas and even bustled up to the front lines where she frequently put on her act under fire.

John Wheeler

She is an old friend of mine, so when I arrived here, I telephoned her. We had a great reunion and cut up memories about the golden days. She still has the remnants of the beauty and all the charm which helped to make her one of the best musical comedy actresses in her profession. The visit took me back to my start in the newspaper business when I was a young cub and expected to grow up to be a Joseph Pulitzer, William Randolph Hearst, or at least James Gordon Bennett.

We had a Sunday editor named Leo Redding, who gave me my first journalistic job. He asked me to get a story about the typical New York man — interviews with a leading tailor as to what kind of clothes he wore, an artist like Charles Dana Gibson on what sort of girls he liked, and with an actress as to what she thought of this composite gent. The choices were left to me, so I picked Elsie Janis, whom I had secretly admired from the distance for two or three years.

She invited me to lunch at her apartment. Probably having heard of newspaper reporters and not feeling they were altogether trustworthy, she had her mother sit in to see that we didn't hold hands or anything. As a matter of fact, I was so nervous at meeting this great star, I couldn't pick up my coffee cup because my fingers were shaking so. I said I didn't care for any.

Here was a girl born Elsie Bierbower in Columbus, Ohio, who started on the stage at the age of about three or four. She was a natural imitator and was billed as Little Elsie, later taking her middle name of Janis.

"How old were you when you first came to the Big Town?" I asked her the other day.

"We played at the New York Roof," she answered, falling into the vernacular of the theater, "when I was 14. My mother kept fighting off the Gerry Society, but they finally stopped me on account of my age."

Then we went on to talk about the "Vanderbilt Cup" in which she starred at 16. That was when I admired her from right field in the balcony. Suddenly, she stood up and started to sing a song from the show which became famous called "My Little Chauffeur." She was the old Elsie, and I closed my eyes and slipped back 40 years.

There is a sad story about this talented lady. During World War I, she was in love with a fighting pilot — an Englishman, I think. She and her mother went to London where they were to be married during his leave from the front. He took off on one last combat mission when he was killed, so she arrived to find her fiance was dead. She stayed single for years after that.

Ashmead Bartlett, the celebrated war correspondent was in love with her. He was on a battlewagon in the Dardanelles, which was sunk, and he went down with it, but was rescued dressed like Lady Godiva without the long hair. As soon as he got ashore, he cabled Elsie:

"All is lost but my love for you."

Now she lives alone here in Beverly Hills. She is devoting her life to visiting soldiers, who have been wounded, and doing other good deeds. She has in the last few years turned down many offers, thinking her stage career is behind her, except for her memories. She did say she had sent a song she had written to Bea Lillie the other day, and the English star has told her she would use it. Elsie was as pleased as if her name were in lights again on the marquee.

Guard your feminine laurels carefully when you don slacks! Here are the grace-saving techniques!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Why is it that the moment most girls don slacks, pedal pushers or shorts they also put on a masculine stance? Since all but the best-cut slacks penalize all but the best feminine figures, if the wearer also displays any clumsiness, she pays with a bulging, swaying, jiggling hip, a thickened legline, not to mention the cut in womanly appeal.

To carry off any sort of casual attire, your posture as well as your grooming must be polished perfection. Knees akimbo, legs thrown over the arm of a chair, a boisterous stride or slipshod slouch do even less for your looks when in slacks than in skirts.

Walking Slacks

To move in slacks without detracting from your attractiveness, never clop, plod, stride or mince. Work for a step that is about the length of your foot and for a smooth transfer of weight with each step. Walk so that your feet move along two imaginary parallel lines, place no more than two inches apart. Keep your knee action flexible; limit your arm swing to the length of your step. Hold your body tall and taut.

If this manner of locomotion is not your habit, practice, practice and practice. Surprisingly soon you will come to feel and look like a lithe Diana! But be fore-warned — the effect can be destroyed the moment you come to a standstill or sit down, if your legs go askew!

Here's the stance that will slim the look of leg and hip: Draw the heel of one foot, into the instep of the other, keep knees together and relaxed, turn the hips at a slight angle to the forward foot.

Controlled Performance

All "leggy" looks are eliminated in the seated figure by either keeping the legs together and the feet neatly disposed to one side or by crossing the knees just below or above the knee joint.

The highly desired and admired casual air that is so rarely achieved by the trousered woman is never the outgrowth of hap-hazard actions but of controlled performance. Master-mind your ways and you can be a charmer wherever you are and no matter what you are wearing!

We are starting the weekend to end weekenders.

The newspapers tonight will give you an actuary's estimate of your chances of reaching for your shoes Monday morning.

You are two in a million. That's a tall average.

It means over 300 patriots will be bumped off trying to put themselves on a spot on the map.

It makes us long for the good old cautious days when papa held a lighted firecracker in his teeth.

The trouble with our patriotic collisions over the Fourth is the tires are in the wrong place.

The Old Second Guesser

The Sweetheart Of The AEF

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — This column should be of interest to oldtimers as well as old admirers of Elsie Janis. She was known in the first World War as the Sweetheart of the AEF, because she was one of the few stage stars who went to France to entertain our soldiers in rest areas and even bustled up to the front lines where she frequently put on her act under fire.

John Wheeler

She is an old friend of mine, so when I arrived here, I telephoned her. We had a great reunion and cut up memories about the golden days. She still has the remnants of the beauty and all the charm which helped to make her one of the best musical comedy actresses in her profession. The visit took me back to my start in the newspaper business when I was a young cub and expected to grow up to be a Joseph Pulitzer, William Randolph Hearst, or at least James Gordon Bennett.

We had a Sunday editor named Leo Redding, who gave me my first journalistic job. He asked me to get a story about the typical New York man — interviews with a leading tailor as to what kind of clothes he wore, an artist like Charles Dana Gibson on what sort of girls he liked, and with an actress as to what she thought of this composite gent. The choices were left to me, so I picked Elsie Janis, whom I had secretly admired from the distance for two or three years.

She invited me to lunch at her apartment. Probably having heard of newspaper reporters and not feeling they were altogether trustworthy, she had her mother sit in to see that we didn't hold hands or anything. As a matter of fact, I was so nervous at meeting this great star, I couldn't pick up my coffee cup because my fingers were shaking so. I said I didn't care for any.

Here was a girl born Elsie Bierbower in Columbus, Ohio, who started on the stage at the age of about three or four. She was a natural imitator and was billed as Little Elsie, later taking her middle name of Janis.

"How old were you when you first came to the Big Town?" I asked her the other day.

Suddenly, she stood up and started to sing a song from the show which became famous called "My Little Chauffeur." She was the old Elsie, and I closed my eyes and slipped back 40 years.

Baltimore Co. Commissioners Open Sessions To Reporters

Board Ends Ban, Saying Newsmen Always Welcome

TOWSON, Md., July 2 (AP)—The Baltimore County Board of Commissioners, in a bewildering reversal of policy, opened its business sessions to reporter today, aying newmen have been welcome all the time.

"This is not a new policy," said Board President Michael J. Birmingham. "Reporters have always been admitted to our meetings whenever they have requested."

Birmingham made no effort to square his latest statement with earlier comments he made while barring newsmen from two meetings within the last week on the ground that they were "executive sessions."

The sudden turnabout was executed in the face of vigorous protests by newspaper and voters' organizations over the commissioners' closed-door policy, and the announced determination of two county employes to resign rather than serve under the "iron curtain" policies of the county administration.

Newsmen Welcomed

It also came a few hours after County Commissioner Robert B. Hamill announced that there had been no change in the commission's policy of private meetings and that, to his knowledge, there would be none.

Birmingham, extending a welcome to newsmen, said:

"Our procedure here, in the interests of efficiency, has been to work with our door closed to prevent interruptions. But reporters at the courthouse open the door whenever they wish and we tell them if there is any news.

"If they want to sit through our meetings, which they seldom find necessary, they are always welcome. We have always followed this rule and will continue to."

The board president said a Baltimore radio station newsman called and asked if he could attend today's meeting, and was told he would be admitted.

Newsman Told Meetings Closed

The issue over the closed-door policy came to a head last week when a newsman who sought admission to a commission meeting was told by Birmingham that "these board meetings are not public hearings and concern business not open to the public."

Birmingham also said the board is too busy to have attendance at their meetings other than that required by the business at hand, and that all business of a "newsworthy nature" can be obtained later from the minutes.

Democratic factional differences over the policy arose after two county building inspectors, Henry C. Royahn and Walter Sperl, said after a meeting with an anti-administration group that they would quit.

Birmingham said the inspectors' statement was "politically inspired."

"They were needled into this by someone else," Birmingham added.

He said the two were well qualified for their jobs and that in event their resignations are not received no action would be taken to oust them.

Park Reopening Plans Blocked By Negro Groups

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP)—Negro groups demanding integration or nothing today blocked the reopening of Sandy Point State Park over the July Fourth weekend.

The state had asked Federal Judge J. Calvin Chesnut to lift an injunction he issued earlier in June on the ground that facilities set aside for Negroes and whites at Sandy Point were not equal. Segregation under such conditions, the judge ruled, was unconstitutional and unlawful.

Improvements Made

State officials asked the judge yesterday to lift his order, saying that improvements made since last June 15 had made the East Beach, set aside for Negroes, "at least equal and probably superior to" the South Beach used by whites.

Spokesmen for Negro groups denied the state's contention and brought photographs into court to prove that the facilities are no equal.

Judge Chesnut did not rule on the state's request after the Negro groups contended they were entitled to a five-day period in which to answer the state's statement. That would put the case over until Monday.

Attorney Issues Statement

Linwood Koger Jr., one of the Negro attorneys in the case, said in a statement:

"In behalf of my clients I would like to say I have requested this morning from Mr. Sydney D. Peverly, chairman of the Department of Forests and Parks, that all beaches and all facilities at Sandy Point State Park and beaches be opened to everybody regardless of race, immediately, and that we are not asking the governor or his commission to close the beaches, but to open them on an unsegregated basis to everybody.

"Mr. Peverly's reply was that he did not think, in fact he knew, that the commission would not change its policy of segregation."

Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Forests and Parks Department, said that as a result of the delay in court action, about 10,000 or more persons a day will not be permitted to use the state park facilities.

The House of Commons has been forbidden ground to English rulers since 1642, when Charles I tried to enter with his soldiers to arrest political dissenters.

State Briefs

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP) — Police Commissioner Beverly Ober said today he will order radar equipment to help enforce the speed laws on Baltimore city streets.

The commissioner said the automatic speed clockers would not be used to nab individual speeders, but to determine whether complaints of speeding in certain areas are justified.

Use of radar to clock the speed of motor vehicles was authorized by the 1953 Legislature.

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP) — The State Roads Commission said today it would receive bids until noon Aug. 6 for the purchase of five ferry boats formerly used for ferry service across the Chesapeake Bay.

The ferries were replaced by the new bay bridge. Their sale, required by law, has been held up pending studies of possible other bay ferry crossings.

SALISBURY, Md., July 2 (AP) — The first lima beans of the season have reached the auction block at the Wicomico County Farmers Auction Market, well ahead of the July 4th traditional date. Curtis W. Insley of Bivalve sold the first 174 baskets yesterday at $5 a basket.

Man Who Saved Many From Death Drowning Victim

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Logan H. Kline, 48, credited with saving many persons from drowning during his 29 years as an employe at Dempsey's boathouse on the Potomac River, drowned today after falling from a small boat.

A daughter said he had suffered several fainting spells recently.

He Went Before The Wrong Board

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 2 (AP)—W. S. Dinkins appeared before the State Pardons and Paroles Board yesterday to seek a parole.

Board Secretary Charles Crowe asked the prisoner where he had taken the jewelry he was accused of stealing. Dinkins gave the name of the store.

"Fellow, that's my jewelry," said Crowe, a Clarksville jeweler.

"Boss, I'm before the wrong board," Dinkins lamented.

Flier Refused Another Trial In Wife's Death

ANNAPOLIS, July 2 (AP) — The court of appeals today upheld the court that found Sgt. Homer Allison guilty of manslaughter in the death of his pregnant wife last Sept. 7.

The high court ruled that there was sufficient evidence to warrant the submission of the case to the jury.

The 27-year-old airman was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to two years in prison by Anne Arundel County Circuit Court after his wife died after disappearing from the car in which they were returning home in Clinton from a St. Mary's County tavern.

Had a new trial been granted, there was the possibility that Allison a veteran of 35 bomber missions as a tail gunner, might have been given a first-degree murder sentence.

Allison's attorneys had argued that the testimony of a witness who said Allison told him he "either pushed or kicked her (the wife) from the car" was incredible.

The witness, Claude Hamby, was called a "North Carolina hillbilly" by defense counsel.

The night Mrs. Allison died, she and the sergeant had been to the St. Mary's tavern and were returning home.

He said that his wife had become angry when she found him with his arms about the shoulders of two girls who had accompanied them to the establishment. He said she slapped him before they left and that she slapped him again during the drive.

Then he said he then discovered she had "disappeared" from the car, and that he backed up until he saw her in the headlights. He might have backed over her, he said.

Grizzly Bear Captured After Escaping Zoo

OMAHA, July 2 (AP)—A 200-pound grizzly bear prowled a wooded area in Omaha for several hours yesterday before park officials and police captured the escaped zoo inmate.

No one was hurt, although the bear lunged at a couple of his would-be captors. About 100 children were playing in a park near the bear-hunt scene, unaware of the possible danger.

EDUCATOR BEFORE COMMITTEE—Dr. Thomas R. Fisher, a State Department employe, stands in the hearing room to give testimony before the House government operations subcommittee yesterday while his former boss, Dr. Frank E. Sorenson, sits in the witness chair. Fisher holds the title of assistant director of education and training for the Technical Cooperation Administration, but has told the committee no one has given him any specific duties since he took the job in February, 1952.

Ohio Newsmen Win Major Round In Battle

COLUMBUS, O., July 2 (AP)—Ohio newsmen won a major round in a long fight yesterday when the Ohio Senate passed a bill requiring all boards spending taxpayers' money to open their meetings to the public.

The vote was 30-0. The bill already has been approved by the House of Representatives, but must return to the House for agreement on Senate amendments.

The Senate amendments, among other things, permit the Pardon and Paroles Board to hold secret meetings inside penal institutions to interview prisoners.

Farmers Are Warned Against Late Blight

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 2 (AP)—Maryland farmers were warned today to take precautions against late blight and downey mildew, both of which were reported to be heading in this direction.

Plant pathologists at the University of Maryland said neither disease had been reported in Maryland yet.

But they said late blight, which affects leaves, stems and fruit of tomatoes and potatoes, has been reported in Delaware and constitutes a threat to adjacent areas in Maryland.

They said downey mildew, which affects cucumbers, cantaloupes and related vine crops, was reported in North Carolina last June 23 and can be expected to hit the Maryland area within the next few days.

The use of preventive sprays and dusts was recommended.

Death was attributed to heart disease.

Tawes Shaken Up In Auto Accident

CAMBRIDGE, Md., July 2 (AP) — State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes was shaken up and a companion was injured today in a highway accident at the same railroad crossing where Governor McKeldin was involved in an automobile collision last October.

Tawes was riding in an automobile driven by William Ward, 26-year-old resident of Crisfield, where the comptroller also lives.

Ward was taken to a Cambridge hospital for treatment of a leg fracture. Tawes was not seriously hurt and continued to Crisfield a short time after the accident.

The accident occurred on U.S. 50 at the Linkwood crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad, scene of at least three others within the last two years. The crossing is about eight miles east of Cambridge.

Tawes said Ward swerved the car to avoid an approaching train. State Trooper William Zumbrum said the vehicle skidded 250 feet, struck a sign and plunged down an embankment.

Last October at the same crossing Gov. McKeldin was shaken up when his official chauffeured limousine collided with another vehicle.

"This is not a new policy," said Board President Michael J. Birmingham. "Reporters have always been admitted to our meetings whenever they have requested."

Birmingham made no effort to square his latest statement with earlier comments he made while barring newsmen from two meetings within the last week on the ground that they were "executive sessions."

The sudden turnabout was executed in the face of vigorous protests by newspaper and voters' organizations over the commissioners' closed-door policy, and the announced determination of two county employes to resign rather than serve under the "iron curtain" policies of the county administration.

Newsmen Welcomed

It also came a few hours after County Commissioner Robert B. Hamill announced that there had been no change in the commission's policy of private meetings and that, to his knowledge, there would be none.

Birmingham, extending a welcome to newsmen, said:

"Our procedure here, in the interests of efficiency, has been to work with our door closed to prevent interruptions. But reporters at the courthouse open the door whenever they wish and we tell them if there is any news.

"If they want to sit through our meetings, which they seldom find necessary, they are always welcome. We have always followed this rule and will continue to."

The board president said a Baltimore radio station newsman called and asked if he could attend today's meeting, and was told he would be admitted.

Newsman Told Meetings Closed

The issue over the closed-door policy came to a head last week when a newsman who sought admission to a commission meeting was told by Birmingham that "these board meetings are not public hearings and concern business not open to the public."

Birmingham also said the board is too busy to have attendance at their meetings other than that required by the business at hand, and that all business of a "newsworthy nature" can be obtained later from the minutes.

Democratic factional differences over the policy arose after two county building inspectors, Henry C. Royahn and Walter Sperl, said after a meeting with an anti-administration group that they would quit.

Birmingham said the inspectors' statement was "politically inspired."

"They were needled into this by someone else," Birmingham added.

He said the two were well qualified for their jobs and that in event their resignations are not received no action would be taken to oust them.

Park Reopening Plans Blocked By Negro Groups

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP)—Negro groups demanding integration or nothing today blocked the reopening of Sandy Point State Park over the July Fourth weekend.

The state had asked Federal Judge J. Calvin Chesnut to lift an injunction he issued earlier in June on the ground that facilities set aside for Negroes and whites at Sandy Point were not equal. Segregation under such conditions, the judge ruled, was unconstitutional and unlawful.

Improvements Made

State officials asked the judge yesterday to lift his order, saying that improvements made since last June 15 had made the East Beach, set aside for Negroes, "at least equal and probably superior to" the South Beach used by whites.

Spokesmen for Negro groups denied the state's contention and brought photographs into court to prove that the facilities are no equal.

Judge Chesnut did not rule on the state's request after the Negro groups contended they were entitled to a five-day period in which to answer the state's statement. That would put the case over until Monday.

Attorney Issues Statement

Linwood Koger Jr., one of the Negro attorneys in the case, said in a statement:

"In behalf of my clients I would like to say I have requested this morning from Mr. Sydney D. Peverly, chairman of the Department of Forests and Parks, that all beaches and all facilities at Sandy Point State Park and beaches be opened to everybody regardless of race, immediately, and that we are not asking the governor or his commission to close the beaches, but to open them on an unsegregated basis to everybody.

"Mr. Peverly's reply was that he did not think, in fact he knew, that the commission would not change its policy of segregation."

Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Forests and Parks Department, said that as a result of the delay in court action, about 10,000 or more persons a day will not be permitted to use the state park facilities.

The House of Commons has been forbidden ground to English rulers since 1642, when Charles I tried to enter with his soldiers to arrest political dissenters.

State Briefs

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP) — Police Commissioner Beverly Ober said today he will order radar equipment to help enforce the speed laws on Baltimore city streets.

The commissioner said the automatic speed clockers would not be used to nab individual speeders, but to determine whether complaints of speeding in certain areas are justified.

Use of radar to clock the speed of motor vehicles was authorized by the 1953 Legislature.

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP) — The State Roads Commission said today it would receive bids until noon Aug. 6 for the purchase of five ferry boats formerly used for ferry service across the Chesapeake Bay.

The ferries were replaced by the new bay bridge. Their sale, required by law, has been held up pending studies of possible other bay ferry crossings.

SALISBURY, Md., July 2 (AP) — The first lima beans of the season have reached the auction block at the Wicomico County Farmers Auction Market, well ahead of the July 4th traditional date. Curtis W. Insley of Bivalve sold the first 174 baskets yesterday at $5 a basket.

Man Who Saved Many From Death Drowning Victim

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Logan H. Kline, 48, credited with saving many persons from drowning during his 29 years as an employe at Dempsey's boathouse on the Potomac River, drowned today after falling from a small boat.

A daughter said he had suffered several fainting spells recently.

He Went Before The Wrong Board

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 2 (AP)—W. S. Dinkins appeared before the State Pardons and Paroles Board yesterday to seek a parole.

Board Secretary Charles Crowe asked the prisoner where he had taken the jewelry he was accused of stealing. Dinkins gave the name of the store.

"Fellow, that's my jewelry," said Crowe, a Clarksville jeweler.

"Boss, I'm before the wrong board," Dinkins lamented.

Flier Refused Another Trial In Wife's Death

ANNAPOLIS, July 2 (AP) — The court of appeals today upheld the court that found Sgt. Homer Allison guilty of manslaughter in the death of his pregnant wife last Sept. 7.

The high court ruled that there was sufficient evidence to warrant the submission of the case to the jury.

The 27-year-old airman was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to two years in prison by Anne Arundel County Circuit Court after his wife died after disappearing from the car in which they were returning home in Clinton from a St. Mary's County tavern.

Had a new trial been granted, there was the possibility that Allison a veteran of 35 bomber missions as a tail gunner, might have been given a first-degree murder sentence.

Allison's attorneys had argued that the testimony of a witness who said Allison told him he "either pushed or kicked her (the wife) from the car" was incredible.

The witness, Claude Hamby, was called a "North Carolina hillbilly" by defense counsel.

The night Mrs. Allison died, she and the sergeant had been to the St. Mary's tavern and were returning home.

He said that his wife had become angry when she found him with his arms about the shoulders of two girls who had accompanied them to the establishment. He said she slapped him before they left and that she slapped him again during the drive.

Then he said he then discovered she had "disappeared" from the car, and that he backed up until he saw her in the headlights. He might have backed over her, he said.

Grizzly Bear Captured After Escaping Zoo

OMAHA, July 2 (AP)—A 200-pound grizzly bear prowled a wooded area in Omaha for several hours yesterday before park officials and police captured the escaped zoo inmate.

No one was hurt, although the bear lunged at a couple of his would-be captors. About 100 children were playing in a park near the bear-hunt scene, unaware of the possible danger.

EDUCATOR BEFORE COMMITTEE—Dr. Thomas R. Fisher, a State Department employe, stands in the hearing room to give testimony before the House government operations subcommittee yesterday while his former boss, Dr. Frank E. Sorenson, sits in the witness chair. Fisher holds the title of assistant director of education and training for the Technical Cooperation Administration, but has told the committee no one has given him any specific duties since he took the job in February, 1952.

Ohio Newsmen Win Major Round In Battle

COLUMBUS, O., July 2 (AP)—Ohio newsmen won a major round in a long fight yesterday when the Ohio Senate passed a bill requiring all boards spending taxpayers' money to open their meetings to the public.

The vote was 30-0. The bill already has been approved by the House of Representatives, but must return to the House for agreement on Senate amendments.

The Senate amendments, among other things, permit the Pardon and Paroles Board to hold secret meetings inside penal institutions to interview prisoners.

Farmers Are Warned Against Late Blight

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 2 (AP)—Maryland farmers were warned today to take precautions against late blight and downey mildew, both of which were reported to be heading in this direction.

Plant pathologists at the University of Maryland said neither disease had been reported in Maryland yet.

But they said late blight, which affects leaves, stems and fruit of tomatoes and potatoes, has been reported in Delaware and constitutes a threat to adjacent areas in Maryland.

They said downey mildew, which affects cucumbers, cantaloupes and related vine crops, was reported in North Carolina last June 23 and can be expected to hit the Maryland area within the next few days.

The use of preventive sprays and dusts was recommended.

School Head Dies

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—Jacques Strumpen-Darrie, 73, president of the Berlitz Schools of Languages of America, operator of a world-wide chain of language schools, died shortly after noon today in his Rockefeller Center office.

Death was attributed to heart disease.

Tawes Shaken Up In Auto Accident

CAMBRIDGE, Md., July 2 (AP) — State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes was shaken up and a companion was injured today in a highway accident at the same railroad crossing where Governor McKeldin was involved in an automobile collision last October.

Tawes was riding in an automobile driven by William Ward, 26-year-old resident of Crisfield, where the comptroller also lives.

Ward was taken to a Cambridge hospital for treatment of a leg fracture. Tawes was not seriously hurt and continued to Crisfield a short time after the accident.

The accident occurred on U.S. 50 at the Linkwood crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad, scene of at least three others within the last two years. The crossing is about eight miles east of Cambridge.

Tawes said Ward swerved the car to avoid an approaching train. State Trooper William Zumbrum said the vehicle skidded 250 feet, struck a sign and plunged down an embankment.

Last October at the same crossing Gov. McKeldin was shaken up when his official chauffeured limousine collided with another vehicle.

Red Sox Cop Lead In Dapper Circuit; Tigers Tie Injuns

The Red Sox replaced the Phillies as leaders of the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan Baseball League by defeating the latter yesterday at East Side Field by the score of 6-2.

It was the first setback for the Phillies in five starts. The Red Sox, 1952 league champions, have won five and lost one and top their division by the margin of a half game.

Whitey Slonaker tossed a two-hitter for the Sox and turned back 12 via the strikeout route. Baldwin struck out seven Red Sox.

"Turtle" Slonaker had two of the winners' 10 hits and J. O'Neal and D. Richards smashed three-baggers. Crass rapped a double for the Phils.

Tom Seifert's Tigers tied the Indians for the top berth in the league's Dan Division by winning a loosely played game from the Athletics last night at Penn Avenue Field. The score was 9-8.

Imes, Tigers' starter, failed to last out the first inning, and Kline, his successor got credit for the win. Knotts of the A's and Gary Frisby of the Tigers slammed home runs. Scores:

As You Were

(This is the 159th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

Let's turn back the calendar to the days of the Upper Potomac Interscholastic Basketball League and the years in which the N. & G. Taylor Tinplate Company sponsored topnotch basketball teams and see if you can identify this three sports star and coach.

Those who saw him in action on the football field, basketball court and the cinder paths refer to him as one of Cumberland's all-time greats.

In 1918 he ran on Allegany county's winning 880 yards relay team in the state meet. In 1919 he won the state quarter mile run in Baltimore. The same year he managed, coached and captained Allegany County High School's undefeated quint in the Upper Potomac League. And he also managed, coached and captained the ACHS champs in 1920. Both years he was an unanimous choice for the post of captain and center of the all-league teams. His greatest output was 22 field goals in a single game. In addition to being a track star he excelled as a high jumper and shot putter.

He was fullback on the 1919 ACHS grid team that was quarterbacked by Charley Burke and coached by Page Young and Henry Woods. The succeeding year he was manager and fullback of the Greene Street school team and stood out as a passer, kicker and ball-toter.

Allegany has won 18 basketball championships since the W.M.I. League was formed in 1921 and this man had the honor of coaching the first one—the 1922 quint that beat Barton in a playoff for the title.

This talented fellow spent his freshman year at West Virginia University and was graduated from Cornell University.

When the Taylor Tinplate Company built a gym in South End and sponsored a classy independent quint in 1920-21 the athlete pictured here was a regular forward on the team that won 25 out of 29 games against colleges and leading road clubs and wound up the campaign by copping the Western Maryland title. That squad included Walter Beeche, Vince McKenzie, John Minke, Bill Scott, Bob Armbruster, Ernie Hartman and Sam Greer.

This athlete's father was very prominent in city affairs from 1910 to 1928 and later served as county tax collector. He was one of the members of the city council when the commission form of government made its bow here in 1910. His name along with those of Mayor George G. Young and Commissioners Roderic Clary, Ward Eichelberger and Dr. Thomas W. Koon appears on the cornerstone (North Centre Street side) of the present city hall.

He is Paul L. Smith, son of the late Harry L. Smith, who served six terms on the city council, 1910-1912, 1916-1920, 1922-1928. The latter died about 12 years ago.

Paul is now a mechanical engineer and resides in Pittsburgh. Two of his brothers, Edgar H., and Norman live here; Ralph, who has been in U. S. military service for 30 years, is now stationed in Arabia, and a sister is a resident of Elwood, Indiana.

Protege To Receive Trophies Of Tilden

LOS ANGELES, July 2 (AP) — Tennis star William T. Tilden II bequeathed part of his estate of less than $5,000, his trophies and his instruction books to his 21-year-old protege, Arthur L. Anderson.

And with it, in his will, the prophesy that Anderson "is my logical successor in tennis."

The will didn't elaborate, but several years ago Tilden predicted the local youngster would shine in world tennis. Thus far Anderson hasn't quite reached such a peak.

The will, filed today, named a niece, Marian Tilden Ambrose, 38, of Malven, Pa., and a nephew, William T. Tilden II, Berwin, Pa., as equal beneficiaries to his estate.

Tilden died of heart trouble June 5.

Erskine Posts Sixth Triumph Over Phils, 8-0

Hodges, Reese Wallop Homers For Brooklyn

BROOKLYN, July 2 (AP) — Carl Erskine boosted Brooklyn's National League lead over Milwaukee to a full game today, hurling an 8-0 shutout victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. Milwaukee was to meet Cincinnati in a night game.

Pitching his first complete game and registering his first victory since June 7, the little righthander permitted only seven hits, struck out six and was never in serious difficulty despite three bases on balls, a hit batsman and two Dodger errors. Three double plays helped Erskine notch his sixth triumph against four defeats.

Erskine received fine hitting support from his mates, who collected only eight hits off three Philadelphia pitchers but made six for extra bases. They included home runs by Pee Wee Reese and Gil Hodges, a triple by Junior Gilliam and doubles by Jackie Robinson and Carl Furillo. Erskine also doubled. Reese and Robinson drove in three runs each.

Colts Obtain Tom Cosgrove

Get Former Terp Star In Trade With Browns

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP)—Tom Cosgrove, six-foot-three, 230-pound former University of Maryland star center, will play for the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League this fall.

The Colts announced today they had obtained Cosgrove in a trade with the Cleveland Browns, who had drafted the 23-year-old Philadelphian in his junior year with Maryland.

Colts President Don Kellett said from what he had heard, Cosgrove, who was Coach Jim Tatum's varsity center for three seasons, "has the ability to win a starting job this season."

"The only reason we were able to get him away from Cleveland," Kellett explained, "is the fact that he cannot leave this area or he will be drafted (into military service). This way he can protect his deferment by staying with his reserve unit and still play professional football."

The Colt announcement said Cosgrove will come to Baltimore "in a trade involving an undisclosed draft choice" from next year's NFL draft.

Jaycees Top Kiwanis, 4-0

Parsons And Dunbar Feature HSL Contest

Tommy Dunbar faced only 22 batsmen, yielded only two hits and fired the third strike past 12 last night as the Jaycees whipped the Kiwanis Club in a Hot Stove Baseball League game at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 4-0.

Eugene Cave made both of the Kiwanians' hits. He was left stranded in the third and was picked off first base in the sixth.

Eddie Parsons' circuit belt with Pete Charuhas and Tommy Dunbar aboard decided the contest in the opening frame. Bobby Page had led off with a single was forced at second by Charuhas and Dunbar walked before Parsons teed off.

Parsons banged a double in addition to his homer, Charuhas garnered two hits and Page had the other Jaycee bingle. No putouts were made by outfielders on either side.

Jerry Farrell, Kiwanis pitcher, struck out an even dozen.

The win gave the Jaycees a 5-5 record in the league. The game was played in the fast time of one hour and 15 minutes. Score:

JAYCEES	300 001 x—4	5	0

Johnny Palmer's 134 Wins Medal In PGA Tournament

Badin Pro Ties Two Records In Michigan

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., July 2 (AP)—Johnny Palmer was the only tornado to strike the Birmingham Country Club today, and the smallish, moon-faced North Carolinian swept to the qualifying medal of the PGA golf tournament with a record-equalling 134.

Grooving his shots through wild gusts and racing against an anticipated thunderstorm expected to bring 70 m.p.h winds, the chubby pro from Badin, N. C., clinched the $250 medalist prize with a five-under par 66.

Equals Two Records

He thus tied two records — the course and the PGA qualifying marks — and he missed cracking them both by the margin of less than an inch. That's the distance he missed a 20-foot birdie putt on the final hole.

The competitive record for the compact 6-465-yard, par 71 Birmingham layout was made by old Al Watrous, of nearby Oakland Hills, 20 years ago, and equalled only yesterday by Vic Ghezzi, the giant Long Island pro.

Palmer's 68-66—134 matched the two-round qualifying record set by Jim Ferrier at Portland, Ore., in 1946 and paralleled by Skip Alexander at St. Louis in 1949. Ironically, Alexander failed to make the grade this time with a pair of 76's for 152.

Ghezzi Turns In 139

Ghezzi, 1941 champion, dropped sharply off his opening day pace and, after going over par on two of the first three holes, settled for a 73 and a total of 139.

The only man with a chance of catching Palmer as the long day progressed was Chandler Harper, the 1950 champion from Portsmouth, Va. But Harper, needing two birdies on the last eight holes for a tie, couldn't quite do it and finished with a 69 for 137.

This was good for second place, three strokes back. Pete Cooper of White Plains, N. Y., followed with 138, representing a pair of 69's.

The cutoff point for making the 64-man championship flight, which begins with two 18-hole sudden death rounds of match play tomorrow, was 149. Seven players with that score had to play off for four places.

Sammy Snead Qualifies

The defending champion, Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., was exempt from qualifying but he tried for the medal anyhow, shooting a pair of steady 70's for 140 which tied him with the man figured to take his crown, Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Snead, seeking his fourth title, got in safely with 69-71—140, as did 51-year-old Gene Sarazen, another three-time winner and a PGA fixture since 1922. Sarazen had 72-75—147.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis one of the solid pre-tournament choices, blew to a 77 for 148.

Fleck Scores Ace

A little known public link pro from Davenport, Iowa, Jack Fleck scored what officials believed to be the first ace in PGA competition when he sank a hole-in-one with an eight-iron on the 136-yard 11th hole.

Gromek Pitches Detroit To Win Over Cleveland

Lund's 2-Run Homer Decides Game, 4-2

DETROIT, July 2 (AP)—Veteran Steve Gromiek of the Detroit Tigers nipped his old Cleveland Indian teammates with a neat seven hitter and beat them 4-2 today to drop the Indians six full games behind the American League leading New York Yankees.

The New Yorkers meanwhile snapped a nine-game losing streak with a 5-3 triumph over the Boston Red Sox to ease the pressure being put on them by the second-place Cleveland club.

Don Lund's home run off Mike Garcia with Matt Batts on base in the seventh inning provided the winning margin for the Tigers, who took the series two games to one.

Al Rosen gave the Indians a start in the first inning with his 19th home run of the season—his third in three days.

Keyser Ridge Forfeits Win

Salisbury Is Given Game Lost On May 31

Don Hansel, secretary of the Pen-Mar Baseball League, last night announced that Keyser Ridge, present pace-setter in the six-club circuit, has forfeited a game to Salisbury for using an ineligible player, Jack Mort, in the 19-14 win over the Pennsylvanians on May 31.

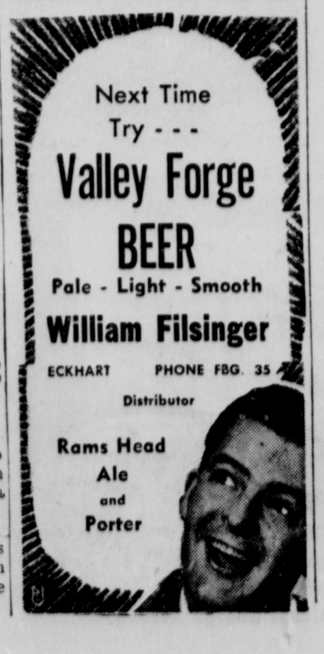

Mort was used by Keyser Ridge before the player had obtained his release from the Grantsville Sluggers of the Bi-State League, Hansel stated.

The forfeit ruling was handed down at a recent meeting of the league.

Loss of this game makes Keyser Ridge's official record as 7-4 instead of 8-3. Salisbury's win and lost record now is 5-6 instead of 4-7.

Keyser Ridge still holds first plaec, a half game ahead of Barrelville which has won six and lost four.

Underdonk had beaten the Amvets in previous games by scores of 4-0 and 5-2.

"Buddy" Giles slammed a home run for the Elks while "Bubbles" Whiteman, "Bee" Orndorff, "Pooch" Orndorff and Dick Wilkinson garnered two hits each. Diamont belted a four bagger and Ingram had a two-base hit and single for the losers.

Vern Penner tagged Snider for a homer, two doubles and a single as the Outdoor Club shellacked the Knights of Columbus, 11-3, at Allegany Field. Cecil Grimes blasted a homer and two triples and Bob Pollock larruped a pair of singles. Corrigan limited the Knights to four hits, including a double by Law.

Al Sheetz belted a grand slam homer during an 8-run rally in the fourth and Elmer Lashley also hit for the circuit as the Eagles trimmed the Moose at East Side Field by the score of 9-3. The Eagles collected nine consecutive hits before a batter was retired in the big fourth inning. Sheetz yielded three safeties and struck out six. "Snap" Morris turned in a sensational bare-handed catch of Fradiska's fly in left field for the fielding highlight. Scores:

Ted Kluszewski Leads Balloting For First Base

Deadline Draws Near For All-Star Voting

CHICAGO, July 2 (INS)—Teddy Kluszewski of the Cincinnati Redlegs took a commanding lead today for the starting National League first base berth as the deadline drew nearer to determine the starting lineups for the 20th annual all-star major league baseball game.

The former Indiana University tackle took over as the senior circuit's most popular player with a total vote of 658,153 while thousands of ballots poured into the Chicago headquarters of the poll to name the starters for the July 14 "dream game" at Cincinnati.

Only Mickey Mantle, the 21-year-old Commerce, Okla., comet of the New York Yankees, has polled more votes than the Cincy strong man. Mantle has practically clinched the American League's centerfield post, having been named by 664,021 fans.

Gran Hamner, Philadelphia Phillies shortstop, Enos Slaughter, St. Louis Cardinals' right fielder and Duke Snider, Brooklyn Dodger centerfielder, took the lead in their respective positions in the National League.

Musial, six time league batting champ, has received 602,716 votes to 599,392 for the former Pittsburgh player.

Keep Dog Away From July Fourth Noises

Fireworks, which to humans may be merely exciting, cause terror and distress to dogs whose supersonic hearing is far more sensitive than our own, says the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York, in urging dog-owners to keep their pets indoors and away from the noise of Fourth of July celebrations. Many a "mad dog" scare has been started by a pet merely trying to escape from the strange frightening fireworks noises, it states.

Red Sox Cop Lead In Dapper Circuit; Tigers Tie Injuns

The Red Sox replaced the Phillies as leaders of the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan Baseball League by defeating the latter yesterday at East Side Field by the score of 6-2.

It was the first setback for the Phillies in five starts. The Red Sox, 1952 league champions, have won five and lost one and top their division by the margin of a half game.

Whitey Slonaker tossed a two-hitter for the Sox and turned back 12 via the strikeout route. Baldwin struck out seven Red Sox.

"Turtle" Slonaker had two of the winners' 10 hits and J. O'Neal and D. Richards smashed three-baggers. Crass rapped a double for the Phils.

Tom Seifert's Tigers tied the Indians for the top berth in the league's Dan Division by winning a loosely played game from the Athletics last night at Penn Avenue Field. The score was 9-8.

Imes, Tigers' starter, failed to last out the first inning, and Kline, his successor got credit for the win. Knotts of the A's and Gary Frisby of the Tigers slammed home runs. Scores:

As You Were

(This is the 159th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

Let's turn back the calendar to the days of the Upper Potomac Interscholastic Basketball League and the years in which the N. & G. Taylor Tinplate Company sponsored topnotch basketball teams and see if you can identify this three sports star and coach.

Those who saw him in action on the football field, basketball court and the cinder paths refer to him as one of Cumberland's all-time greats.

In 1918 he ran on Allegany county's winning 880 yards relay team in the state meet. In 1919 he won the state quarter mile run in Baltimore. The same year he managed, coached and captained Allegany County High School's undefeated quint in the Upper Potomac League. And he also managed, coached and captained the ACHS champs in 1920. Both years he was an unanimous choice for the post of captain and center of the all-league teams. His greatest output was 22 field goals in a single game. In addition to being a track star he excelled as a high jumper and shot putter.

He was fullback on the 1919 ACHS grid team that was quarterbacked by Charley Burke and coached by Page Young and Henry Woods. The succeeding year he was manager and fullback of the Greene Street school team and stood out as a passer, kicker and ball-toter.

Allegany has won 18 basketball championships since the W.M.I. League was formed in 1921 and this man had the honor of coaching the first one—the 1922 quint that beat Barton in a playoff for the title.

This talented fellow spent his freshman year at West Virginia University and was graduated from Cornell University.

When the Taylor Tinplate Company built a gym in South End and sponsored a classy independent quint in 1920-21 the athlete pictured here was a regular forward on the team that won 25 out of 29 games against colleges and leading road clubs and wound up the campaign by copping the Western Maryland title. That squad included Walter Beeche, Vince McKenzie, John Minke, Bill Scott, Bob Armbruster, Ernie Hartman and Sam Greer.

This athlete's father was very prominent in city affairs from 1910 to 1928 and later served as county tax collector. He was one of the members of the city council when the commission form of government made its bow here in 1910. His name along with those of Mayor George G. Young and Commissioners Roderic Clary, Ward Eichelberger and Dr. Thomas W. Koon appears on the cornerstone (North Centre Street side) of the present city hall.

He is Paul L. Smith, son of the late Harry L. Smith, who served six terms on the city council, 1910-1912, 1916-1920, 1922-1928. The latter died about 12 years ago.

Paul is now a mechanical engineer and resides in Pittsburgh. Two of his brothers, Edgar H., and Norman live here; Ralph, who has been in U. S. military service for 30 years, is now stationed in Arabia, and a sister is a resident of Elwood, Indiana.

Protege To Receive Trophies Of Tilden

And with it, in his will, the prophesy that Anderson "is my logical successor in tennis."

The will didn't elaborate, but several years ago Tilden predicted the local youngster would shine in world tennis. Thus far Anderson hasn't quite reached such a peak.

The will, filed today, named a niece, Marian Tilden Ambrose, 38, of Malven, Pa., and a nephew, William T. Tilden II, Berwin, Pa., as equal beneficiaries to his estate.

Tilden died of heart trouble June 5.

Hodges, Reese Wallop Homers For Brooklyn

BROOKLYN, July 2 (AP) — Carl Erskine boosted Brooklyn's National League lead over Milwaukee to a full game today, hurling an 8-0 shutout victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. Milwaukee was to meet Cincinnati in a night game.

Pitching his frst complete game and registering his first victory since June 7, the little righthander permitted only seven hits, struck out six and was never in serious difficulty despite three bases on balls, a hit batsman and two Dodger errors. Three double plays helped Erskine notch his sixth triumph against four defeats.

Erskine received fine hitting support from his mates, who collected only eight hits off three Philadelphia pitchers but made six for extra bases. They included home runs by Pee Wee Reese and Gil Hodges, a triple by Junior Gilliam and doubles by Jackie Robinson and Carl Furillo. Erskine also doubled. Reese and Robinson drove in three runs each.

Colts Obtain Tom Cosgrove

Get Former Terp Star In Trade With Browns

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP)—Tom Cosgrove, six-foot-three, 230-pound former University of Maryland star center, will play for the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League this fall.

The Colts announced today they had obtained Cosgrove in a trade with the Cleveland Browns, who had drafted the 23-year-old Philadelphian in his junior year with Maryland.

Colts President Don Kellett said from what he had heard, Cosgrove, who was Coach Jim Tatum's varsity center for three seasons, "has the ability to win a starting job this season."

"The only reason we were able to get him away from Cleveland," Kellett explained, "is the fact that he cannot leave this area or he will be drafted (into military service). This way he can protect his deferment by staying with his reserve unit and still play professional football."

The Colt announcement said Cosgrove will come to Baltimore "in a trade involving an undisclosed draft choice" from next year's NFL draft.

Parsons And Dunbar Feature HSL Contest

Tommy Dunbar faced only 22 batsmen, yielded only two hits and fired the third strike past 12 last night as the Jaycees whipped the Kiwanis Club in a Hot Stove Baseball League game at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 4-0.

Eugene Cave made both of the Kiwanians' hits. He was left stranded in the third and was picked off first base in the sixth.

Eddie Parsons' circuit belt with Pete Charuhas and Tommy Dunbar aboard decided the contest in the opening frame. Bobby Page had led off with a single was forced at second by Charuhas and Dunbar walked before Parsons teed off.

Parsons banged a double in addition to 's homer, Charuhas garnered two hits and Page had the other Jaycee bingle. No putouts were made by outfielders on either side.

Jerry Farrell, Kiwanis pitcher, struck out an even dozen.

The win gave the Jaycees a 5-5 record in the league. The game was played in the fast time of one hour and 15 minutes. Score:

Johnny Palmer's 134 Wins Medal In PGA Tournament

Badin Pro Ties Two Records In Michigan

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., July 2 (AP)—Johnny Palmer was the only tornado to strike the Birmingham Country Club today, and the smallish, moon-faced North Carolinian swept to the qualifying medal of the PGA golf tournament with a record-equalling 134.

Grooving his shots through wild gusts and racing against an anticipated thunderstorm expected to bring 70 m.p.h winds, the chubby pro from Badin, N. C., clinched the $250 medalist prize with a five-under par 66.

Equals Two Records

He thus tied two records — the course and the PGA qualifying marks — and he missed cracking them both by the margin of less than an inch. That's the distance he missed a 20-foot birdie putt on the final hole.

The competitive record for the compact 6-465-yard, par 71 Birmingham layout was made by old Al Watrous, of nearby Oakland Hills, 20 years ago, and equalled only yesterday by Vic Ghezzi, the giant Long Island pro.

Palmer's 68-66—134 matched the two-round qualifying record set by Jim Ferrier at Portland, Ore., in 1946 and paralleled by Skip Alexander at St. Louis in 1949. Ironically, Alexander failed to make the grade this time with a pair of 76's for 152.

Ghezzi Turns In 139

Ghezzi, 1941 champion, dropped sharply off his opening day pace and, after going over par on two of the first three holes, settled for a 73 and a total of 139.

The only man with a chance of catching Palmer as the long day progressed was Chandler Harper, the 1950 champion from Portsmouth, Va. But Harper, needing two birdies on the last eight holes for a tie, couldn't quite do it and finished with a 69 for 137.

This was good for second place, three strokes back. Pete Cooper of White Plains, N. Y., followed with 138, representing a pair of 69's.

The cutoff point for making the 64-man championship flight, which begins with two 18-hole sudden death rounds of match play tomorrow, was 149. Seven players with that score had to play off for four places.

Sammy Snead Qualifies

The defending champion, Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., was exempt from qualifying but he tried for the medal anyhow, shooting a pair of steady 70's for 140 which tied him with the man figured to take his crown, Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Snead, seeking his fourth title, got in safely with 69-71—140, as did 51-year-old Gene Sarazen, another three-time winner and a PGA fixture since 1922. Sarazen had 72-75—147.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis one of the solid pre-tournament choices, blew to a 77 for 148.

Fleck Scores Ace

A little known public link pro from Davenport, Iowa, Jack Fleck scored what officials believed to be the first ace in PGA competition when he sank a hole-in-one with an eight-iron on the 136-yard 11th hole.

Gromek Pitches Detroit To Win Over Cleveland

Lund's 2-Run Homer Decides Game, 4-2

DETROIT, July 2 (AP)—Veteran Steve Gromiek of the Detroit Tigers nipped his old Cleveland Indian teammates with a neat seven hitter and beat them 4-2 today to drop the Indians six full games behind the American League leading New York Yankees.

The New Yorkers meanwhile snapped a nine-game losing streak with a 5-3 triumph over the Boston Red Sox to ease the pressure being put on them by the second-place Cleveland club.

Don Lund's home run off Mike Garcia with Matt Batts on base in the seventh inning provided the winning margin for the Tigers, who took the series two games to one.

Al Rosen gave the Indians a start in the first inning with his 19th home run of the season—his third in three days.

Keyser Ridge Forfeits Win

Salisbury Is Given Game Lost On May 31

Don Hansel, secretary of the Pen-Mar Baseball League, last night announced that Keyser Ridge, present pace-setter in the six-club circuit, has forfeited a game to Salisbury for using an ineligible player, Jack Mort, in the 19-14 win over the Pennsylvanians on May 31.

Mort was used by Keyser Ridge before the player had obtained his release from the Grantsville Sluggers of the Bi-State League, Hansel stated.

The forfeit ruling was handed down at a recent meeting of the league.

Loss of this game makes Keyser Ridge's official record as 7-4 instead of 8-3. Salisbury's win and lost record now is 5-6 instead of 4-7.

Keyser Ridge still holds first plaec, a half game ahead of Barrelville which has won six and lost four.

Bill Underdonk outpitched Jim Gaffney for the third time this season and the B.P.O. Elks whipped the Rocking Chair Softball League leaders yesterday at Stitcher Field by the score of 10-6.

Underdonk had beaten the Amvets in previous games by scores of 4-0 and 5-2.

By winning yesterday's contest the Elks' ace became the first 10-game winner in the league this season. He has lost four. Gaffney's record is now 9-4.

The loss reduced the Amvets' lead to 1½ games.

"Buddy" Giles slammed a home run for the Elks while "Bubbles" Whiteman, "Bee" Orndorff, "Pooch" Orndorff and Dick Wilkinson garnered two hits each. Diamont belted a four bagger and Ingram had a two-base hit and single for the losers.

Vern Penner tagged Snider for a homer, two doubles and a single as the Outdoor Club shellacked the Knights of Columbus, 11-3, at Allegany Field. Cecil Grimes blasted a homer and two triples and Bob Pollock larruped a pair of singles. Corrigan limited the Knights to four hits, including a double by Law.

Al Sheetz belted a grand slam homer during an 8-run rally in the fourth and Elmer Lashley also hit for the circuit as the Eagles trimmed the Moose at East Side Field by the score of 9-3. The Eagles collected nine consecutive hits before a batter was retired in the big fourth inning. Sheetz yielded three safeties and struck out six. "Snap" Morris turned in a sensational bare-handed catch of Fradiska's fly in left field for the fielding highlight. Scores:

Corgs And Ellerslie Win In Pen-Mar Loop

Ellerslie trounced the LaVale Orange nine, 14-3, at Ellerslie, and Corriganville walloped the LaVale Maroons at LaVale, 15-1, in Pen-Mar Little League games played yesterday.

Don Lowery stole the show in the game at Ellerslie. He blasted two homers, batted in four runs and turned in a nice relief job after relieving Roger Cook in the fifth. He came in with the bases loaded, fanned the first two batters to face him and picked a runner off third base to retire the side. The losers made only two hits.

Corriganville scored 11 runs in the fifth to rout the Maroons. Bobby Fuller paced the winners at the plate with three doubles while Richard Tosh's two-bagger was among the losers' four safeties. The Maroons committed 14 errors. Scores:

Ted Kluszewski Leads Balloting For First Base

Deadline Draws Near For All-Star Voting

CHICAGO, July 2 (INS)—Teddy Kluszewski of the Cincinnati Redlegs took a commanding lead today for the starting National League first base berth as the deadline drew nearer to determine the starting lineups for the 20th annual all-star major league baseball game.

The former Indiana University tackle took over as the senior circuit's most popular player with a total vote of 658,153 while thousands of ballots poured into the Chicago headquarters of the poll to name the starters for the July 14 "dream game" at Cincinnati.

Only Mickey Mantle, the 21-year-old Commerce, Okla., comet of the New York Yankees, has polled more votes than the Cincy strong man. Mantle has practically clinched the American League's centerfield post, having been named by 664,021 fans.

Gran Hamner, Philadelphia Phillies shortstop, Enos Slaughter, St. Louis Cardinals' right fielder and Duke Snider, Brooklyn Dodger centerfielder, took the lead in their respective positions in the National League.

Musial, six time league batting champ, has received 602,716 votes to 599,392 for the former Pittsburgh player.

Keep Dog Away From July Fourth Noises

Fireworks, which to humans may be merely exciting, cause terror and distress to dogs whose supersonic hearing is far more sensitive than our own, says the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York, in urging dog-owners to keep their pets indoors and away from the noise of Fourth of July celebrations. Many a "mad dog" scare has been started by a pet merely trying to escape from the strange frightening fireworks noises, it states.

The wings of a butterfly are made up of scales similar to those on a fish.

Mize's Pinch Double In 10th Breaks Yanks' Losing Streak

Veteran's Hit Beats Boston Red Sox, 5-3

Raschi Is Winner; Kell's Homer Ties Score In Ninth

BOSTON, July 2 (AP)—Johnny Mize ended the New York Yankees' nine-game losing streak today with a pinch double in the 10th inning to back up a strong six-hit pitching job by Vic Raschi, another veteran who went all the way for a 5-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The wobbly Yanks, struggling under the load of their worst slump since 1945—when the club also dropped nine in a row—saw a one-run lead vanish in the ninth as George Kell hit his seventh home run. He was the first Red Sox batter to reach base since the third inning. Over that stretch, the big righthander mowed down 16 in succession.

Mize, the 40-year-old slugger who earns his keep with his pinch hitting chores, came through when the Yanks needed him most. They had just missed one scoring chance in the 10th and there were two gone when Manager Casey Stengel called on Big Jawn.

Don Bollweg, whose three-run homer gave the Yanks a lead in the fifth, had been cut down at the plate in the 10th trying to score on Yogi Berra's double a few seconds before Mize picked up a bat and went to work. Mize drove a Sid Hudson pitch into left center for a double, scoring Berra with the tie-breaking run.

It hardly mattered that Billy Martin, batting after Gil McDougald drew an intentional walk, came through with a single, scoring Bill Renna, Mize's runner. Raschi had all he needed.

Mathews Got Tips From Pie Traynor

PITTSBURGH — Pie Traynor, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, likes to think he helped Ed Mathews, Milwaukee Brave third sacker who is leading the pack in the home run chase.

Traynor, who won fame as third baseman with the Pittsburgh Pirates, now is a Pittsburgh radio announcer.

Mathews went to Traynor last year for some advice.

"I told him he would have to quit being a stationary third baseman," says Traynor. "You're playing every batter the same, I told him. You have to learn the hitters. You should get some help from the shortstop, Johnny Logan. Get together with him on some kind of a sign he can give you on every pitch. Another thing I told Eddie was to stand with his hands on his knees at third base. He was moving in on every pitch and consequently even high bounders were getting past him. I don't know if it helped him but maybe it did."

Connolly, Hart Reach Finals At Wimbledon

Fry, Knode Defeated; Seixas, Nielsen Play For Singles Title

By STERLING SLAPPEY

WIMBLEDON, England, July 2 (AP)—Defending champion Maureen Connolly and Doris Hart, the 1951 winner, won easily and swiftly today in the semifinals of the all-England tennis championships at Wimbledon.

A crowd of 16,000 watched Little Mo of San Diego, Calif. smash past Shirley Fry of Akron, O. in

Doris Hart Maureen Connolly

32 minutes, 6-1, 6-1. It took Miss Hart of Coral Gables, Fla. just three minutes more to dispose of Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Alameda, Calif. 6-2, 6-2.

The results were predicted and Saturday's final will bring together the world's two top-ranking feminine players for the fourth time in less than a year in a national championship.

Swept Four Titles

Maureen defeated her rival in the U. S. and French finals. Doris tripped Little Mo in the three-set final of the Italian championship. In addition, the San Diego blonde won the Australian crown to become the first woman ever to hold the U. S., Australian, French and British championships at the same time.

In the semifinal doubles match, Australia's second-ranking pair of Mervyn Rose and Rex Hartwig outlasted the top American combination of Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, and Gardnar Mulloy, Coral Gables, Fla., 14-16, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad made it an all Australian final in the men's doubles when they beat Jacques Brichant and Philippe Washer of Belgium 4-6, 6-0, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1.

Play For Title Today

Seixas will have his big moment tomorrow at 8 a. m. (EST) when he meets Kurt Nielsen, the merry Dane, for the men's championship.

Hercules, Central Battle For County Loop Lead Today

There's a "natural" on tap for County Softball League fans today—the clash between Hercules Powder Kegs and Central Quick Lunch at 6 o'clock at Stitcher Field.

Hercules goes into today's battle boasting a seven-game winning streak against a team. It has lost to in two previous meetings by scores of 14-8, and 13-4.

Central and Hercules are tied for first place with 15-4 records and the team emerging victorious today will take over sole posession of the league's top berth.

The Sports Shoppe plays Ellerslie at East Side Field and Cunningham's Grocery battles Potomac Valley's Cubs at Triple Lakes in other league games billed for today.

Sarazen, Bulla, Oliver Pass Up British Open

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 2 (AP)—U. S. stars Gene Sarazen, Johnny Bulla and Ed Oliver scratched today from the British Open golf championship which begins here Monday.

An official of the Royal and Ancient, golf's ruling body in Britain, said official notification was received the American trio would not be in the field.

Sarazen won the British Open in 1932 and has always been a great favorite in Scotland.

It still was doubtful whether Harvie Ward, 1952 British amateur champion from Atlanta, would compete.

Every golfing conversation centered on Ben Hogan, winner of the Masters and the U. S. Open this year. The Fort Worth player has started serious preparation for the tournament.

Lions Trim Firemen At Mt. Savage, 16-1

Mize's Pinch Double In 10th Breaks Yanks' Losing Streak

Veteran's Hit Beats Boston Red Sox, 5-3

Raschi Is Winner; Kell's Homer Ties Score In Ninth

BOSTON, July 2 (AP)—Johnny Mize ended the New York Yankees' nine-game losing streak today with a pinch double in the 10th inning to back up a strong six-hit pitching job by Vic Raschi, another veteran who went all the way for a 5-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The wobbly Yanks, struggling under the load of their worst slump since 1945—when the club also dropped nine in a row—saw a one-run lead vanish in the ninth as George Kell hit his seventh home run. He was the first Red Sox batter to reach base since the third inning. Over that stretch, the big righthander mowed down 16 in succession.

Mize, the 40-year-old slugger who earns his keep with his pinch hitting chores, came through when the Yanks needed him most. They had just missed one scoring chance in the 10th and there were two gone when Manager Casey Stengel called on Big Jawn.

Don Bollweg, whose three-run homer gave the Yanks a lead in the fifth, had been cut down at the plate in the 10th trying to score on Yogi Berra's double a few seconds before Mize picked up a bat and went to work. Mize drove a Sid Hudson pitch into left center for a double, scoring Berra with the tie-breaking run.

It hardly mattered that Billy Martin, batting after Gil McDougald drew an intentional walk, came through with a single, scoring Bill Renna, Mize's runner. Raschi had all he needed.

Mathews Got Tips From Pie Traynor

PITTSBURGH — Pie Traynor, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, likes to think he helped Ed Mathews, Milwaukee Brave third sacker who is leading the pack in the home run chase.

Traynor, who won fame as third baseman with the Pittsburgh Pirates, now is a Pittsburgh radio announcer.

Mathews went to Traynor last year for some advice.

"I told him he would have to quit being a stationary third baseman," says Traynor. "You're playing every batter the same, I told him. You have to learn the hitters. You should get some help from the shortstop, Johnny Logan. Get together with him on some kind of a sign he can give you on every pitch. Another thing I told Eddie was to stand with his hands on his knees at third base. He was moving in on every pitch and consequently even high bounders were getting past him. I don't know if it helped him but maybe it did."

Connolly, Hart Reach Finals At Wimbledon

Fry, Knode Defeated; Seixas, Nielsen Play For Singles Title

By STERLING SLAPPEY

WIMBLEDON, England, July 2 (AP)—Defending champion Maureen Connolly and Doris Hart, the 1951 winner, won easily and swiftly today in the semifinals of the all-England tennis championships at Wimbledon.

A crowd of 16,000 watched Little Mo of San Diego, Calif. smash past Shirley Fry of Akron, O. in

Doris Hart Maureen Connolly

32 minutes, 6-1, 6-1. It took Miss Hart of Coral Gables, Fla. just three minutes more to dispose of Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Alameda, Calif. 6-2, 6-2.

The results were predicted and Saturday's final will bring together the world's two top-ranking feminine players for the fourth time in less than a year in a national championship.

Swept Four Titles

Maureen defeated her rival in the U. S. and French finals. Doris tripped Little Mo in the three-set final of the Italian championship. In addition, the San Diego blonde won the Australian crown to become the first woman ever to hold the U. S., Australian, French and British championships at the same time.

In the semifinal doubles match, Australia's second-ranking pair of Mervyn Rose and Rex Hartwig outlasted the top American combination of Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, and Gardnar Mulloy, Coral Gables, Fla., 14-16, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad made it an all Australian final in the men's doubles when they beat Jacques Brichant and Philippe Washer of Belgium 4-6, 6-0, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1.

Play For Title Today

Seixas will have his big moment tomorrow at 8 a. m. (EST) when he meets Kurt Nielsen, the merry Dane, for the men's championship.

Sarazen, Bulla, Oliver Pass Up British Open

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 2 (AP)—U. S. stars Gene Sarazen, Johnny Bulla and Ed Oliver scratched today from the British Open golf championship which begins here Monday.

An official of the Royal and Ancient, golf's ruling body in Britain, said official notification was received the American trio would not be in the field.

Sarazen won the British Open in 1932 and has always been a great favorite in Scotland.

It still was doubtful whether Harvie Ward, 1952 British amateur champion from Atlanta, would compete.

Every golfing conversation centered on Ben Hogan, winner of the Masters and the U. S. Open this year. The Fort Worth player has started serious preparation for the tournament.

Owner Deprived Of Race Purses

Mutuels Unaffected By Delaware Ruling

WILMINGTON, Del., July 2 (AP)—Following the running of yesterday's second race, Trainer Oleg Dubassoff—who saddled last-place Bombez—lodged a protest with the Delaware Park stewards stating that certain horses in the race were ineligible under the conditions. After investigation, the stewards found that First Watch, Satyrus and Herb S., were ineligible and ordered them disqualified from any participation in the purse distribution.

The correct order of finish will be: Post Prandial first; Dark Patrol second; East of Suez third and Bombez fourth. The William Ziegler Jr., pair, First Watch and Satyrus, actually finished second and third, respectively, while Dark Patrol was fourth, East of Suez fifth, Herb S., sixth and Bombez last. The conditions of the race stated: for horses who have been the property of present owners since Jan. 1, 1952." Apparently the trainers of the ineligible horses misread the date as 1953. The stewards said the ruling does not in any way affect the pari-mutuel payoff.

Finn Set Record

HELSINKI, Finland, July 2 — (INS)—Olavi Rinteenpaa, a Finn, today set a new record for the 3,000 meter steeplechase at 8:44.4.

This was exactly 11 seconds better than the former world mark of 8:45.4 set by the American, Horace Ashenfelter, at the last Olympic games.

Fort Cumberland To Seek 4th Win

Legion Loop Leaders Host Grantsville

Fort Cumberland Post's Junior American Legion tossers will be angling for their fourth straight victory in the Mountain District League when they play Grantsville Post of Garrett County today at 5:30 o'clock at Fort Hill Field.

The locals, headed by George Zegles and Frank Zahradka, have knocked over Frostburg 6-0, Grantsville 12-0 and Midland 18-11 and occupy first place in the four-team circuit. Grantsville has failed to crash the win column in three starts.

Harry Iser, Don Paye or Galen McGregor will get the pitching assignment for the locals in today's game while Kamp or T. Colaw will work on the firing line for the visitors.

Midland Post, holder of second place with a 2-1 record plays host to Farrady Post of Frostburg (1-2) today at 5:30 o'clock at the Midland Ball Park.

Announcement was made yesterday that during the absence of Hugh Coleman, who is employed by the Western Maryland Railway at Elkins, Tommy Dunn will handle the managerial reins of the Midland Post team.

Push Button Control Latest In Display Of Fireworks

CHICAGO—Chances are the fireworks display you watch on the Fourth of July will be a pushbutton operation. The men who run it would not touch a match to a firecracker.

Frank Duffield, boss of crews that set off carloads of fireworks all over the country every year (Thearle-Duffield Fireworks, Inc.) says safety is drilled into the men who set them off.

"We don't use rockets any more unless we're working far from the crowd. Falling sticks are hazardous."

When all hell seems to break loose in some spectacular display, the man who sets it off is standing at a push-button panel, 100 feet or more away.

Busy Fourth

The busiest single day in the business is the Fourth of July. This year's biggest operations then will be a show in the Los Angeles Coliseum and a mile-long spectacle along the Schuylkill River sponsored by the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

The company's crews will also work at Soldier Field in Chicago, the Cotton Bowl in Dallas and 20 other cities.

Duffield, a gray-haired veteran of 35 years in the business, said public interest in fireworks is as great as ever.

"The big difference," he added, "is that more and more they are being handled by professionals.

"Many children now growing up see fireworks only at public shows."

Duffield's company was founded in 1914 by Charles Duffield, now retired, and Harry B. Thearle. Thearle was killed a few months later in an explosion of fireworks in the firm's office and storeroom, then on Chicago's South Side.

Accidents Curtailed.

Frank Duffield said there have been no accidental deaths in the organization since then.

"And there have been very few accidents," said his son, Jack Duffield, vice president.

The old pros—known as pyrotechnists—play it safe. Twenty-five of them have been handling fireworks for 25 years or longer.

The company, largest in the display field, arranges its bookings during the winter. Equipment is prepared and set pieces are built during the spring in a warehouse and factory at Roby, Ind.

Crews—they vary in size from two to ten men—start riding the county, regional and state fair circuits late in June. They keep going until Armistice Day.

A skeleton force works all year. Others work when they are needed. All hands—120 men—are in action on July 4.

Vacation Programs

The part-time employes include a railroad freight solicitor, a building engineer, a city street inspector, a school teacher, several policemen and college students. They time their vacations to jibe with the schedule of shows.

The expert who handles the controls works from a continuity sheet. Following it, he turns on one episode after another to the accompaniment of cued-in music by a band.

For a recent July 4 Legion-sponsored show, for instance, the script began:

1. Aerial Salvo.
2. American Legion Emblem.
3. Portraits of (Presidents) Washington, Lincoln, McKinley, Wilson, Roosevelt.

A young operator evolved a newfangled control box a few years ago and tried it out at the Chicago Railroad Fair. The spectacle began. A short developed.

The drama of light and sound, with all parts of the display twinkling, popping, flaring and booming at the same time, was over in two minutes. But it was spectacular indeed while it lasted.

guests included Mickey Mantle, dressed in a sort of Spanish courtier costume with a flowing cloak (or mantle), Gloria Swanson, disguised as a Keystone Kop (she was once a Mack Sennett bathing beauty) and Patrice Munsel all done up for "The Marriage of Figaro." That's an awful lot of distinguished people for one little half hour quiz show — especially if you count the distinguished panelists. If this sort of thing keeps up, the first thing you know they'll be letting down the bars of the Distinguished People Fraternity and all sort of riffraff like Richard Maney or maybe even Toots Shor will be getting into the lodge.

We can't have that. I'm for ntioning distinguished people right now before they run out. Only one distinguished mystery guest should be allowed per program. And only two distinguished panel members. The other two panel members — there have to be four panel members on every quiz show or Messrs. Goodson and Todman wouldn't sleep nights — would have to be complete nonentities. Of course, after a couple of months on a network quiz show the nonentities would become entities and after maybe a year they would become distinguished entities, ready for membership in the Distinguished People Fraternity. This would provide fresh meat for the mystery guest pool, as well as give the regular mystery guests a chance to catch up on their publishing, or acting or bookwriting or whatever made them distinguished in the first place.

I hate to tell the broadcaster how to run his business but, if I were in his boots, I'd start stockpiling distinguished people right now for late August when the supply is going to run awfully low. Just as a suggestion, boys, why not lay aside Phil Rizzuto, Sen. Wayne Morse, Dinah Shore and Truman Capote for emergencies?

"Masquerade Party," incidentally, is a pleasant enough quiz game, largely because it's kind of fun to watch the silly get-ups the famous folk have to wear. After they are guessed — as they mostly always are — Doug Edwards, the moderator, helps to unfrock them of beard and putty. Sometimes it's a painful business, arousing little yelps of consternation from the distinguished folk. "No, those are my ears!" Gloria Swanson told him hastily when he tried to yank one off.

Incidentally, Mr. Edwards is the most unsmiling emcee of any I've ever seen. It's a refreshing change, an emcee who doesn't grin and who doesn't tell jokes. He may have opened up a vast new field here.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Old man Rhee is going to make us pay for it right through the nose.

And he can do it. The Reds won't make a truce unless Rhee brings his ROKs into the bargain. Having gone this far, we'll go all out to end the Korean fight. We'll probably give the Reds whatever else they demand, and agree to leave U. S. troops and equipment in Korea, continue to train the South Koreans, underwrite the Korean republic's treasury, and promise to fight in Rhee's behalf whenever he's attacked.

More and more the alternative is turning on Rhee and fighting his ROKs. That, in addition to being an unbearable turn of events, might prove disastrous. We have taught them how to fight well, and they sharply outnumber us.

U. S. letter carriers—who unite more people than the state of matrimony—are performing a fine deed these days. Many are walking their whole routes again, after receiving contributions for United Cerebral Palsy. In Los Angeles they raised more than $200,000; in Tampa, $15,000, in Troy, N. Y., $13,000.

Don't miss the postman's knock.

Lt. Franciszek Jarecki, the Polish jet pilot who lammed to Denmark with a MIG last March, illumines the life of a member of the Red elite corps, in "Air Force" —the magazine of American airpower.

He writes that he received three times as much pay ($300 a month) as a lieutenant in the Polish army, that he got a $10 a day subsistence boost, and his military pay was tax free. Only men with a "clean" political part are accepted in the satellite air force. Jarecki had to conceal the fact that his father was an officer in prewar Polish army.

Polish air force jet pilots have their own mess and may buy things not available to most Poles: Good shoes, linen, coffee, pepper, milk, cocoa, etc.

Though he was happy to turn over a MIG to the West for nothing, save that which he values most, political asylum in the U. S., Jarecki thinks it would be a good idea to extend our $100,000 reward for undamaged MIGs to Europe.

He reasons that it would be effective even if no MIGs flew the coop. He says it would put the Russians on the defensive, make them enforce special security measures, cause them to ground fliers the least bit suspect, and create general confusion and suspicion.

Bing Crosby's new picture, "Little Boy Lost," not to be released until next fall, was previewed at the Astor on Broadway Tuesday. This is an advance warning to all Crosby fans to bring along at least three handkerchiefs when the time comes, and also to be prepared to see their man in his most heart-warming role since "Going My Way."

Bing plays a war correspondent, and widower, who has come back to France to find his son. He and the adept scripters keep it an adult cut above the pools of pathos into which lesser men would have sunk.

It's just wonderful.

The late Irving Netcher had a gift for phrasing that matched his great spirit of friendliness. Once at Charlie Farrell's place in Palm Springs he entered the bar and lounge to find it filled with morose-looking tennis players staring moodily at the rain outside.

"No sadder sight on earth than that of a grounded tennis player," he said, placidly ordering a non-athletic martini.

A DESIRABLE PREJUDICE

HAVING a prejudice in favor of any particular type of contract is usually unwise. You can find players who say they will never bid a grand slam, even with the cards to justify it, as they prefer the safety of a small slam in such cases. Some have such a violent hatred of minor suit games that they overemphasize the preference for a No Trump game instead of an eleven-trick suit contract. One desirable prejudice, however, can hardly be overdone—the hope of finding a major suit fit of four cards opposite four, if one exists in the deal, with either partner holding a doubleton, singleton or blank where ruffing can prove of value.

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

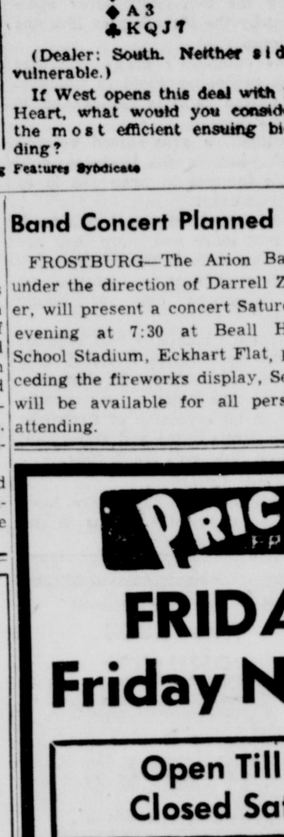

The bidding was done by two players who fancied themselves fine players of No Trump contracts—compared with those they customarily met—and who therefore stressed the advisability of playing as many hands as possible in that make. It happened that this time the skill of North stood him in good stead. But he required everything he could give it to succeed. After the club K lead, North could find only eight immediate tricks by ordinary means—three in hearts if the suit didn't split, two each in spades and diamonds and one in clubs. By grace of his ability and a modicum of good fortune, he developed a successful squeeze.

Upon winning the second club, he won with the heart A and Q, then planned to pinch East between diamonds and spades. Developing the timing, he led the spade 6 and let the 8 win, discarded on two clubs and won the diamond J return with the A. After the spade K he led the heart 7 to the K, which did it. Dummy contained the heart 3 and diamond K-8 and closed hand the spade A-10 and diamond 9. East, with the spade J-7, dared not discard one and thus promote the 10, so discarded from the diamond Q-6. That enabled the spade A, diamond 9 to the K and diamond 8 to get the closing tricks for game.

North should have bid 2-Hearts on his second turn instead of 2-No Trumps, and South either 2-Hearts on his first turn or over 2-No Trumps should have bid 3-Hearts instead of 3-No Trumps. Any of those calls would have led to a 4-Hearts contract, which would have been easy for anyone to make, with the loss of one trick each in every suit except spades, to produce 20 points more than the hard-to-make No Trump game.

If West opens this deal with 1-Heart, what would you consider the most efficient ensuing bidding?

Maryland Has Record Yield Of Maple Sugar

Maryland had the highest yield of maple sugar per tree since 1944 this Spring when production reached 4.55 pounds of sugar per tree, according to the Maryland Farm Bureau.

An estimated 27,000 trees were tapped which is 2,000 less than a year ago but the flowing season lasted 54 days as against 38 days in 1952.

While only 3,000 pounds of sugar was produced, 15,000 gallons of syrup was realized which is much greater than production in '52.

The syrup was considered excellent in quality with a light color and delicate flavor. Prices for this good crop averaged about the same as a year ago with syrup selling at $4.45 a gallon, retail and sugar going for 70 cents a pound, retail.

A DESIRABLE PREJUDICE

HAVING a prejudice in favor of any particular type of contract is usually unwise. You can find players who say they will never bid a grand slam, even with the cards to justify it, as they prefer the safety of a small slam in such cases. Some have such a violent hatred of minor suit games that they overemphasize the preference for a No Trump game instead of an eleven-trick suit contract. One desirable prejudice, however, can hardly be overdone—the hope of finding a major suit fit of four cards opposite four, if one exists in the deal, with either partner holding a doubleton, singleton or blank where ruffing can prove of value.

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

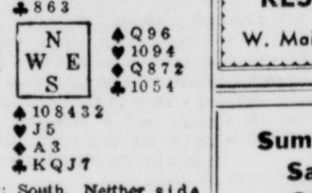

The bidding was done by two players who fancied themselves fine players of No Trump contracts—compared with those they customarily met—and who therefore stressed the advisability of playing as many hands as possible in that make. It happened that this time the skill of North stood him in good stead. But he required everything he could give it to succeed. After the club K lead, North could find only eight immediate tricks by ordinary means—three in hearts if the suit didn't split, two each in spades and diamonds and one in clubs. By grace of his ability and a modicum of good fortune, he developed a successful squeeze.

Upon winning the second club, he won with the heart A and Q, then planned to pinch East between diamonds and spades. Developing the timing, he led the spade 6 and let the 8 win, discarded on two clubs and won the diamond J return with the A. After the spade K he led the heart 7 to the K, which did it. Dummy contained the heart 3 and diamond K-8 and closed hand the spade A-10 and diamond 9. East, with the spade J-7, dared not discard one and thus promote the 10, so discarded from the diamond Q-6. That enabled the spade A, diamond 9 to the K and diamond 8 to get the closing tricks for game.

North should have bid 2-Hearts on his second turn instead of 2-No Trumps, and South either 2-Hearts on his first turn or over 2-No Trumps should have bid 3-Hearts instead of 3-No Trumps. Any of those calls would have led to a 4-Hearts contract, which would have been easy for anyone to make, with the loss of one trick each in every suit except spades, to produce 20 points more than the hard-to-make No Trump game.

If West opens this deal with 1-Heart, what would you consider the most efficient ensuing bidding?

Maryland Has Record Yield Of Maple Sugar

Maryland had the highest yield of maple sugar per tree since 1944 this Spring when production reached 4.55 pounds of sugar per tree, according to the Maryland Farm Bureau.

An estimated 27,000 trees were tapped which is 2,000 less than a year ago but the flowing season lasted 54 days as against 38 days in 1952.

While only 3,000 pounds of sugar was produced, 15,000 gallons of syrup was realized which is much greater than production in '52.

The syrup was considered excellent in quality with a light color and delicate flavor. Prices for this good crop averaged about the same as a year ago with syrup selling at $4.45 a gallon, retail and sugar going for 70 cents a pound, retail.

Work To Begin On Parking Lot At Westernport

To Provide Space For 27 Vehicles

WESTERNPORT — Work on the new parking lot acquired by the Town of Westernport from the Morrison Heirs is expected to get underway next week, Mayor Okey E. Michael, noted Wednesday at the regular meeting of the Town Commissioners.

The bid of $301 from Gilbert Barton, of Greene's Addition, for the purchase and removal of the frame two-story building on Washington Street, adjoining the city building was accepted.

The building on Washington Street was occupied by Harry Welsh Music Store that moved to West Fairview Street, Piedmont, Carl W. Shaffer, trial magistrate who has moved to the Roberts Building on the same street and Dr. Donald R. Whitworth, a dentist, who is planning to move to Third Street, Piedmont.

The purchase of the building on Walnut Street also includes three garages in the rear which housed motor vehicles of J. Estel Kenney and John McBee.

Twenty-seven three hour parking meters will be placed on the newly acquired lot as well as the town's public weigh scales.

The building on Main Street which was purchased by Pulliam Music at Keyser has already been razed.

Six water line and sewer jobs were given priority for the year were approved as follows: Walnut Street extended to Wood Street; Wood Street extended to George's Creek; Trunk sewer in vicinity of Jake's Place; Sewer from house on Riordon Road; Beyond Nasser's Yard in vicinity of Waverly Street; Lynn to Fairview Street.

Year Ends With $10,200 Balance

WESTERNPORT — At a special meeting of Mayor Okey E. Michaels and the Town Commissioners recently, it was ordered that $2,000 more be set aside in the sinking fund for the retirement of the Westernport General Bonds which are due May 1, 1955.

This is the first time since the bonds were issued that the town has been able to set aside more than the amount currently due on the bonds, city officials said.

The Mayor and Commissioners believe that in doing this the town will not only reduce the amount it will be forced to re-issue in 1957, but will benefit from a better interest rate and sale price due to an investors demand for a systematic plan for bond retirement.

Next years' budget includes another $2,000 additional payment into the sinking fund.

The town has been able to accomplish this because of its operation under a budget for the year and also because Alvin Pence, commissioner of light and public property, spent much of his time in cost studies which has resulted in considerable savings for the town.

After all bills were paid, the town ended the fiscal year with a balance of approximately $10,200 notwithstanding the fact that taxes which ordinarily are due June 1, are under the new charter not collectable until after the beginning of the fiscal year on July 1.

Youths To Face Trial At Keyser

Paul Niner, 24, Berkeley Springs, W. Va., and Eugene Kirby, 20, Pine Grove, W. Va., students at Potomac State College, Keyser, were ordered held for the Mineral County grand jury on charges of destroying, defacing and injuring personal property after a hearing yesterday before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle in Keyser.

The pair pleaded not guilty to the charges and were released after posting $1,000 bonds. Vernon E. Rankin, Mineral County prosecuting attorney, filed the charges.

Keyser police claim the two students released brakes of two parked automobiles and pushed them down steep streets in Keyser Tuesday night.

One of the cars was parked in the rear of the Keyser High School, and the other on Spring Street.

Keyser Man Has Stray Pigeon

Pigeon fanciers of this section are asked to contact W. J. Koelz, of Keyser, who is seeking some information on a stray pigeon which landed at his residence just south of the Mineral County community about a week ago.

Koelz said the bird seemed tired and hungry when it made a "forced landing" at his residence, and he has been feeding and caring for it ever since. He thought the pigeon would resume its flight when it regained its strength, but so far it has shown no tendency to leave its temporary home.

The bird has bands on its legs and is probably of a superior type, Koelz said. His address is P. O. Box 584, Keyser, and his phone number Keyser 22-666.

Poultry Council Plans Meeting

The Maryland Poultry Council's summer meeting will be held at Schley Inn, Braddock Heights, on July 21-23 to highlight the Maryland State Fair Board's calendar for the month.

The same three-day period will also feature the Carroll County 4-H Fair at Taneytown. Other 4-H shows and fairs are scheduled for July 25 at Centreville, Queen Anne's County, and July 28 at Trappe for the Talbot and Dorchester clubs.

An Eastern Shore Guernsey Breeders' Field Day is planned at Pioneer Point Farm, Centreville, July 23 and on July 30 the Jersey District Field Day will be held at the Bel Air fair grounds.

Installs Officers

KEYSER — Newly-elected officers for the coming year of the Women's CTP of the B & O Railroad, Keyser Division, recently were installed by Mrs. Mildred Dreschler, Baltimore, who presented the new officers with corsages and gave special gifts to the outgoing officers.

Chicken Raising Is Termed Tricky Business Venture

BURDELL N. MYRICK

MORRIE, Ill.—So you'd like to retire to the country and grow chickens.

Listen to Burdell N. Myrick, 51, broiler-chick king and owner of one of the 7,000 hatcheries in the United States.

Chickens can be tricky, he says. Disease can wreck a flock. Kept alone they lose weight from loneliness. A grower must know how to spot trouble before it really gets started.

But don't let that discourage you. Myrick has seen many growers get rich, although many others lost out.

"I used to get many letters from city folks," he says. And his advice always was to start small. A beginner will take losses and it is better to lose on 300 than on 3,000 chickens. He should "study chickens and their habits."

A chicken, he says, "is not a stupid bird. They have voices and talk. A cackle means one thing and a cluck something else." He also tells how cockerels rule the roost and fight for top honors. But each has his favorite hen and "will often court her to the point of starving himself."

Donald Lyons of the Poultry and Egg National Board, Chicago, says the growing of poultry is the fastest expanding agricultural industry in the United States today. It's the quickest method of converting grains into table meat, requiring only weeks, whereas months are needed to make pork or beef.

America uses 30 pounds of chicken per person compared with an 18 pound average per year 10 years ago. Per capita egg consumption per year is 406. And the average American uses six turkeys a year, double the 10-year-ago figure.

Broiler growers are the backbone of the 700 million dollar chicken industry. Myrick began his hatching business in 1922. Now he flies his chicks to customers. He uses a big two-motored plane that takes 10,000 chicks in one load. They go into 22 states.

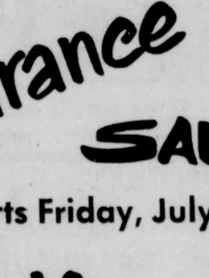

Care Urged In Use Of Tri-Towns Water

WESTERNPORT — Mayor Okey E. Michaels and Town Commissioners urge the use of water as sparingly as possible.

All water consumers outside the corporate limits of the town will be provided with an ample supply if discretion is used during the present dry spell, they said.

Second honors went to Charlotte Pyles, of West End playground, with her acrobatic presentation. First prize to Miss Pearce was $5 and second prize winner received $3.

Ruth Malone carried off third prize of $2 for a reading. She was the representative of the Lincoln Street playground.

Other prize winners were Joseph House and Thomas Carras, who presented a trombone and accordion duet, carrying off fourth place honors for North End Playground; the Crabtree sisters from the East End Play Lot and Mickey and Jeania Fury, West End play site, who tied for fifth prize. The Crabtrees sang a duet and the Furys presented a tap dance routine.

Others participating in the city-wide contest were Piedmont Street play lot, Milton April, Patty Ravensfraft, Ruth Giffin and Lynn McKee; East End, Richard Cook and Lynn McKee; West End, Pat and June Smith; North End, Susan and Delores Welch; Lincoln Street play lot, Otis Taylor and Betty and Gloria Smith.

Poultry Council Plans Meeting

The Maryland Poultry Council's summer meeting will be held at Schley Inn, Braddock Heights, on July 21-23 to highlight the Maryland State Fair Board's calendar for the month.

The same three-day period will also feature the Carroll County 4-H Fair at Taneytown. Other 4-H shows and fairs are scheduled for July 25 at Centreville, Queen Anne's County, and July 28 at Trappe for the Talbot and Dorchester clubs.

An Eastern Shore Guernsey Breeders' Field Day is planned at Pioneer Point Farm, Centreville, July 23 and on July 30 the Jersey District Field Day will be held at the Bel Air fair grounds.

Installs Officers

KEYSER — Newly-elected officers for the coming year of the Women's CTP of the B & O Railroad, Keyser Division, recently were installed by Mrs. Mildred Dreschler, Baltimore, who presented the new officers with corsages and gave special gifts to the outgoing officers.

The Piedmont CTP presented a odeling show after the installation, displaying gowns of brides in the period of 1900. Two cake walks were featured. Members of the CTP of Westernport, Cumberland and Piedmont were guests.

Chicken Raising Is Termed Tricky Business Venture

BURDELL N. MYRICK

MORRIE, Ill.—So you'd like to retire to the country and grow chickens.

Listen to Burdell N. Myrick, 51, broiler-chick king and owner of one of the 7,000 hatcheries in the United States.

Chickens can be tricky, he says. Disease can wreck a flock. Kept alone they lose weight from loneliness. A grower must know how to spot trouble before it really gets started.

But don't let that discourage you. Myrick has seen many growers get rich, although many others lost out.

"I used to get many letters from city folks," he says. And his advice always was to start small. A beginner will take losses and it is better to lose on 300 than on 3,000 chickens. He should "study chickens and their habits."

A chicken, he says, "is not a stupid bird. They have voices and talk. A cackle means one thing and a cluck something else." He also tells how cockerels rule the roost and fight for top honors. But each has his favorite hen and "will often court her to the point of starving himself."

Donald Lyons of the Poultry and Egg National Board, Chicago, says the growing of poultry is the fastest expanding agricultural industry in the United States today. It's the quickest method of converting grains into table meat, requiring only weeks, whereas months are needed to make pork or beef.

America uses 30 pounds of chicken per person compared with an 18 pound average per year 10 years ago. Per capita egg consumption per year is 406. And the average American uses six turkeys a year, double the 10-year-ago figure.

Broiler growers are the backbone of the 700 million dollar chicken industry. Myrick began his hatching business in 1922. Now he flies his chicks to customers. He uses a big two-motored plane that takes 10,000 chicks in one load. They go into 22 states.

Care Urged In Use Of Tri-Towns Water

WESTERNPORT — Mayor Okey E. Michaels and Town Commissioners urge the use of water as sparingly as possible.

All water consumers outside the corporate limits of the town will be provided with an ample supply if discretion is used during the present dry spell, they said.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 2 (INS) — I call it very interesting that Fredric March has decided to return to Hollywood after he said, a few years ago, he had made his last appearance here. Well, a man has a right to change his mind, especially when one of the top roles in "Executive Suite" is offered him.

Freddie cabled Dore Schary from Greece that he'll join the lineup now consisting of June Allyson, Barbara Stanwyck, Shelley Winters, William Holden, Walter Pidgeon and Louis Calhern.

When Dore Schary casually dropped in conversation that the Cameron Hawley novel would have the greatest star aggregation since "Grand Hotel" he wasn't kidding.

When I was told that Eddie Mannix had signed a new long term contract as vice president and general manager of MGM, my mind went back to when I first met Eddie.

That was in 1925 when he joined Nicholas Schenck and was very close to him. Eddie's been with MGM for 28 years, and he's one of the most respected and loved men in our industry. There's no one stands better with labor circles and there's many a fight he's refereed and won.

Does my heart good to know that Eddie's remaining on at MGM.

On swanky Savoy Hotel paper in longhand, Jerry Lewis writes me from London, saying that he and Dean Martin only kept the lord provost of Glasgow waiting 20 minutes.

"We thought our engagement was for 11:30 a. m. instead it was 11:00. We wrote a note of apology which was accepted. Just so you know your American idiots will never disgrace you, I am writing this letter. Patti and Dean send their love.

"If you want a real bargain, I ran into some very nice Yorkshire fly paper. Let me know if you want some."

Waxing serious, Jerry says, "Our reception at the Palladium is far beyond our wildest dreams."

The breaks continue for Cesar Romero — and they couldn't happen to a nicer guy. Cesar, who's in Mexico City making "Naked Sword," was cabled today to be back in Hollywood by July 7 for still another long trip and picture.

He'll have the best male role next to Glenn Ford's in "The Americano" which will be made entirely in Brazil.

Fact is, when Cesar returns to Hollywood he'll be here just three days before the Robert Stillman company pulls out July 10 for South America.

Donald O'Connor is finding Marilyn Erskine the answer to the torch he carried so long for Gwen. Although Don and Marilyn's favorite rendezvous is Fairchild's, they are also seeing each other everywhere around town.

Zsa Zsa Gabor with Freddie De Cordova and a party including the James Masons, were ringsiding at the Mocambo. No George Sanders in sight.

At the Warner sneak preview of "The City Is Dark," Jane Powell came with Gene Nelson. He's one of the stars, and apparently they are no longer trying to keep this romance a secret.

Mrs. Ernie Heyn, wife of the editor of American Weekly, arrives tomorrow to house guest with Katherine Albert and Dale Eunson.

Lina Romay and Jay Gould III celebrated at Jack's at the Beach at dinner after they obtained their marriage license.

Marilyn Monroe has been presented with a diamond studded compact from the national jewelers organization with the inscription: "The girl who is a diamond's best friend."

Couldn't happen to a nicer gal. The Jewish Theatrical Guild of America is giving a golden jubilee testimonial dinner for my girl friend, Sophie Tucker, on Oct. 4 at the Waldorf-Astoria. Only hope I can be there.

Joanne Gilbert is inviting her friends to a cocktail party at the Champagne Room of the Mocambo tomorrow. I'll tell you one person who'll be there — Tab Hunter, her favorite escort.

Beauty Prefers Dates With Directors

HOLLYWOOD — Ruth Hampton has been fighting off the Hollywood wolves for nine months, long enough to convince her that she prefers the men back home in Merchantville, N. J.

The black-haired beauty is winner of 40 beauty contests from babyhood up to her present age of 21. She came out here last fall for the "Miss Universe" contest, entering as Miss New Jersey. After the contest Universal-International signed nine of the beauties. All but two have long since been dropped by the studio. Only Ruth and Miss Germany, Renate Hoy of Berlin, were kept under contract. Ruth's first picture is "Law and Order," a color Western.

Most of her dates here have been with actors.

The average actor isn't the least bit interested in me other than as a drape on his arm to be photographed with at night clubs and premieres," she said.

"They're patient, understanding, considerate and always gentlemen. Besides that, they're intelligent. A director is, after an actor with brains."

The Spanish-Irish Venus is still unmarried and still unattached, even in the gossip columns. That's a pretty good record for nine months in Hollywood.

RUTH HAMPTON

Actress Seeks Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., July 2 (AP) — Actress Eleanor Parker has filed for divorce from her husband of seven years, producer Bert Friedlob, it was disclosed today.

Radio And Television
by John Crosby

Shortage Of Distinguished People

According to a rough count, there are now about 20 hours of quiz shows on network television. Of course, that's extending the quiz category pretty broadly. It includes, for instance, Groucho Marx blandly asking a studio contestant if he knows who is buried in Grant's Tomb. It includes three scientists blinking myopically at a voodoo mask and trying to figure out whether it came from Indonesia in the 14th Century or South Africa in the 16th Century.

John Crosby

It includes Herb Shriner on "Two for the Money" spinning his gentle folklore about Indiana and asking quiz questions almost incidentally. It includes Dorothy Kilgallen and Prof. Bergen Evans of Northwestern University and Doug Edwards, who is more normally found telling us the news of Korea, and the Quiz Kids whose normal occupation is grammar school, and the glamour girls and guys on "Pantomime Quiz," who generally earn their living in front of movie cameras, and publishers like Bennett Cerf and — well — name anybody. Little by little everyone is getting into the act.

I like a good quiz show but, gosh almighty, fellows, enough is enough. You can hardly click the dial anywhere without finding an emcee, saying: "And now let us meet our distinguished panel members." There is no such thing as an undistinguished panel member. Each one is hopelessly distinguished and the moment he guesses the identity of the mystery gues, chances are, he must dash off and be the mystery guest on somebody else's show, conceivably the one on which the mystery guest he just identified is a panel member.

I'm seriously worried over the mystery guest situation. I don't think there are going to be enough to go around, if this thing continues. Now you take a show like "Masquerade Party," which is a fairly new operation on CBS-TV (9:30 p. m. EDT Mondays). Here the distinguished folk are dressed in the most outlandish costumes and wigs and beards and putty noses — the ensemble being some sort of clue to their identities. Then the distinguished panelists — Peter Donald, Ilka Chase, Ogden Nash and Buff Cobb — are supposed to guess who they are.

The night I watched the mystery

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

J M Y M E. J M Y M E V B M — W P G S M E D.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

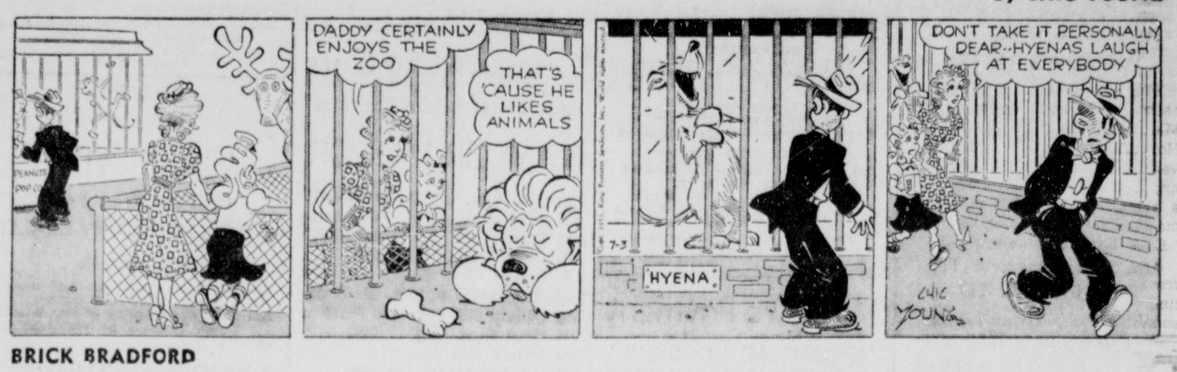

S H N G H J W V H W M C E H S V B M P

J M Y M E. J M Y M E V B M — W P G S M E D.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: AND IN THE LOWEST DEEP A LOWER DEEP, STILL THREATENING TO DEVOUR ME OPENS WIDE—MILTON.

One-Man Sub Joins Underwater Craft

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A tiny one-man submarine, with an airplane like cockpit, a set of bicycle pedals and a half-horsepower motor, has joined the ranks of unique underwater craft.

Invented by Aerojet General Corporation's C. A. Gongwer and G. M. McRoberts, the sleek Mark III "minisub" is piloted by one man yet offers only one-third the resistance of a man as it glides through the water.

The pedals, or the motor, spin two 28-inch counter rotating aircraft type propellers at 60 revolutions a minute. The props turn in opposite directions to prevent the craft from turning with torque.

With the motor on, the sub can travel at seven knots. In a test employing foot power, the sub traveled two nautical miles in 37 minutes before the pilot ran out of air.

The nautical newcomer's appearance is believed to be a step toward the development of underwater weapons. It also could aid below-surface demolition and harbor work, expedite oceanic exploration and even act as a sports craft.

In operation, the craft is towed offshore and flooded and the pilot, wearing the aqualung, swims to it. The swimmer climbs into the cockpit, fastens his seat belt, pulls down the canopy and slips his feet into the pedals.

Originally a weekend hobby of the inventors, the idea crystalized into an actual submarine.

Rail Issues Again Provide Spark As Market Advances

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—The stock market advanced today. It was the second straight advance and the second straight day that the railroads sparked the upward movement.

The overall performance of the market was modified somewhat by the tendency of prices to slip away from their best toward the end of the trading day. At the close, however, the market was definitely higher in most major sections.

Volume came to 1,030,000 shares. That is the first time that the million mark has been passed since a week ago today. Yesterday's total came to 910,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 30 cents at $108.10. The industrial and railroad components of the average today were up 40 cents each while the utility component remained unchanged.

There was a broader participation in the market than at any time in nearly a week with 1,043 individual issues appearing on the tape. Of these, 511 advanced and 244 declined with 5 new highs and 26 new lows touched during the day.

Doing quite well with the rails were the steels, motors, oils, coppers, and some chemicals and aircrafts. The air lines and motion pictures were somewhat neglected along with the radio-television shares.

Both General Motors and Chrysler added small fractions. GM reported its car production for the first six months this year was 64 per cent ahead of a year ago while Chrysler posted a 41 per cent gain for the same periods.

One-Man Sub Joins Underwater Craft

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A tiny one-man submarine, with an airplane like cockpit, a set of bicycle pedals and a half-horsepower motor, has joined the ranks of unique underwater craft.

Invented by Aerojet General Corporation's C. A. Gongwer and G. M. McRoberts, the sleek Mark III "minisub" is piloted by one man yet offers only one-third the resistance of a man as it glides through the water.

The 8½-foot long, 22-inch wide and 145-pound submarine can be propelled either by bicycle-like pedals or a 24-volt electric battery.

The pedals, or the motor, spin two 28-inch counter rotating aircraft type propellers at 60 revolutions a minute. The props turn in opposite directions to prevent the craft from turning with torque.

With the motor on, the sub can travel at seven knots. In a test employing foot power, the sub traveled two nautical miles in 37 minutes before the pilot ran out of air.

The nautical newcomer's appearance is believed to be a step toward the development of underwater weapons. It also could aid below-surface demolition and harbor work, expedite oceanic exploration and even act as a sports craft.

In operation, the craft is towed offshore and flooded and the pilot, wearing the aqualung, swims to it. The swimmer climbs into the cockpit, fastens his seat belt, pulls down the canopy and slips his feet into the pedals.

Originally a weekend hobby of the inventors, the idea crystalized into an actual submarine.

Their wedding is to be solemnized in the fall.

On behalf of the choir, Rev. L. G. Bridgers presented the bride-elect with a gift. The shower and bridal motifs were combined in the party decorations. Rail Issues Again Provide Spark As Market Advances

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—The stock market advanced today. It was the second straight advance and the second straight day that the railroads sparked the upward movement.

The overall performance of the market was modified somewhat by the tendency of prices to slip away from their best toward the end of the trading day. At the close, however, the market was definitely higher in most major sections.

Volume came to 1,030,000 shares. That is the first time that the million mark has been passed since a week ago today. Yesterday's total came to 910,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 30 cents at $108.10. The industrial and railroad components of the average today were up 40 cents each while the utility component remained unchanged.

There was a broader participation in the market than at any time in nearly a week with 1,043 individual issues appearing on the tape. Of these, 511 advanced and 244 declined with 5 new highs and 26 new lows touched during the day.

Doing quite well with the rails were the steels, motors, oils, coppers, and some chemicals and aircrafts. The air lines and motion pictures were somewhat neglected along with the radio-television shares.

Both General Motors and Chrysler added small fractions. GM reported its car production for the first six months this year was 64 per cent ahead of a year ago while Chrysler posted a 41 per cent gain for the same periods.

City To Dedicate New Filter Units July 15

New filter units, which will boost the capacity of the city's water system to 18,000,000 gallons a day, will be dedicated July 15 at 2 p. m. at a public ceremony at the Lake Gordon filtration plant, according to William J. Edwards, city commissioner of water and electric light.

The ceremony, sponsored by the Mayor and Council, will mark the official acceptance by the city of six new filter units, each with a capacity of 1,000,000 gallons a day, which are being rushed toward completion by the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company.

Remodel Clearwell

Chemical facilities at the city filtration plant have also been modernized by the staff of Evitts Creek Water Company.

Also nearing completion is the modernization of the filtration plant's clearwell, which had to be repaired and revamped after a long-standing leak, caused by a fault in the bottom of the storage tank. Fluoridation of the water is also slated to begin at the ceremony.

Edwards said the ceremony will mark the end of the first phase of a long-range program for the modernization of the city's water system.

Present at the ceremony will be the Mayor and Council and other city officials interested in the water system, Robert T. Regester, consulting engineer for the project, and his assistant E. A. Kidd, both of Baltimore.

Tours Are Planned

B & O Opens Its Home For Aged Steam Engines

McKeldin Speaks At Dedication

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad today opened a new museum for its historic locomotives and other relics a century old, on a note sounded by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin:

"It is a symbol of America's continuing faith in free enterprise and free labor. The State Department, The Voice of America ought to pit these iron horses against the iron curtain. There is more real strength and hope today in a roundhouse in Baltimore than there is in a Red Square in Moscow."

About 1,000 guests saw the museum dedicated with a re-enactment of the laying of the first stone of the B&O, on the Fourth of July in 1828.

The first stone marked the start of construction of the B&O's first rail line, from Baltimore 13 miles west toward Frederick. It was moved in from its original site a mile and a quarter west of the museum and mounted on a new base as part of the ceremonies.

Railroading Shrine

Roy B. White, president of the B&O, dedicated the new setting for the curios with the "hope it will become the shrine of American railroading."

The museum is made up of three historic B&O buildings. The main one is the old passenger car roundhouse, a curious 22-sided building with a high ceiling and dome.

On its 22 tracks will be lined up 11 locomotives which were the mileposts of B&O progress from 1829 until after the Civil War era, from Peter Cooper's Tom Thumb to the first Mogul built in 1875. All but two are original locomotives, most of them built in the adjoining Mount Clare shops just west of Baltimore's downtown business section. The Tom Thumb is a model built from the drawings Cooper used when he built the original at Mount Clare.

Show Bridge Models

An adjoining building which served the B&O half a century as its printing plant houses model locomotives, models of B&O bridges from first to most recent, specimens showing the evolution of iron straps to steel rails and an operating three-line, model railroad that is the envy of model fans.

The third building is historic Mount Clare station, the world's oldest passenger station, where the first tickets for a train ride ever sold in the country were doled out to passengers in 1830.

The museum is open to the public daily except Sunday and Mondays, 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Descendants — great grandsons, great-great grandsons, or great-great-great grandsons of four B&O founders were guests of honor for today's ceremonies. So was a great-great-great grandson of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, who turned the first shovel of earth for the laying of the first stone 125 years ago.

Weather Bureau Promises Relief From Hot Spell

Showers Break Heat Wave In Tri-State

A cool air mass and thundershowers headed slowly eastward yesterday, holding promise of a break in the week-long heat wave as Cumberlanders sweltered in the hottest weather of the summer.

The Weather Bureau's official thermometer at Constitution Park hit 95½ degrees at one time yesterday. Highest temperature previously recorded this year was 95, on three or four days in June.

A brief but refreshing shower early last night provided some relief, and the Weather Bureau said there'd be more this afternoon to end the hot spell in time for the Fourth of July holiday.

Double Rainbow Appears

Cumberlanders were treated to the unusual phenomenon of a double rainbow after last evening's shower, and the temperature dropped eight degrees in an hour. But there wasn't enough rain to measure.

At least one case of heat prostration was treated at a local hospital this week, and hundreds have retreated to hammocks, lawn furniture and front porches to escape the simmering heat.

Thousands of residents have flocked to parks and swimming pools, and one pool reported it has been having "Sunday crowds" on some weekdays.

The Weather Bureau's welcome news was that a mass of cool air from the Pacific had moved into the Midwest yesterday and was expected to reach the East by this evening.

For many Cumberlanders, a break in the heat wave will mean the end of that "lumpy look," which comes of sleeping out with the mosquitoes in order to escape the heat.

Humidity Steamy

It was nearly as hot on the hills as in the hollows yesterday as downtown temperatures, usually a few degrees above the Park readings, kept fairly even pace with the official figures.

The Times-News recording thermometer, which at one time in June brushed 100 degrees, held to 96 as its highest reading yesterday.

But humidity was a major problem. Robert R. Golden, weather observer, said yesterday's figure was 56 per cent at 6 p. m. Anything above 30 or 35 per cent is uncomfortable.

Ninety-degree temperatures have been recorded downtown every day for the past eight days. The only break until last night came last Saturday and Sunday, when showers caused temporary drops in the temperature.

Showers are predicted for this afternoon, and the temperature is expected to drop into the 70s again tonight.

LATE FORECAST

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP) — The weatherman says Maryland should cool off about ten degrees by the Fourth of July.

He predicts cooling rains by late tomorrow afternoon followed by a wave of cool air from the north.

14,507 Voters Are Registered In Cumberland

The City of Cumberland had 14,507 voters registered on June 30, according to Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk.

The total is seven less than were registered on May 31, as deaths outnumbered registrations two to one.

Seven new voters, four male and three females, were added in June and one voter secured a change of precinct.

Present registration includes 7,680 white males; 6,557 white female; 173 colored male and 97 colored female.

Month by month, the city voting records are approaching bed-rock as books are revised to eliminate those who have not voted for five years, and the known dead.

Today's rolls actually reflect a cut of about one-third from the 21,516 names listed on city voting records in 1951, when the continuous registration system was begun.

Teamsters Union Adopts Insurance Plan

By C. W. BLACKBURN

Comprehensive health and welfare benefits were provided for 550 members of Cumberland Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), on June 1 under an insurance plan financed by 28 companies.

The benefits are provided through the Cumberland, Maryland Area Teamsters Welfare Insurance Fund, which has its office in the Teamsters Union headquarters here.

The health and welfare plan, Local 453 officials said, includes the following benefits:

Group life insurance for employes—$1,500 natural death, and $3,000 accidental death.

Accidental death and dismemberment benefits of up to $1,500.

Sickness and accident benefits (non occupational) for employes of $20 a week. Accident benefits begin on the first day and sickness on the eighth day.

Claims are paid by the Providential Life and Accident Insurance Company, Chattanooga, Tenn., after being certified by the Welfare Fund office here.

C. E. Stutzman, secretary-treasurer of the fund, said the benefits are provided through employer contributions of $8.67 a month for each employe.

Present coverage is about half of the 1,100 members and union officials said plans are being made to bring all members into the welfare plan as contracts are negotiated this year.

Claims Already Paid

Employers may include their office staffs in the plan, Stutzman said.

The welfare plan, which has been under study for some time here, was set up on March 1, and workers were eligible for benefits on June 1.

Four claims have already been paid and 13 others are pending, officials said.

The plan is under the supervision of four trustees—Stutzman and C. E. Bramble, president, for the union, and L. S. Shore, chairman, of the Wilson Freight Forwarding Company, Cincinnati, and R. J. Martin, of Mid States Freight Lines, Chicago, for the companies.

Mrs. Lona Allison is insurance clerk employed by the trust fund to operate the local office. Bedford area claims are handled by the Teamsters office in Bedford and forwarded to the Cumberland office.

More Coverage Planned

Stutzman said that in case of furloughs, employers may continue to pay benefits for their workers for one year, and deduct the cost from pay when the men return to work. Workers can continue to pay the premiums for the same time in case of layoffs.

Actual cost of the coverage, officials said, is $7.89, with the balance needed for administration costs.

Officials said the trustees sent specifications and asked bids from 10 firms to secure the coverage provided this year.

Stutzman said the union hopes to improve the plan next year.

Similar health and welfare insurance plans have been set up by all of the large Teamster unions in the country.

Local firms included in the list of 28 companies in the fund are the Maryland Motor Lines, Morris Motor Express, Chaney Transportation Company, Cumberland Motor Express, Charlton Brothers Transportation Company, Kenneweg Grocery Company, C. D. Kenny, Prichard Corporation, Cumberland Undergarment Company and Tri-State Towel and Coat Service.

Firemen Answer Two Alarms

Central Fire Company was called to a Western Maryland Railway trestle near Community Ball Park at 7:05 p. m. yesterday when rail ties used to shore up an embankment at one end of the trestle caught fire. The structure was not damaged.

Less than an hour later, the same company was called to the home of Miss Ruth Rhodes, 180 Wineow Street, in the same neighborhood, when a flue connected to a gas range caught fire at 7:51 p. m. There was no damage.

Birds Homeless As Fire Damages Franklin Home

Several families of birds were left homeless as considerable damage was caused by fire yesterday afternoon to the roof of the residence of Earl Kalbaugh in Franklin, Md.

The blaze broke out about 4:40 p. m. as workmen were removing old paint from the house in preparation for a new coat.

The fire started according to Kalbaugh, who recently purchased the home of Paul Gannon, when straw from a number of birds nests ignited as workers used blow torches.

Volunteer firemen from Potomac Fire Company No. 2, Westernport, and Tri-Towns Fire Company, Piedmont, had to chop through the roof in several places to get to the smouldering flames.

The roof was practically destroyed and water and smoke damage was caused to the interior of the home which is covered by insurance.

At present the total number of applicants with the local office is 2,007, Kenney pointed out that 132 persons were placed in local jobs during June and 53 employers were visited by staff personnel in an effort to develop job openings for the unemployed.

Seven persons were given tests by the office,—four aptitude and three proficiency tests, which included typing and shorthand.

At the end of last month, 43 unfilled jobs were listed with the office, most of which consisted of restaurant work, domestic help and various types of hospital attendant jobs.

Lawyers Protest Telephone Rate Boost Proposal

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP)—Lawyers for Maryland and Baltimore City asked the Public Service Commission today to deny a request by the Chespeake and Potomac Telephone Co. for a permanent rate boost.

The company since last February has had so-called temporary boosts of 25 and 50 cents a month. And the telephone company wants these made permanent.

Today counsel for the city and state filed a brief with the PSC saying the company is earning an adequate rate of return and does not need the increases.

The counsel contended the boosts which total about $863,000 a year, aren't needed to bring the firms earnings into the range fixed as reasonable by the PSC.

The company's brief said however, its level of earnings is unsatisfactory and has deteriorated since hearings on the application for a temporary increase.

Police Release Goethe Street Holdup Suspect

Celanese Man Tells Of Midnight Robbery

Police yesterday released a Cumberland man who was arrested after after a Celanese worker reported he had been held up and robbed of $73 as he walked toward his East Side home shortly after midnight Wednesday.

Harold L. Sherwood, 46, of 629 Yale Street, told Detective Leo E. P. Law that a man stuck a gun in his back at about 12:20 a. m. on Goethe Street, took his wallet and a notebook and fled.

Law arrested a local man after hearing Sherwood's description of his assailant. Detective Lt. James E. Van said later investigation failed to establish any definite connection between the prisoner and the holdup.

Sherwood told police he mislaid his car keys at work and hitched a ride to Baltimore and Centre streets with Marion Evans of Bedford Road.

Then he walked out Baltimore Street, Baltimore Avenue and Goethe Street toward his home. As he approached the "last trees" on Goethe Street, someone put a revolver against his back and said:

"Shut up and don't say nothing."

Somewhat shaken, Sherwood dropped his wallet as he was handing it over to the gunman. The bandit ordered him to pick it up, then snatched a notebook from Sherwood's hip pocket for no apparent reason.

Then he told Sherwood to continue on his way up the street, and fled. Sherwood went home and called police.

He described the robber as being between 25 and 30 years old, with sunken cheeks and a "weather-beaten" face, weighing about 160 pounds, and standing five feet, eight inches tall. He wore a dark shirt and trousers, and no hat or coat.

Several residents of Goethe Street, who were sitting on their front porches at the time of the holdup, said they noticed no suspicious characters in the area.

16 Are Enrolled In Course Of Auto Mechanics

Sixteen persons have enrolled in the part time, auto mechanics course which began Wednesday evening at the Allegany Trades School, Walnut and Paca Streets.

Julius D. Lonnholm, director of industrial education of the Allegany County Board of Education, which has arranged the school, yesterday said the hours of the course are from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Friday and completion of the course takes three years.

Veterans who have served in the armed forces 90 days or more after June 27, 1950 and who have been discharged under circumstances other than dishonorable are eligible to enroll and may do so any time, Lonnholm added.

The trades school, although primarily for veterans, is for others upon payment of the regular tuition fees, Ira Northcraft, registrar, pointed out.

The part time auto instruction has been arranged by the Board of Education for veterans and others who wish to enroll for training while continuing their regular jobs.

Students learn basic and fundamentals of the automotive trade along with some shop management. Instructor of the course is Robert R. Martin.

The only vocational trade training facility in Western Maryland, the Allegany Trades School is approved by the State Department of Education and the Veterans Administration.

Persons desiring to enroll may call at the Paca Street office or telephone 1466 regarding tuition, enrollment qualifications and VA requirements.

Tags may be obtained from 9 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p. m. today, but the office will be closed tomorrow because of the Fourth of July holiday.

Mail Isn't All Carriers Find In Letterboxes

BY LARRY GRECO

Did you ever wonder sometimes what mail carriers find in mail boxes other than letters and parcels?

Thomas F. Hannon, assisant superintendent at the local post office, can tell you it's not always nice, but as a whole Cumberlanders are kinder to carriers than in other cities in the country.

On their daily task of delivering the mail and picking up letters and packages from boxes and relay containers, carriers find the usual run of candy wrappers, crushed cigaret packs, burnt match sticks, waste paper and other debris which belongs in the trash cans.

Popular items, however, are wallets and women's purses. Hannon explained that people who find or steal these items strip the wallets or purses of any money and then toss them in mail boxes to be delivered to their owners.

Even Thieves Are Decent

Hannon, who has an unstaggering belief in human nature, added that even thieves and pickpockets have the innate desire to give back what they can't use, such as private papers and other personal cards.

Another case, which was blamed on juveniles, was the burning of a mail box after somebody tossed a lighted match inside. "All the letters were damaged," Hannon said, "and all we could do was apologize to the senders."

Sometimes we get the last laugh on indignant customers," Hannon continued. "Not long ago, a heated resident called the postmaster and in words that would scorch the paint off the receiver, told him she had mailed two letters and wanted to know why they hadn't been received in a nearby town in the past two weeks."

Well, It Looked Like One

"Our investigation uncovered that she had mailed the two letters in a 'Help Keep Cumberland Clean' trash can," Hannon chuckled.

The postmaster's office at the same time receives many letters with complaints of children's pranks. One of these letters was from a rural resident who stated that she didn't mind finding rotten eggs, old lamp wicks, broken bottles, etc. in her mail box, but that recently her health did not allow her to walk a mile up the road to get her mail.

She explained that pranksters had exchanged her mail box with her name on it for one of a neighbor's, about a mile further on the route, and the new carrier didn't know where she lived.

Usually, Hannon added, carriers adjust most of the difficulties with calm patience. Carriers themselves are very often victims of pranksters who move relay boxes around the corner, wire boxes so they can't be opened, put chewing gum in the keyholes of locks, and other pranks spurred by children's fancies.

And Even Alley Cats

Thomas B. Cumiskey Jr., assistant postmaster, tells of a carrier finding a frightened cat in a relay box. When the carrier opened the container, the cat, frightened and hungry from a night's imprisonment darted out, clawed the startled carrier and headed for an alley.

Many times, Hannon went on, carriers perform countless services for absent-minded or careless residents. Often persons pulling letters from pockets toss important papers, checks and other valuables into boxes along with the leters to be mailed.

When the carrier finds such articles, he turns them in to the Post Office, where the resident may recover them by proper identification.

New filter units, which will boost the capacity of the city's water system to 18,000,000 gallons a day, will be dedicated July 15 at 2 p. m. at a public ceremony at the Lake Gordon filtration plant, according to William J. Edwards, city commissioner of water and electric light.

The ceremony, sponsored by the Mayor and Council, will mark the official acceptance by the city of six new filter units, each with a capacity of 1,000,000 gallons a day, which are being rushed toward completion by the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company.

Remodel Clearwell

The $237,210 contract also includes a number of other projects connected with the modernization of the filter plant.

Chemical facilities at the city filtration plant have also been modernized by the staff of Evitts Creek Water Company.

Also nearing completion is the modernization of the filtration plant's clearwell, which had to be repaired and revamped after a long-standing leak, caused by a fault in the bottom of the storage tank. Fluoridation of the water is also slated to begin at the ceremony.

Edwards said the ceremony will mark the end of the first phase of a long-range program for the modernization of the city's water system.

Present at the ceremony will be the Mayor and Council and other city officials interested in the water system, Robert T. Regester, consulting engineer for the project, and his assistant E. A. Kidd, both of Baltimore.

Tours Are Planned

Top officials of the Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia boards of health, are being invited to attend.

George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the filtration plant, will conduct tours of the new facilities following the ceremonies.

B & O Opens Its Home For Aged Steam Engines

McKeldin Speaks At Dedication

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad today opened a new museum for its historic locomotives and other relics a century old, on a note sounded by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin:

"It is a symbol of America's continuing faith in free enterprise and free labor. The State Department, The Voice of America ought to pit these iron horses against the iron curtain. There is more real strength and hope today in a roundhouse in Baltimore than there is in a Red Square in Moscow."

About 1,000 guests saw the museum dedicated with a re-enactment of the laying of the first stone of the B&O, on the Fourth of July in 1828.

The first stone marked the start of construction of the B&O's first rail line, from Baltimore 13 miles west toward Frederick. It was moved in from its original site a mile and a quarter west of the museum and mounted on a new base as part of the ceremonies.

Railroading Shrine

Roy B. White, president of the B&O, dedicated the new setting for the curios with the "hope it will become the shrine of American railroading."

The museum is made up of three historic B&O buildings. The main one is the old passenger car roundhouse, a curious 22-sided building with a high ceiling and dome.

On its 22 tracks will be lined up 11 locomotives which were the mileposts of B&O progress from 1829 until after the Civil War era, from Peter Cooper's Tom Thumb to the first Mogul built in 1875. All but two are original locomotives, most of them built in the adjoining Mount Clare shops just west of Baltimore's downtown business section. The Tom Thumb is a model built from the drawings Cooper used when he built the original at Mount Clare.

Show Bridge Models

An adjoining building which served the B&O half a century as its printing plant houses model locomotives, models of B&O bridges from first to most recent, specimens showing the evolution of iron straps to steel rails and an operating three-line, model railroad that is the envy of model fans.

The third building is historic Mount Clare station, the world's oldest passenger station, where the first tickets for a train ride ever sold in the country were doled out to passengers in 1830.

The museum is open to the public daily except Sunday and Mondays, 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Descendants — great grandsons, great-great grandsons, or great-great-great grandsons of four B&O founders were guests of honor for today's ceremonies. So was a great-great-great grandson of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, who turned the first shovel of earth for the laying of the first stone 125 years ago.

14,507 Voters Are Registered In Cumberland

The City of Cumberland had 14,507 voters registered on June 30, according to Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk.

The total is seven less than were registered on May 31, as deaths outnumbered registrations two to one.

Seven new voters, four male and three females, were added in June and one voter secured a change of precinct.

The names of 14 known dead, however, were stricken off the books.

Present registration includes 7,680 white males; 6,557 white female; 173 colored male and 97 colored female.

Month by month, the city voting records are approaching bed-rock as books are revised to eliminate those who have not voted for five years, and the known dead.

Today's rolls actually reflect a cut of about one-third from the 21,516 names listed on city voting records in 1951, when the continuous registration system was begun.

Weather Bureau Promises Relief From Hot Spell

Showers Break Heat Wave In Tri-State

A cool air mass and thundershowers headed slowly eastward yesterday, holding promise of a break in the week-long heat wave as Cumberlanders sweltered in the hottest weather of the summer.

The Weather Bureau's official thermometer at Constitution Park hit 95½ degrees at one time yesterday. Highest temperature previously recorded this year was 95, on three or four days in June.

A brief but refreshing shower early last night provided some relief, and the Weather Bureau said there'd be more this afternoon to end the hot spell in time for the Fourth of July holiday.

Double Rainbow Appears

Cumberlanders were treated to the unusual phenomenon of a double rainbow after last evening's shower, and the temperature dropped eight degrees in an hour. But there wasn't enough rain to measure.

At least one case of heat prostration was treated at a local hospital this week, and hundreds have retreated to hammocks, lawn furniture and front porches to escape the simmering heat.

Thousands of residents have flocked to parks and swimming pools, and one pool reported it has been having "Sunday crowds" on some weekdays.

The Weather Bureau's welcome news was that a mass of cool air from the Pacific had moved into the Midwest yesterday and was expected to reach the East by this evening.

For many Cumberlanders, a break in the heat wave will mean the end of that "lumpy look," which comes of sleeping out with the mosquitoes in order to escape the heat.

Humidity Steamy

It was nearly as hot on the hills as in the hollows yesterday as downtown temperatures, usually a few degrees above the Park readings, kept fairly even pace with the official figures.

The Times-News recording thermometer, which at one time in June brushed 100 degrees, held to 96 as its highest reading yesterday.

But humidity was a major problem. Robert R. Golden, weather observer, said yesterday's figure was 56 per cent at 6 p. m. Anything above 30 or 35 per cent is uncomfortable.

Ninety-degree temperatures have been recorded downtown every day for the past eight days. The only break until last night came last Saturday and Sunday, when showers caused temporary drops in the temperature.

Showers are predicted for this afternoon, and the temperature is expected to drop into the 70s again tonight.

LATE FORECAST

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP) — The weatherman says Maryland should cool off about ten degrees by the Fourth of July.

He predicts cooling rains by late tomorrow afternoon followed by a wave of cool air from the north.

Teamsters Union Adopts Insurance Plan

By C. W. BLACKBURN

Comprehensive health and welfare benefits were provided for 550 members of Cumberland Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), on June 1 under an insurance plan financed by 28 companies.

The benefits are provided through the Cumberland, Maryland Area Teamsters Welfare Insurance Fund, which has its office in the Teamsters Union headquarters here.

The health and welfare plan, Local 453 officials said, includes the following benefits:

Group life insurance for employes—$1,500 natural death, and $3,000 accidental death.

Accidental death and dismemberment benefits of up to $1,500.

Sickness and accident benefits (non occupational) for employes of $20 a week. Accident benefits begin on the first day and sickness on the eighth day.

The plan includes immediate coverage for pregnancy for employes and dependents.

Surgical benefits, with maximum payments of $200, are available for employes and dependents.

Hospital benefits of $8 a day, with a $160 maximum, and $3 daily allowance for physician's services, up to $93, are provided.

Claims are paid by the Providential Life and Accident Insurance Company, Chattanooga, Tenn., after being certified by the Welfare Fund office here.

C. E. Stutzman, secretary-treasurer of the fund, said the benefits are provided through employer contributions of $8.67 a month for each employe.

Present coverage is about half of the 1,100 members and union officials said plans are being made to bring all members into the welfare plan as contracts are negotiated this year.

Claims Already Paid

Employers may include their office staffs in the plan, Stutzman said.

The welfare plan, which has been under study for some time here, was set up on March 1, and workers were eligible for benefits on June 1.

Four claims have already been paid and 13 others are pending, officials said.

The plan is under the supervision of four trustees—Stutzman and C. E. Bramble, president, for the union, and L. S. Shore, chairman, of the Wilson Freight Forwarding Company, Cincinnati, and R. J. Martin, of Mid States Freight Lines, Chicago, for the companies.

Mrs. Lona Allison is insurance clerk employed by the trust fund to operate the local office. Bedford area claims are handled by the Teamsters office in Bedford and forwarded to the Cumberland office.

More Coverage Planned

Stutzman said that in case of furloughs, employers may continue to pay benefits for their workers for one year, and deduct the cost from pay when the men return to work. Workers can continue to pay the premiums for the same time in case of layoffs.

Actual cost of the coverage, officials said, is $7.89, with the balance needed for administration costs.

Officials said the trustees sent specifications and asked bids from 10 firms to secure the coverage provided this year.

Stutzman said the union hopes to improve the plan next year.

Similar health and welfare insurance plans have been set up by all of the large Teamster unions in the country.

Local firms included in the list of 28 companies in the fund are the Maryland Motor Lines, Morris Motor Express, Chaney Transportation Company, Cumberland Motor Express, Charlton Brothers Transportation Company, Kenneweg Grocery Company, C. D. Kenny, Prichard Corporation, Cumberland Undergarment Company and Tri-State Towel and Coat Service.

Firemen Answer Two Alarms

Birds Homeless As Fire Damages Franklin Home

Several families of birds were left homeless as considerable damage was caused by fire yesterday afternoon to the roof of the residence of Earl Kalbaugh in Franklin, Md.

The blaze broke out about 4:40 p. m. as workmen were removing old paint from the house in preparation for a new coat.

The fire started according to Kalbaugh, who recently purchased the home of Paul Gannon, when straw from a number of birds nests ignited as workers used blow torches.

Volunteer firemen from Potomac Fire Company No. 2, Westernport, and Tri-Towns Fire Company, Piedmont, had to chop through the roof in several places to get to the smouldering flames.

The roof was practically destroyed and water and smoke damage was caused to the interior of the home which is covered by insurance.

At present the total number of applicants with the local office is 2,007, Kenney pointed out that 132 persons were placed in local jobs during June and 53 employers were visited by staff personnel in an effort to develop job openings for the unemployed.

Seven persons were given tests by the office,—four aptitude and three proficiency tests, which included typing and shorthand.

Lawyers Protest Telephone Rate Boost Proposal

BALTIMORE, July 2 (AP)—Lawyers for Maryland and Baltimore City asked the Public Service Commission today to deny a request by the Chespeake and Potomac Telephone Co. for a permanent rate boost.

The company since last February has had so-called temporary boosts of 25 and 50 cents a month. And the telephone company wants these made permanent.

Today counsel for the city and state filed a brief with the PSC saying the company is earning an adequate rate of return and does not need the increases.

The counsel contended the boosts which total about $863,000 a year, aren't needed to bring the firms earnings into the range fixed as reasonable by the PSC.

The company's brief said however, its level of earnings is unsatisfactory and has deteriorated since hearings on the application for a temporary increase.

Police Release Goethe Street Holdup Suspect

Celanese Man Tells Of Midnight Robbery

Police yesterday released a Cumberland man who was arrested after after a Celanese worker reported he had been held up and robbed of $73 as he walked toward his East Side home shortly after midnight Wednesday.

Harold L. Sherwood, 46, of 629 Yale Street, told Detective Leo E. P. Law that a man stuck a gun in his back at about 12:20 a. m. on Goethe Street, took his wallet and a notebook and fled.

Law arrested a local man after hearing Sherwood's description of his assailant. Detective Lt. James E. Van said later investigation failed to establish any definite connection between the prisoner and the holdup.

Sherwood told police he mislaid his car keys at work and hitched a ride to Baltimore and Centre streets with Marion Evans of Bedford Road.

Then he walked out Baltimore Street, Baltimore Avenue and Goethe Street toward his home. As he approached the "last trees" on Goethe Street, someone put a revolver against his back and said:

"Shut up and don't say nothing."

Somewhat shaken, Sherwood dropped his wallet as he was handing it over to the gunman. The bandit ordered him to pick it up, then snatched a notebook from Sherwood's hip pocket for no apparent reason.

Then he told Sherwood to continue on his way up the street, and fled. Sherwood went home and called police.

He described the robber as being between 25 and 30 years old, with sunken cheeks and a "weather-beaten" face, weighing about 160 pounds, and standing five feet, eight inches tall. He wore a dark shirt and trousers, and no hat or coat.

Several residents of Goethe Street, who were sitting on their front porches at the time of the holdup, said they noticed no suspicious characters in the area.

16 Are Enrolled In Course Of Auto Mechanics

Sixteen persons have enrolled in the part time, auto mechanics course which began Wednesday evening at the Allegany Trades School, Walnut and Paca Streets.

Julius D. Lonnholm, director of industrial education of the Allegany County Board of Education, which has arranged the school, yesterday said the hours of the course are from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Friday and completion of the course takes three years.

Veterans who have served in the armed forces 90 days or more after June 27, 1950 and who have been discharged under circumstances other than dishonorable are eligible to enroll and may do so any time, Lonnholm added.

The trades school, although primarily for veterans, is for others upon payment of the regular tuition fees, Ira Northcraft, registrar, pointed out.

The part time auto instruction has been arranged by the Board of Education for veterans and others who wish to enroll for training while continuing their regular jobs.

Students learn basic and fundamentals of the automotive trade along with some shop management. Instructor of the course is Robert R. Martin.

The only vocational trade training facility in Western Maryland, the Allegany Trades School is approved by the State Department of Education and the Veterans Administration.

Persons desiring to enroll may call at the Paca Street office or telephone 1466 regarding tuition, enrollment qualifications and VA requirements.

Mail Isn't All Carriers Find In Letterboxes

BY LARRY GRECO

Did you ever wonder sometimes what mail carriers find in mail boxes other than letters and parcels?

Thomas F. Hannon, assisant superintendent at the local post office, can tell you it's not always nice, but as a whole Cumberlanders are kinder to carriers than in other cities in the country.

On their daily task of delivering the mail and picking up letters and packages from boxes and relay containers, carriers find the usual run of candy wrappers, crushed cigaret packs, burnt match sticks, waste paper and other debris which belongs in the trash cans.

Popular items, however, are wallets and women's purses. Hannon explained that people who find or steal these items strip the wallets or purses of any money and then toss them in mail boxes to be delivered to their owners.

Even Thieves Are Decent

Hannon, who has an unstaggering belief in human nature, added that even thieves and pickpockets have the innate desire to give back what they can't use, such as private papers and other personal cards.

Another case, which was blamed on juveniles, was the burning of a mail box after somebody tossed a lighted match inside. "All the letters were damaged," Hannon said, "and all we could do was apologize to the senders."

Sometimes we get the last laugh on indignant customers," Hannon continued. "Not long ago, a heated resident called the postmaster and in words that would scorch the paint off the receiver, told him she had mailed two letters and wanted to know why they hadn't been received in a nearby town in the past two weeks."

Well, It Looked Like One

"Our investigation uncovered that she had mailed the two letters in a 'Help Keep Cumberland Clean' trash can," Hannon chuckled.

The postmaster's office at the same time receives many letters with complaints of children's pranks. One of these letters was from a rural resident who stated that she didn't mind finding rotten eggs, old lamp wicks, broken bottles, etc. in her mail box, but that recently her health did not allow her to walk a mile up the road to get her mail.

She explained that pranksters had exchanged her mail box with her name on it for one of a neighbor's, about a mile further on the route, and the new carrier didn't know where she lived.

Usually, Hannon added, carriers adjust most of the difficulties with calm patience. Carriers themselves are very often victims of pranksters who move relay boxes around the corner, wire boxes so they can't be opened, put chewing gum in the keyholes of locks, and other pranks spurred by children's fancies.

And Even Alley Cats

Thomas B. Cumiskey Jr., assistant postmaster, tells of a carrier finding a frightened cat in a relay box. When the carrier opened the container, the cat, frightened and hungry from a night's imprisonment, darted out, clawed the startled carrier and headed for an alley.

Many times, Hannon went on, carriers perform countless services for absent-minded or careless residents. Often persons pulling letters from pockets toss important papers, checks and other valuables into boxes along with the leters to be mailed.

When the carrier finds such articles, he turns them in to the Post Office, where the resident may recover them by proper identification.

Hannon stressed that persons caught destroying, moving or otherwise tampering with postal property are liable for government action. Some offenses carry heavy penalties.
